JAPAN INSISTS ON 10-10-7 PLAN, LEADER AVERS

Capital Officials Ready to Receive Envoys From Far East Today.

LATEST DECLARATION MOST FORCIBLE YET

Former Premier Asserts Auxiliary Increase Is to Be Demanded.

CONVERSATIONS HERE WILL BE PRELIMINARY

Major Questions Are to Be Settled at Conference in London.

(Associated Press.)

The definite announcement that the Japanese delegation to the London naval conference will press for a 10-10-7 ratio in auxiliary craft among the British, American and Japanese navies claimed the attention of diplomatic and naval officials last night as they prepared for the coming today of the Japanese delegates.

While the question is looked upon by officials here as one for final determination by the conference itself, it is expected that the Japanese case in demanding a 10-10-7 ratio in auxiliary ships for the American, British and Japanese navies in place of the 5-5-3 ratio established for capital ships at the Washington arms conference will be laid before the American Government during the conversations between American and Japanese officials during the next four days.

The 10-10-7 ratio in auxiliary craft, although known to the interested naval powers to be a desire of the Japanese, appeared last night to be a certain demand at the parley in view of the statement of Reifiro Wakatsuki, former premier of Japan and head of the delegation, that his government will "insist" upon the 70 per cent tonnage.

Assertion Most Forcible Yet.

The delegate's declaration was considered to be the most forcible one so far to indicate that the Japanese will enter the conference with the demand for an increased ratio, one of its most important issues.

The conversations which the delegates, former Premier Reijiro Wakatsuki and Admiral Takeshi Takerabe, Japanese minister of marine, will have with President Hoover, Secretary Stimson and the American delegates to the London conference will be of a preliminary nature. Questions of major policy concerning the navies of the two countries will be settled at the conference itself.

Submarine Views Clash.

From the Japanese, little support is expected here for the suggestion that submarines be abolished as a unit of fighting fleets. Late last month press dispatches from Tokyo, in giving details of what was generally considered there to be the Japanese desire for their navy, indicated that the Japanese commission at the parley might demand parity with the United States and Great Britain in undersea craft.

Called Vital Weapons.

The Japanese consider that, with a navy of the size of their own, the submarine is a vital weapon of defense. When limitation of submarines was discussed at the Washington conference, the Japanese demanded a tonnage assignment of 54,000 tons in this category, contending that lower figures were wholly inadequate for Japanese defensive purposes.

It also was contended at that time that Japan's remote position from the other powers, except China, would make its undersea craft no menace to any other nation.

The defensive needs of the three major naval powers—the United States, Great Britain and Japan—are closely linked with the final settlement of the ratio assignment for these powers. In the Anglo-American negotiations in London between Ambassador Dawes on behalf of President Hoover and Prime Minister MacDonald, an agreement on parity in auxiliary craft between the two nations was reached.

Secretaries to Meet Delegates.

The Japanese delegates will be met at Union Station here by Secretaries Stimson and Adams and officials of the State and Navy Departments. Capt. Alan Buchanan, naval aid to the President, will be the representative of the Chief Executive. The commission will be presented to President Hoover this afternoon and arrangements for conferences with the President and other American officials will be made then.

Chicago, Dec. 15 (A.P.).—Japanese delegates are prepared to declare their favor of postponement of the replacement of capital ships at the London armament conference in January because it would lighten the burden of their national budget, Reijiro Wakat-

GIRL REVEALS NAME AS COMA VEIL LIFTS

MOTHER WIRES HER LOVE

Regaining consciousness for the first time since she collapsed under the influence of a powerful narcotic in St. John's Episcopal Church last Wednesday, Washington's "mystery girl" identified herself yesterday, during the few fleeting seconds before she lapsed again into her coma, as Antoinette Brewster, "wife of a man named Ruggles," and daughter of the Rev. George W. Brewster, pastor of the Christian Church, of Selma, Calif.

For four days the police had maintained a constant watch at the bedside of the attractive 22-year-old woman in Emergency Hospital. Shortly after noon yesterday, while Capt. William G. Stott, of the Third Precinct, stood beside her cot, she opened her eyes and looked wonderingly about the white ward.

"What is your name?" asked Capt. Stott, bending low to listen. There was no response. He changed his question.

"Are you Antoinette Brewster?" he asked, and the girl nodded affirmatively.

Capt. Stott then asked the girl to tell her father's name, which she did, but declared his home was in Fresno, Calif. It has been several years since the preacher and his family moved from Fresno to the little village of Selma, about 30 miles south.

"Are you married?" the police official inquired. The girl nodded again.

"What is your husband's name?" was the next inquiry.

It was a long time before she replied. Her strength was waning visibly, and she seemed to be having difficulty to collect her thoughts which apparently still were distorted from the effects of the drug she had swallowed. At last, however, she spoke, in a voice so faint that Capt. Stott could hear only by placing his ear close against her mouth.

"Ruggles," she said, gasping, as consciousness slipped from her and she lay inert and insensible again.

This information, brief though it was, served to complete partial information which had been obtained by the Police Department in the four days since the girl was taken to the hospital. On a baggage check found among her belongings there had been the name and address of Antoinette Brewster, of Selma, Calif.

Inquiry had revealed the fact that the Rev. George W. Brewster lived at

BANK COMBINE PLANNED HERE UNDER COOPER

Commercial National and Continental Trust Figure in Deal.

MERGER MAY BECOME EFFECTIVE 'ANY TIME'

$20,000,000 of Deposits Represented in Both Institutions.

OTHER CONCERNS MAY BE ABSORBED BY UNIT

President of Continental Is Also President of U. S. Savings.

A consolidation of the Commercial National Bank and the Continental Trust Co. is being negotiated and its consummation is imminent, it was learned last night from an authoritative source. Col. Wade H. Cooper, president of the Continental Trust Co., said in response to inquiry last night, that negotiations between the institutions are pending whereby they may be merged, with himself becoming president of the combined banks, which would be known as the Commercial National Bank. Col. Cooper admitted that the consolidation may become effective at any time.

The proposed merger will represent a combination of approximately $20,000,000 in deposits, the Commercial National Bank showing deposits of about $16,000,000 as of October 4, date of the last call of Comptroller of the Currency Pole, and the Continental Trust Co. revealing approximately $3,000,000. Deposits of the institutions were announced last night as $16,000,000 and more than $3,000,000, respectively. The Commercial National Bank has capital and surplus of $1,700,000 and the Continental Trust Co., $1,250,000, it was said.

Should the consolidation be effected it is also understood that other institutions may be added to it later. Col. Cooper is also president of the United States Savings Bank at 2000 Fourteenth street northwest, which has been paying a dividend of 30 per cent for the past several years and is regarded as one of the best dividend-bearing institutions in the country.

Commercial 25 Years Old.

The Commercial National Bank, president of which is R. Golden Donaldson, is located at the northwest corner of Fourteenth and G streets northwest and is 25 years old, opening for business in banking rooms which then occupied the present bank site October 19, 1904. In the course of a few years its growth demanded an expansion which resulted in the erection of the modern building it now owns and occupies. Last October its assets were announced as more than $20,000,000.

It has an investment department and a real estate department with which the Commercial National Co., a separate corporation, was formed to handle every kind of investment business. It also has a trust department possessing a personnel trained to act in every fiduciary capacity and a safe deposit department.

The Continental Trust Co., situated at the northeast corner of Fourteenth and H streets northwest and also offering complete financial service, is 17 years old, having been established in banking rooms at 1405 G street September 1, 1912, and moving into its present location five years later. Its first president was the late Nathan B. Scott, former United States Sena-

TWO BEGIN NONSTOP TRANSATLANTIC HOP

South American, Frenchman Pass Over Morocco on Way From Spain to Uruguay.

WEATHER FAVORS THEM

Seville, Spain, Dec. 15 (A.P.).—Two aviators tonight were embarked on the great adventure of an attempted nonstop flight to South America over a route where five successful expeditions have preceded them, but where several have failed.

Maj. Tadeo Larre-Borges was seeking to fulfill a long-held dream of linking Montevideo, capital of his native Uruguay, to the Spanish motherland by a single flight. His copilot was Lieut. Challes, a Frenchman with a distinguished record of other long-distance flights.

They left here at 12:40 p. m. (7:40 a. m., E. S. T.) today and at 3:25 p. m. flew over Casa Blanca, Morocco. In the first three hours of their flight they had covered nearly 300 miles. They were favored with fine weather over the first stage of their flight and tonight had a nearly full moon to light their way down the tropical coast.

The aviators intended to skirt the western shores of Africa, as far as Cape Jubi in southern Morocco and then head out across the Atlantic, perhaps passing the Canary and Cape Verde Islands, toward Brazil. They expected to pick up the South American continent in the vicinity of Natal, Brazil, and would then follow the coast line to Montevideo, if their fuel lasts. There was even talk of pushing on farther if conditions were favorable in an effort to set a new world distance record.

Using 450-Horsepower Motor.

Their airplane is a large white Breguet biplane with a 450-horsepower Lorraine motor and dual controls. It is equipped with a radio. The plane was loaded with about 1,400 gallons of gasoline.

The last successful flight from Europe to South America was that of Capt. Arturo Ferrarin and Maj. B. Del Prete in July, 1928. They set a new world record, later broken by Dieudonne Coste, of 4,600 miles in flying from Rome to Brazil in 59 hours.

If the Uruguayan aviator maintains an equal speed he should reach the coast of Brazil early Tuesday morning.

Among the earlier successful flights across the south Atlantic were those of Captains Sacadura and Coutinho, Portuguese, June, 1922; Capt. Ramon Franco, Spaniard, January, 1926; Commander Francesco De Piendo, Italian, February, 1927; and Maj. Sarmento Beires, March, 1927.

Larre-Borge's Second Effort.

Maj. Tadeo Larre-Borges is making his second attempt to fly to South America from Europe. On February 20, 1927, he left Marina de Pisa, Italy, on the first leg of a projected flight to Montevideo. The route selected then was similar to that on which he started Sunday.

Larre-Borges had three companions, including his brother, Glauco, who was radio operator. They used a plane with two motors. After having been unreported for several days their plane was found wrecked in Morocco. A week later they arrived safely at Cape Jubi under escort of a Moorish

KILLING BARES RICH MERCHANT AS BANK THIEF

$319,000 in Stolen Bonds Recovered in Raid After Slaying.

ACCIDENT IN TRAFFIC BRINGS REVELATIONS

Frederick Dane Shoots Policeman and Flees in Stolen Car.

SEARCH OF HOUSE REVEALS ARSENAL

Securities Were Taken During Holdup of Bank in Wisconsin.

Benton Harbor, Mich., Dec. 15 (A. P.).—Frederick Dane, 40, until last night regarded here as a wealthy Chicago merchant, tonight was being hunted throughout the Middle West as a murderer and bank robber with a $10,000 price on his head.

The sudden change in his reputation here resulted from a minor traffic accident last night. In the argument which followed, Dane shot and killed Charles Skelly, 30, St. Joseph motorcycle patrolman, and escaped in a stolen automobile after wrecking his own car.

St. Joseph officers who invaded Dane's home found two machines guns with several hundred rounds of ammunition, two high-powered rifles, a sawed-off shotgun, bags and cans of shells, tear bombs and in a locked closet discovered $319,850 worth of securities which Sheriff Fred G. Bryant and Prosecutor Wilbur M. Cunningham say were stolen from the Farmers & Merchants Bank of Jefferson, Wis., November 7. The bonds were identified in a telephone conversation today with L. H. Smith, president of the bank.

Feared Fingerprinting, Belief.

Officers are convinced Dane shot Skelly rather than run the risk of being fingerprinted at the police station. Previous to the shooting, however, the police had no record involving him. He purchased the Lake Shore property in an exclusive section a few months ago and had the house remodeled and luxuriously furnished.

He told a few people that he owned a string of gasoline stations in Gary, Ind. It has been learned that he also went under the name of Herbert Church, of the Columbia Commercial Feed Co., 1222 Grigley Building, Chicago, officers said.

Dane was recognized by witnesses to the shooting and receipted garage bills also were found in his car which he wrecked near the southern limits of the city, prior to forcing Monroe Wolf, a House of David member whom he stopped on Winchester avenue, to drive him south of Stevensville. In a pursuit that continued until his trail was lost early Sunday, Dane several times eluded the officers by minutes.

Trail Is Finally Lost.

The trail was lost at Coloma, 12 miles northeast of here.

Discovery of the stolen bonds and arsenal led Berrien County authorities to request that gangland haunts in Chicago, Detroit, Toledo and Milwaukee be searched.

In addition to the $10,000 reward offered by the insurance company for the Jefferson Bank for capture of the robbers, Berrien County, the city of St. Joseph and the St. Joseph Chamber of Commerce plan to offer $5,000 for Dane's capture.

Dane's wife, Viola, 35, returned to St. Joseph from Chicago Saturday night. She was taken into custody for questioning as a taxicab brought her to the Lake Shore home. She is being held. She claims she knew nothing of the guns or bonds.

Five Were in Robbery.

Jefferson, Wis., Dec. 15 (A.P.).—The robbery of the Farmers & Merchants Bank here, the loot from which was reported recovered today in a raid on the home of Frederick Dane, near St. Joseph, Mich., occurred November 7 and was participated in by five well-dressed young men.

Four of the men entered the bank and scooped up all available money and securities, trussing up William S. Kispert, assistant cashier.

The men then ran to an automobile parked in front of the bank, where a fifth member of the band stood on guard, and sped out of town without interference.

Burglar Alarm Unheeded.

Officials, after a check-up, announced that the loot obtained was thought to have totaled about $352,000 in cash and securities. The exact amount taken, however, was not determined.

A novel feautre of the robbery was that Kispert managed to reach a burglar alarm which he sounded, but townspeople gave it no heed.

Bank officials explained that the alarm had been sounded almost every day for a week preceding the robbery for testing purposes and that the

Pepper Fights Change In Court Reservation

Tells Borah He Can See No Reason To Modify Senate Proposal.

(Associated Press.)

Strong opposition to modification of the Senate's reservation of entry into the world court, as provided in the revised court protocol, was voiced by George Wharton Pepper, a former Republican senator from Pennsylvania, in a letter to Chairman Borah, of the Senate foreign relations committee, made public here yesterday.

As a member of the foreign relations committee, Pepper was one of the advocates for adherence to the world court with reservations when it was voted by the Senate three years ago. However, in reference to the Elihu Root formula providing a modification of the Senate's controversial fifth reservation, Pepper states:

"I have as yet heard no good reason for modifying the fifth Senate reservation."

Rover Reopens Inquiry Into Dreyfus Case on Fresh Tip.

GRAND JURY MAY GET EVIDENCE THIS WEEK

Divorcee Was Believed to Have Been Killed in Accidental Fall.

THREATS BY ESCORT RECITED AT INQUEST

Release Followed, However, When Coroner's Jury Gave Verdict Clearing Him.

Acting on information given by relatives of Mrs. Aurelia Fisher Dreyfus, attractive 29-year-old divorcee who was killed in a 20-foot plunge from a second-story balcony of the Potomac Boat Club early on the morning of October 21, District Attorney Leo A. Rover yesterday began an investigation which is expected to place the tragey in the hands of the grand jury some time this week.

While Rover explained that his investigation had not progressed sufficiently to permit him to discuss the affair, it was learned that he is in possession of alleged facts tending to show that Mrs. Dreyfus was murdered, in contradiction of the finding of the coroner's jury, which returned a verdict of death from accidental causes.

Accompanied by Edmund J. McBrian, New York broker, and her brother, William Fisher, and sister, Freda Fisher, both of 1504 Olive street northeast, Mrs. Dreyfus had attended a dance given by the Colonial Canoe Club at the Potomac Clubhouse. After the dance she was found, bruised and bleeding, on a platform below the balcony. She was rushed to Emergency Hospital, where she died a few hours later.

McBrian Held, Then Freed.

McBrian was taken into custody immediately and held pending a police investigation, but was released when the coroner's jury found the death an accident.

According to testimony given at the inquest, however, by Miss Freda Fisher and by Mrs. Elsa Knorr, another sister, shortly before her death Mrs. Dreyfus had exclaimed, while lying on her cot in the hospital:

"Mac, you big bum, you never gave me a chance."

Miss Fisher, who sobbed throughout her stay on the witness stand, told the coroner's jury that McBrian had threatened Mrs. Dreyfus on various occasions, and had been "antagonistic" on the night of the fateful dance. She accused the broker of breaking up her sister's home and being the cause of her divorce.

War Romance Wrecked.

Mrs. Dreyfus formerly was the wife of Herbert Dreyfus, prominent New York broker and dollar-a-year man during the war. She had been employed in his office in the Shipping Board and a war-time romance had developed, which was wrecked a few years later when, in 1924, Dreyfus obtained a divorce, naming McBrian as corespondent. At the time of the tragedy, McBrian told police that his friendship with Mrs. Dreyfus had dated back seven years.

His story was that the party had gone to the dance and that during the las tnumber, while William and Freda Fisher were niside dancing, he had gone to get their wraps, leaving Mrs. Dreyfus alone on the balcony. As he was returning, he said, he heard some one shout tha t a woman had fallen from the balcony. Rushingto the lower platform, he said, he saw friends grouped about the inert form of his companion.

After Mrs. Dreyfus had been taken to the hospital, her father, Carl Fisher, of 1504 Olive street northeast, reported that a diamond bracelet, valued at $3,500, and a wrist watch,

GRUNDY ACCLAIMED AS LEADER OF PARTY

Fisher Forecasts Next G.O.P. Ticket Is to Be Built Around "Old Joe."

SEES UNITED SUPPORT

New York, Dec. 15 (A.P.).—United States Senator Joseph R. Grundy was acclaimed by Gov. Fisher today as the leader of the Republican party in Pennsylvania.

This declaration came from the governor while Senator Grundy was receiving congratulations on his appointment and pledges of support in the primary election next May from a group of influential Pennsylvania political leaders, representing nearly every section of the Commonwealth.

The governor predicted a harmonious primary with all elements unitedly suporting a ticket to be built around the man so recently designated by the chief executive to fill the vacancy in the Senate caused by the rejection of William S. Vare.

The makeup of the ticket, according to the governor and others assembled in the Belmont Hotel as an aftermath to the annual dinner of the Pennsylvaina Society held last night, wil inot be seriously discussed until after the Christmas holidays.

Senator Grundy arrived in New York this morning and had breakfast at the hotel with a number of his intimate friends and political associates, including Gov. Fisher.

While Grundy was receiving the congratulations of friends from Pennsylvania, who remained in the city overnight, Gov. Fisher voiced his pleasure at the manner in which he said his selection for the Senate seat was received in all parts of the State.

"The wide acclaim with which the appointment of Mr. Grundy was received in all parts of Pennsylvania," said the governor, "pleases me greatly as it did all of his friends and my friends.

"Significantly enough, the appointment has had all the effect of placing the party in Pennsylvania on a new basis. It has given it new life.

"A spirit of harmony prevails everywhere, and I look for it to continue right on through the primary and the general election."

Senator Grundy said he intended to be a candidate to succeed himself in the Pennsylvania primaries next spring.

HONORARY DEGREE GIVEN DE MARTINO

PAPAL JUBILEE MARKED

Italy and Rome took a step in the direction of world wide peace with the signing of the Vatican treaty, Italian Ambassador de Martino last night told a select audience at Georgetown University. During commemorative exercises in honor of the golden jubilee of the priesthood of Pope Pius XI, the university conferred upon Ambassador de Martino an honorary degree of doctor of laws.

In accepting the degree, the Ambassador declared that in honoring him the university wished to honor his country. It is in the field of international law that Italy has given this year an example of justice and of equity almost without parallel, he averred.

He referred to the concordat recently signed between Italy and the Holy See, which he said has been universally admired as a monument of juridical wisdom, of political foresight and of tremendous significance. He singled out Premier Mussolini as especially as deserving of praise in connection with the restoration of the papal state.

The solution of the problem between Italy and the Holy See, he said, is a bright augury of what may be looked forward to in the coming years when nations will try to understand each other and will base their relations not upon force but upon justice and the spirit of Christian right.

Dr. W. Coleman Nevils, S. J., president of the university, conferred the degree.

Archbishop Pietro Fumasoni-Biondi, apostolic delegate to this country, received the felicitations of the faculty and students of the university for transmission to Pope Pius XI. Father Nevils presented the illumined scroll to the apostolic delegate. In his address of acceptance the apostolic traced the history of the Pope in con-

Chinese Halt Train Bearing Envoys on Trip of Inquiry

Fate of Nationals in Area Occupied by Russians Veiled in Silence.

Tokyo, Dec. 15 (A.P.) (Monday).—Rengo News Agency dispatches today said the international train carrying consuls of several nations into northwestern Manchuria, where they hoped to learn the fate of the nationals in the area occupied by Soviet troops, had been halted by Chinese military when it attempted to leave Mientuho.

The consuls, who represent Japan, the United States, Germany, Great Britain and France, protested vigorously at the interference, but the military would not let the train proceed westward. On last available reports the train was still at Mientuho.

Chinese soldiery, retreating from renewed Russian drives in northwest Manchuria, were reported to have formed their base at Mientuno in the Khinghan Mountains, 120 kilometers search by Detective Sergeant George Darnell of the homicide squad revealed the jewelry on the ground, lying a few inches apart, under the platform.

Several Drinks Taken.

McBrian is said to have told the police that the party had imbibed several drinks during the evening, but Freda Fisher denied that her sister had taken any. McBrian gave himself up to the police about 8 o'clock on the morning after the tragedy.

The balcony from which Mrs. Dreyfus made her fatal plunge is partly inclosed by a 3½-foot railing. McBrian expressed the opinion that she had been sitting on the railing and fallen.

At the inquest Mrs. Knorr substantiated the testimony of her sister that McBrian had threatened Mrs. Dreyfus repeatedly. She declared that the only reason the 30-year-old broker was tolerated at the Olive street residence of the Fishers was because of his friendship for Mrs. Dreyfus. Several witnesses testified that there were no sounds of any struggle, and that their first knowledge of anything unusual was when they heard Mrs. Dreyfus' body strike the platform 20 feet below.

Man and Woman Victims In Apartment House Fire

Minneapolis, Dec. 15 (A.P.).—A man and a woman were burned to death and 13 other persons were rescued by firemen when fire broke out in the Belmore apartments, a three-story structure here early today.

The dead are Sigurd Erickson, 44 years old, who was found huddled in a closet in his apartment, and a woman known as "Bobbie" Ross, of Mankato, Minn., whose body was discovered in a bathroom. One of the rescued persons, John Hosmer, 37 years old, was severly burned and is in a hospital.

One Killed, One Injured When Auto Hits Truck

Hamilton, N. J., Dec. 15 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—One man was instantly killed and another injured last night when the automobile in which they were riding crashed into the rear end of a hay truck which had been left in the center of the road.

J. Warner Dunphey, 35, of Woodlynne, director of the Woodlynne Bank and a member of the Woodlynne Board of Health, was killed. J. W. Stone, jr., driver of the machine, was severely cut about the head and right leg. Charles Baker, of Medford, who drove the hay truck, was held in $5,000 bail on a charge of manslaughter. The hay truck had run short of gas and was left standing where it had stopped.

Widow of Bomb Victim Is Accused of Murder

Marion, Ind., Dec. 15 (A.P.).—Mrs. Erma Legos, 36, was formally charged with murder late yesterday in connection with the death of her husband, Andrew A. Legos, 35, labor union leader, who was fatally injured October 28 when a bomb under his automobile exploded as he stepped on the starter. Filing of the affidavit came after the woman had been questioned continuously for 50 hours.

Legos died three weeks after the explosion. The bombing of the Marion Labor Temple, which killed two men and wrecked the building on October 3, also is believed by authorities to have been an attempt on Legos' life. The man was an officer of the local Mould Makers Union and was in the building at the time.

Vanderbilt to Wed West Orange Girl

Engagement to Anne Colby to Be Announced Today by Her Parents.

New York, Dec. 15 (A.P.).—The engagement of Anne G. Colby, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Colby, of Llewellyn Park, West Orange, N. J., to William H. Vanderbilt, of New York and Newport, R. I., will be announced tomorrow by Miss Colby's parents.

Miss Colby attended the Foxcroft School in Virginia and made her debut at a dinner dance given by her parents here December 16, 1927.

Vanderbilt is the son of Mrs. Paul Fitzsimons, of this city and Newport, and the late Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt. He is a grandson of Mrs. Vanderbilt and the late Cornelius Vanderbilt, and is a nephew of Brig. Gen. Cornelius Vanderbilt, Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney, Countess Laszlo Szechenyi, of Washington; Lady Chaylesmore, of London; Amos Tuck French, of Tuxedo Park, N. Y., and of the late Reginald Vanderbilt. He is fifth in the direct life of descent from Commodore Cornelius Vanderbilt.

Vanderbilt was married to Miss Emily O'Neill Davies, of Pittsburgh, Pa., in November, 1923. They have one daughter, Emily, now 5 years old. This marriage was ended by divorce in June, 1927. Vanderbilt's former wife was married to Sigourney Thayer last December.

KEEPER AT AUBURN KILLED BY APOPLEXY

Horror of Two Prison Riots Is Believed to Have Hastened Death.

ROUTINE TO BE RESUMED

Auburn, N. Y., Dec. 15 (A.P.).—The death of John H. Martin, assistant principal keeper at Auburn State Prison, and the announcement of Dr. Frank L. Christian, acting warden, that regular routine will be resumed tomorrow, were today's developments at the institution, where nine were killed in Wednesday's rioting.

Martin suffered a stroke of apoplexy while on duty yesterday. He had served the State for nearly 40 years, and it was believed the strain of two riots hastened his death. Martin was at Auburn when the State installed its first electric chair, and it was he who led all its victims to their fate. He leaves a wife and daughter.

The shops in operation prior to Wednesday's flare-up will be reopened tomorrow, Dr. Christian said, and meals again will be served in the mess hall instead of cells. The convicts will be permitted to exercise in the yard, under surveillance of State troopers, who will command the walls, and prison guards, who will be in the inclosure.

Dr. Christian, who replaced Warden Edgar S. Jennings, incapacitated in the riot, had what he described as a "heart-to-heart" talk with prison guards today. Afterward he announced that for the present no visitors would be allowed the convicts, and that the Mutual Welfare League's affairs were suspended temporarily.

"We will not cut off the privileges of well-conducted prisoners," said Dr. Christian. "The majority of the men in prison had nothing to do with the riot and were victims of unhappy circumstances."

District Attorney Benn Kenyon said all convicts involved in the mutiny had been identified and that he believed sufficient evidence had been uncovered to justify indictment and trial on charges of murder, first degree, growing out of the death of Principal Keeper George A. Durnford.

Hays and Milliken Reply to Ouster

Would Have Quit Church Drama Board Anyway, Is Assertion.

Decision of the Church and Drama League of America recently not to reelect to its board and direct representative of the stage or screen, a ruling which affected both Will H. Hays and Carl E. Milliken, president and secretary, respectively, of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America, Inc., yesterday in New York, evoked announcement by Milliken that the action relieved both "from the embarrassment of having to decline further services on the board."

Following closely the league's decision, which received considerable publicity, Milliken explained that the situation developed because of the disinclination of both Hays and himself to contribute any funds on behalf of their organization to the league.

Hhe pointed out that the Rev. Dr. George Reid Andrews, executive director of the league, on October 4, culminated a series of requests for money by declaring in a letter, "Since we thus proclaimed our alliance with the motion picture group by placing Mr. Hays, yourself and Mr. Rubin on our board of directors, it would seem that financial support would be taken for granted."

"This, in ethics and in commonsense, we could not supply," Milliken declared.

Man Is Badly Hurt In Cranking Plane

Sudden Spin of Propeller Throws Him Under Its Wheels.

Struck by a sudden spin of the propeller of an airplane he was cranking and knocked beneath the wheels of the machine as it shot forward, Joseph Boteler, 35 years old, a farmer of Berwyn, Md., received a compound fracture of the right foot and a fracture of the left leg at 4:50 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the airport at College Park, Md.

Boteler was placed in an automobile, which, en route to Washington, was caught in a traffic jam at Hyattsville. The Prince Georges County escue Squad transferred the injured man to its ambulance and removed him to Casualty Hospital, where his condition was reported as serious.

With Boteler unable to talk and information regarding the accident incomplete at the airport, hospital attendants, reconstructing the incident, said that the man volunteered to give the propeller of the airplane several turns in an attempt to start the motor, and that contact was established too quickly for him to jump to safety. The craft apparently leaped forward, with its wheels passing over his legs.

Charles Severn Dies; Was Lynchburg Native

Chicago, Dec. 15 (A.P.).—Charles E. Severn, 57, editor, publisher and philatelist, died suddenly late last night of a heart attack.

He was a native of Lynchburg, Va., and a member of the Royal British Philatelic Society.

Guatemalan Flier Plans Nonstop Hop to Home Soil

William Forsythe, Post Staff Photographer.
WILLIAM F. SAMAYOA.

With the double purpose of demonstrating the practibility of refueling in the air on long-distance flights and of taking a message of good will to his native country, a young Guatemalan, who has lived in Washington for ten years, expects to start in the spring on a nonstop flight from New York to Central America. He plans to fly alone in a small, open biplane, unaided.

The pilot is William F. Samayoa, 24 years old, who is a graduate of Catholic University here and flier with more than 500 hours in the air. He said last night that he has selected the plane which he will use and that he has received the backing necessary to carry his project through.

It is his theory that most of the ill-fortune which has attended long-distance flights on and shortly after the take-off has been due to the fact that the planes were too heavily loaded to hold themselves aloft. In an article in the December issue of The Aeronautic Review, official publication of the National Aeronautic Association, he wrote a scientific article on his views. His flight will put those theories to practical test.

Before het akes off from New York, he expects to practice refueling in the air either in Washington or at one of the Long Island fields. He says that a plane, loaded with fuel, after it has ascended can carry more gasoline and oil than it can life on the takeoff. By fueling his plane in the air, he feels certain that he can carry more than enough fuel to complete his projected flight of some 28 hours.

Safety will be the keynote of his ambitious flight. In addition to safeguarding the plane at the takeoff, he will equip it with floats and fly it as a seaplane. The route he expects to follow will be along the Atlantic Coast to Florida, accross that State to Tampa, across the Gulf of Mexico to Yucatan, and down Guatamala City by way of Belize, Honduras. He pointed out that a plane in flight is safe if it has a landing site constantly under it, and throughout most of his flight, he will have water on which he can land in case of emergency. He will also wear a parachute, believing that a pilot is rendered entirely safe by its present in case of any difficulty which prevents a landing.

During recent months he has discussed his plan with officials of the Army, Navy and Department of Commerce, and has found them not only sympathetic but heartily in accord with his plan. He will use weather reports from the Department of Agriculture and expects to time his flight so that he will have moonlight during most of the necessary night flying.

Samayoa said last night that it is his intention to do whatever is possible toward promoting airmindedness among the people of his native country. He believes that he can so fully demonstrate the safety of flying between this country and Guatemala that passenger lines will follow the trail he intends to blaze.

An unusual feature of the proposed flight is that Samayoa will use no special instruments in his plane. He said that the coastline will guide him to his destination and that he will need no instruments other than those with which the light sports and training plane he expects to use is regularly equipped.

Not only is Samayoa an aviator and scientist, but he is a pianist of some repute. He has often broadcast from stations WOL and WJSV. Known by his intimates as "Sammy," he is modest and retiring with an interesting accent which serves to distinguish him immediately. In his dual role of ambassador of good will and safety, he believes that he can accomplish much of value to his native country and to aviation.

PEPPER IS OPPOSED TO COURT CHANGES

Hoover, however, is not expected to transmit the world court issue to the Senate again before late in the session or perhaps until the next session, a year hence. Meanwhile, there are indications that the administration is seeking to build up its strength on the foreign relations committee in the forthcoming Republican reorganization of the Senate

Chairman Borah of the committee, and Senators Johnson, of California, and Moses, of New Hampshire, the ranking Republicans, are opposed to the modification of the Senate's reservation. The reservation provided that the world court could not render an advisory opinion in cases in which this country has, or claims to have, an interest, without the consent of this country.

The other powers refused to accept this reservation. Then the rules of the court were so modified at a conference attended by Elihu Root, in behalf of this country, that the court proponents felt that this reservation was no longer required.

Pepper wrote to Senator Borah to correct a statement published in the press that he favored the revised court protocol.

"As you know," he wrote, "I made up my mind at a certain time that adherence was inevitable and laid aside my preference for a complete separation of court from league in the interest of doing something effective in the way of protective reservations. The fifth reservation seems to me to be essential to the preservation of the rights of the United States. When the committee on international law of the American Bar Association made its report at Memphis, I noted my dissent from the recommendation of adherence contained in that report.

"I have as yet heard no good reason given for modifying the fifth Senate reservation. The only reason I can think of is in order to provide for the very contingency against which the reservation is a safeguard —namely, the determination of powers other than the United States to insist upon an advisory opinion from the court in spite of the protest of the United States. I am utterly at a loss to understand how any person of experience can seriously advocate an international arrangement which substitutes the remedy of withdrawal from the court after the mischief has been done for the salutary provision which prevents the mischief from arising."

Delaware Democratic Leader Dies.

Wilmington, Del., Dec. 15 (A.P.).—Andrew C. Gray, Democratic national committeeman from Delaware and a prominent Wilmington lawyer, died here today. He was 58 years old. He served one term as State attorney general.

First Wife, Held in Shooting, Sues Second for $100,000

Helen Louise Andrade, Accused of Attempting to Kill Former Husband, Claims He Is Still Legally Wed to Her.

Los Angeles, Dec. 15 (A.P.).—Mrs. Helen Louise Andrade, in jail accused of attempting to kill her former husband, Albert F. Andrade, wealthy Arizona and New Mexico land owner, has filed a suit for $100,000 damages against Mrs. Judith Lavender Andrade, charging alienation of affections.

Mrs. Helen Louise Andrade alleged the man, legally, still is married to her, and that the daughter of the late John Lavender, shipping magnate, "willfully, maliciously and unlawfully" enticed her husband away from her.

The woman was arrested yesterday after Andrade had sworn to a warrant charging her with ambushing him at the home of his mother-in-law and firing five shots at him and the second Mrs. Andrade.

Andrade declared he was divorced from his first wife twelve years ago in Yucatan, Mexico, after several unsuccessful attempts in the United States which were contested bitterly by Mrs. Helen Louise Andrade, who named Miss Judith Lavender as corespondent. The woman now claims the Yucatan divorce illegal. Andrade, however, said his legal residence is in Arizona, where the divorce has been recognized.

At the time of the shooting, Andrade, his second wife, and their two children were visiting his mother-in-law, Mrs. Mary Warren, widow of Walter Warren, United States consul to Honduras, in Beverley Hills.

Andrade married Judith Lavender six years ago.

OHIO GIRL, GEORGIAN WIN RADIO AUDITION

Genevieve Rowe and Edward Kane Capture Rich Prizes in Sing Competition.

LOS ANGELES PAIR NEXT

New York, Dec. 15 (A.P.).—Miss Genevieve I. Rowe, 21 years old, of Wooster, Ohio, and Edward Kane, 22, of Atlanta, Ga., tonight won the two first prizes in the third national radion audition sponsored by the Atwater Kent Foundation. Each prize consists of $5,000, a gold decoration and two years' conservatory tuition.

The winners were selected from among ten young persons who sang tonight in the finals of the competion. The ten had been selected as the result of local, State and geographical district competitions which began last May. The final audition tonight was broadcast over a coast-to-coast network of stations.

Second prizes of $3,000 and one year's tuition each were awarded to Miss Floy Hamlin, 22, of Los Angeles, Calif., and Calvin Hendricks, 25, also of Los Angeles.

Miss Josephine Antoine, 20 years old, of Boulder, Colo., and John Jameson, 20, of Denver, Colo., were awarded third prizes, consisting of $2,000 cash and one year's tuition each.

Fourth prizes of $1,510 cash and one year's tuition each went to Miss Frances Tortorich, 23, of New Orleans, La., and Charles E. Carlile, 25, of Great Falls, R. I. Fifth prizes of $1,000 and one year's tuition were awarded to Miss Agnes L. Skillin, 23, of Springvale, Me., and Carlyle Bennett, 24, of Chicago.

Kane, one of the first-prize winners, is the son of M. H. Kane, a banker, and is a native of Georgia. He was graduated from Emory University. He has studied music intensively for the past five years.

Miss Rowe, daughter of Neill O. Rowe, dean of music of Wooster College, has devoted herself to the cultivation of her voice for the last three years, during which time she has appeared frequently as soloist before musical clubs of Wooster.

Children's Bureau Asks Larger Staff

(Associated Press.)

Funds for a psychiatrist, a psychologist and a social investigator, all to deal nationally with the juvenile delinquency problem, were asked yesterday by Miss Grace Abbott, chief of the Children's Bureau, in her annual report.

She declared that without a staff of specialists "real results can not be expected in child culture any more than in agriculture."

Six additional statistical clerks and two additional agents to visit juvenile courts for the purpose of assembling uniform delinquency statistics also were requested.

"It seems unnecessary to point out that the assembling of these statistics on a national scale can only be done by the Federal Government, and that information in this field is second to none in importance," said Miss Abbott.

The Children's Bureau chief also suggested extension of the maternity and infancy act, which expired June 30, 1929.

"Withdrawal of Federal cooperation at this time is certain to mean great national losses if healthy children are counted a national asset," she said.

MAN DIES INSTANTLY WHEN HIT BY TRAIN

Engine Crew Is Exonerated of Death Blame After Fairfax Hearing.

FIREMEN ASK FOR FUNDS

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.
P. O. Box 245, Vienna, Va.
Phone Vienna 64.

Richard Bayliss, 79 years old, of Woodbridge, Va., was instantly killed when he was struck by a railroad train in Connors Cut, about 1 mile west of Lorton. The accident occurred about 8:30 o'clock yesterday morning.

At a hearing conducted by Dr. Ford Swetnam, of Fairfax, it was stated that Bayliss was walking on the southbound track of the Richmond, Fredericksburg & Potomac Railway, when struck by the engine. Engineer E. W. Hite was not able to bring the engine to a stop until he reached Woodbridge, a few hundred yards beyond the scene of the accident, where he reported that the train had hit a man in the "cut." Persons rushed to the scene, where they found the badly mangled body of Bayliss. The accident was declared unavoidable. Bayliss is survived by two daughters, a Mrs. McDonald and a Mrs. Reeve, who live near Woodbridge.

Prohibition Inspector Virgil Williams, accompanied by the forces of Sheriff E. B. Kirby, made a raid late Saturday night on the home of Davis Gheen, near Centerville, where they reported seizure of a large quantity of wine. Gheen was charged with the sale and possession of intoxicating liquor. His wife was charged with assault and resisting an officer. Marked money was found in the possession of Mrs. Gheen, according to the officers. They were both released on bond, awaiting hearing before Justice of the Peace R. D. Wharton.

Three other persons were arrested in Gheen's house and charged with being drunk. At a hearing before Justice of Peace Wharton yesterday Archie and Marion Pearson were fined $10 and costs on a charge of drunkenness. Ernest Cornwell was fined $40 and costs on the same charge.

Sheriff Kirby arrested Harold Henderson and Robert Carter on the highway in Vienna on a charge of possession and transportation of intoxicating liquor. At the hearing yesterday they were both held for the action of the grand jury.

A meeting of the representatives of the five Volunteer Fire Departmehts of Fairfax County was held Saturday night at the home of Leon L. Freeman at Vienna. A committee was appointed consisting of two men from each department to appear before the Board of Supervisors at their January meeting when the budget for the coming year will be made, in effort to have them include a small levy which will be used to assist, support and maintain the volunteer fire departments in their fire protection work.

A resolution was offered by George F. Harrison of Herndon which was unanimously adopted in which it was stated "that the Volunteer Fire Departments of Fairfax County go on record asking the Board of Supervisors to include a small levy in the budget for 1930 of 5 cents on the hundred dollars in Falls Church, Drainsville and Providence districts, and a 2-cent levy in Lee, Mount Vernon and Centerville districts for the volunteer fire fighting companies of the county for their aid, support and maintenance so as to make them more efficient and to eliminate some of their dangers."

The committee selected to appear before the Board of Supervisors was as follows: R. E. Kendrick and E. N. Ward, representing Falls Church; George B. Robey and James E. Nickell, representing Fairfax; George F. Harrison and Edgar Reed, representing Herndon; James W. Preston and James H. Battle, representing McLean; J. L. Jeffries and R. L. Wright, representing Vienna. J. H. Beattie of McLean was selected as a spokesman for the committee.

The question of forming an organization of the fire departments of this county was also discussed at some length. The proposed organization would consider questions relative to the conditions that exist in this county alone. This would in no way interfere with the individual companies belonging to the Arlington-Fairfax Association, which now exists. One of the main purposes of proposed organization is an organized method of fire-fighting. This would consist of a chief engineer in charge of the whole county on the fire grounds when all companies have been called to an alarm of fire. There would also be a deputy chief in each company that would be in charge at a fire until the chief engineer arrived. The deputy chief in the locality, where the fire occurs, would be the senior chief of the companies responding in case the chief engineer was not called.

Another purpose of this organization would be to present a unified action in questions pertaining to purely local questions.

There will be a meeting of the Pioneer Grange tomorrow night in the Grange Hall in Masonville. The lecture hour will be taken up with a Christmas play and entertainment. The cast will consist of members of the grange.

There will be a benefit entertainment for the Southern Methodist Church at Annandale in the schoolhouse there. A play under the direction of Mrs. L. W. Ryder will be presented by persons of Alexandria.

A program of Christmas music will be given by the Falls Church Music Study Club at the home of Mrs. Ross Johnson at Falls Church. President C. N. McGroarty has arranged a program of numbers by quartets, duets, solos and choruses.

The regular monthly meeting of the Arlington-Fairfax Firemans Association will be held tomorrow night in Wilkins Hall in Herndon. The officers and committee in charge of arrangements of the Herndon Volunteer Fire Department have issued invitations to the members of the Fairfax County Chamber of Commerce and other organizations interested in promotion of fire protection.

The Herndon department is planning an entertainment for the occasion. Preceding the meeting a chicken and oyster supper will be given in the basement of the Methodist Church, starting at 5 o'clock, for the benefit of the local department, at which the members of the association will be guests. Mrs. E. M. Armfield is chairman of the committee on arrangements. The other members of the committee are Mrs. Benjamin McGuire, Mrs. John R. Hurst, Mrs. Rosa N. Sterling, Mrs. Julian Thompson, Mrs. A. Kirkpatrick and Mrs. E. Kirkpatrick.

The Vienna Council, No. 12, Order of Fraternal Americans, will hold their annual election of officers in their hall in Vienna tomorrow night instead of December 24, which would be Christmas Eve.

The Sharon Chapter, Eastern Star, of McLean, will entertain the Sharon Masonic Lodge tomorrow evening. Mrs. Ida Walters is in charge of the entertainment. Refreshments will be served.

Farmers and Mechanics Council, Order of Fraternal Americans, of McLean, will hold election of officers Tuesday evening.

Miss Sarah E. Thomas, Fairfax County home demonstration agent, has prepared a busy program for the 4-H Club during the last week of the school session this year. All her meetings of the clubs this week will be devoted to demonstrations on making Christmas candies. The first meeting will be held this morning with the 4-H Club at Fairfax and with the club at Clifton in the afternoon. Tomorrow morning she will visit the Lee Jackson 4-H Club and will be with the Woodlawn 4-H Club in the afternoon. The Lincolnia Home Demonstration Club will hold their meeting at Lincolnia Wednesday afternoon. Thursday morning Miss Thomas will meet the 4-H Club at Lincolnia, and after she finishes there she will meet the Better Foods Club at Popes Head. Thursday afternoon there will be a meeting of the Home Demonstration Club at Navy. At this time she will assist the club in planning the work which will be undertaken for the coming year. The annual election of officers will also be held at this time. The Clifton Demonstration Club will meet Friday afternoon, at which time officers will be elected for the coming year.

Mrs. H. N. Parson, club leader at Baileys Cross Roads, will aid the members of the 4-H Club there Thursday morning in making Christmas candies, which will be sold for the benefit of the club.

W. T. Woodson, county superintendent of schools, has announced that special tests are being given to the pupils of the third and fourth year high schools in the county for the purpose of gauging their mental capacity and to show how they are working. This is being done in an effort to secure information on the ability of the pupil in order to aid them on certain subjects. Similar tests will be given again in the spring and will be made part of the record in the superintendent's office.

Automobile license tags will be placed on sale this morning at the office of Thomas B. Chapman in Fairfax, who is the license tag agent for Fairfax and vicinity. The State law requires that all vehicles used on the public highways must be equipped with the 1930 license plates on or before January 15. The colors of the new tags are yellow figures on a black background.

There will be a meeting of the Northwest Civic Association of Falls Church tonight at the home of Mr and Mrs. Charles Gage. A discussion of the proposed water extension through Falls Church will be the main topic. There will be an election of the officers of the Laure. Rebekah Lodge of Falls Church tonight.

TRADE STEADINESS SHOWN BY LAMONT

Past Eight Years Have Seen Regular, Gradual Growth, Secretary Says.

FACTORY OUTPUT LARGER

(Associated Press.)

The steadiness of business during the last eight years, characterized by neither sharp booms nor slumps, was portrayed yesterday by Secretary Lamont.

With two or three minor and short-lived recessions, he said in his report for the year ended June 30, 1929, the upward trend of production and consumption had been gradual, but in the aggregate considerable.

For the twelve-month period he said the activity of American factories was the high spot of industry, and while business was not spotted by the feverish activity of the war period and the immediately succeeding boom, the actual production of commodities and services was larger.

The Secretary reported that the high activity of manufacturing and mining industry during the year was accompanied by larger employment of labor and reduction in part-time work.

Occupations Shifting.

"Throughout our history a gradual shift has been taking place in the occupations of the people," he said "The proportion engaged in production of necessaries of life has steadily fallen, more and more labor being set free to produce advanced commodities and services characteristic of a higher standard of living. For a long time this movement was reflected in a steady expansion of employment in factory industries as well as in distribution and in service occupations, agriculture being almost the only branch of industry to lose relatively, in the number of workers. For some time after 1920, however, the trend toward service occupations was so strong as to bring about an absolute reduction in the number of factory employes. This downward movement has been checked during the last three or four years, and the number of factory workers employed during the fiscal year 1928-29 was appreciably greater than during the preceding fiscal yera."

Some improvement in the agricultural situation during the year was noted by the Secretary. With an increase of 2 per cent over the year ended June 30, 1928, the gross income from farm products (after deducting the value of crops fed or used for seed) totaled $12,527,000,000, the largest except for 1925-26, he reported. If allowance is made for the buying power of money, he continued, the value of agricultural production in 1928-29 was larger even than in 1920-21.

Construction Less Active.

The construction industry was reported by the Commerce Department head to have been one of the few branches of business which was less active during the year, while the net operating income of class 1 railroads was the largest ever reported, exceeding the figure for the previous year by 20 per cent.

He asserted that the quality of service furnished by railways as well as other public carriers, was better than at any other time in the history of the country, with shortage of cars a rare occurrence. The other branch of transportation, American shipping, also was reported to have progressed satisfactorily, a marked reduction in the tonnage of idle vessels and a considerable increase in the tonnage active in seagoing foreign and domestic commerce being reported despite a slight decline in the total capacity of seagoing vessels registered under the American flag.

Exports continued to take an increasingly large place in American industrial life, with the export trade for the fiscal year 10 per cent greater in value than the year before and 43 per cent greater than in 1921-22. Finished manufactures reached more than $2,500,000,000, showing an increase of 22 per cent over the previous year, the Secretary reported while purchases of this country abroad increased about 9 per cent.

BIG INCREASE NOTED IN NATIONAL INCOME

FARMS' RECEIPTS LOW

New York, Dec. 15 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—The income of the people of the United States increased $23,470,000,000 in the last ten years. The increase almost equals the total national income twenty years ago.

These figures, showing the enormous progress of the country, in dollars and cents, were released today by the National Bureau of Economic Research. They are taken from a report, four years in preparation, which gives in detail the annual changes in the national income and its purchasing power from 1909 to 1928.

The total income in 1928 was $89,419,000,000, against $29,605,000,000 in 1909. The average wage earner who made $976 in 1909 received $1,205 last year, while the pay of the average salaried employe jumped from $976 to $2,084 in that period, the figures show.

The bureau's report points out that the total of realized income does not include changes in the value of property, allowances for the income of housewives and youngsters for services rendered to their own families, money earned through odd-job employment nor expense accounts received by employes.

Employes earned a total of $51,123,000,000 last year. The figures show they have added $13,423,000,000 to their 1922 income, whereas the entrepreneurs' income has increased only $10,071,000,000 during that period.

Of interest in connection with the campaigns for farm relief is a table which shows the income from agriculture declined slightly between 1909 and 1914, increased vigorously during the war period, dropped abruptly between 1919 and 1921 and has since been able to maintain itself on the level of the latter year. Agriculture is now producing less than 10 per cent of the Nation's income in contrast with the 18.5 produced in 1918, the figures indicate.

Another interesting feature of the bureau's report is the estimate of the Government's part in furnishing income to its citizens. This estimate includes the Federal, State and local governments, taking in counties, cities, villages and even school districts. A total of 2,819,000 Government workers earned $4,992,000,000 in 1927, or $503,000,000 more than almost twice as many employes, 4,042,000 to be exact, made in 1919.

Britten Suggests Escort for Envoys

In Lieu of Comfortable Liner, He Proposes Battleship.

(Associated Press.)

The names of Government employes who traveled at Government expense during the last fiscal year upon a ship not flying the American flag will be demanded of the Government departments under a resolution Chairman Britten, of the House naval affairs committee, has prepared.

Britten said he believed "that the Jones-White law which promotes travel on American ships by United States officials and employes is too often winked at under various subterfuges." He suggested "if Secretary Stimson and the other delegates to the London naval conference can not find an American ship palatial enough for this illustrious group of Americans" a "battleship with proper escort" be assigned to take them to London.

The Illinois member said that operators of foreign ships sometimes went to the extreme of issuing free passes for American officials and their families to induce them to use their lines. In such cases, Britten said, the official unwittingly became an advertising medium.

Girl to Get New Nose As Santa Claus' Gift

Madison, Wis., Dec. 15 (A.P.).—Doris Graw, 8, was happy today in the knowledge there is a Santa Claus. Resting comfortably in a bed at General Hospital, she was told that her Christmas wish would come true. She asked Santa for a new nose, and plastic surgeons promised her she would have one within a year.

A year ago her nose was cut off in an accident. Recently she wrote a letter to Santa Claus and told him of her greatest wish. The letter was published in her home paper at Sparta, Wis. County officials read it and insured fulfillment by sending her here.

Girl Dies as Seven Fail To Get Nut From Larynx

New York, Dec. 15 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Seven persons attempted to extract an almond from the larynx of Susie Velti, 15 months old, last night and by the time the ambulance surgeon arrived, the infant was dead.

Susie, in her toddlings about an apartment, came upon a package of Christmas nuts. She selected an almond and put in her mouth. As she stumbled and sat down suddenly, it lodged in the upper part of her larnyx.

Her parents rushed her to a drug store where they, the druggist and Patrolman Murphy, who first sent in a call for an ambulance, attempted to extricate the nut. They were joined by Patrolman Balkin and Sergts. Burke and Mayle. Dr. Sheehan arrived in the ambulance half an hour later. Susie died while he was examining her.

Donaldson Scored by Judy.

President Donaldson, of Commercial National Bank, was scathingly denounced recently in a special report of the grand jury which indicted Representative Frederick N. Zihlman (Republican), of Maryland, along with six officials of the F. H. Smith Co., for using the mails to defraud. While President Donaldson was not indicted, in his case the grand jury recommended that the court investigate the facts and make proper charges.

The report setting out that in the course of its investigation into the affairs of the F. H. Smith Co. it had come to its attention that "one R. Golden Donaldson, of the bar of this court, while acting as a retained attorney of the F. H. Smith Investment Co. (the name of which said corporation was later changed to the F. H. Smith Co.), solicited, obtained and accepted sums of money aggregating approximately $100,000 from the Boyle-Robertson Construction Co., of said City of Washington, in consideration for said Donaldson's influencing his client, the said F. H. Smith Investment Co., to award divers contracts for the construction of buildings to said Boyle-Robertson Construction Co., and this when, as aforesaid, said Donaldson was the retained attorney of said the F. H. Smith Investment Co., and when he was also president of the Commercial National Bank, of Washington, D. C., from which said Boyle-Robertson Construction Co. borrowed large sums of money from time to time during the period when they were so paying said Donaldson to influence his said client, the F. H. Smith Investment Co.

"Therefore, the grand jury recommends to this court that the facts in connection with this matter be investigated and proper charges filed to the end that this court may know the exact facts in connection herewith and that appropriate action be thereupon taken."

Banker Makes Reply.

Donaldson issued the following statement regarding the foregoing:

"My transactions with the Boyle-Robertson Construction Co. occurred in the early part of the year 1926, nearly four years ago.

"They were the subject of a written contract between us, and the fact that in this matter, I was acting for the Boyle-Robertson Construction Co was known to all parties concerned.

"The Boyle-Robertson Construction Co. was a customer of the bank and received only the usual accommodations, all of which they paid in full in the early part of 1927 and have never been indebted to the bank since that time."

Vatican Honors English Martyrs

136 British Priests and Laymen Are Beatified in Rites at St. Peter's.

Vatican City, Dec. 15 (A.P.).—The beatification of 136 British priests and Catholic laymen, martyred for their faith in the period between 1594 and 1679, was proclaimed today in the course of a solemn mass in St. Peter's Basilica. Cardinal Bourne and a large English pilgrimage, headed by the Duke of Norfolk, and families related to the martyrs attended.

In the afternoon Pope Pius XI descended to St. Peter's to venerate the images and relics of those newly beatified. He was accompanied by Cardinal Dougherty, of Philadelphia, who also had attended the morning ceremony.

Among the more conspicuous persons thus entitled to have "blessed" written before their names are Fathers John Roberts, Robert Southwell, Philip Howard, Earl of Arundel and John Ogilvie. They with many others had suffered during the reigns of Queen Elizabeth, James I and Charles I and under the Puritan Commonwealth.

Slaying Suspect Hidden From Mob

Mississippi Sheriff Gets Away From Pursuers With Prisoner.

Lexington, Miss., Dec. 15 (A.P.).—With a crowd of men close on his heels, Sheriff W. L. Ellis and a squad of deputies early today escaped with Sammy Pace, Negro, suspected of the slaying of Noel C. White, farmer and chairman of the Mississippi State Democratic executive committee, whose body was found in a ditch near one of his farms yesterday.

The Negro was arrested in his cabin on White's farm after bloodhounds had led a posse of 1,000 men to his home and stood outside the door, baying.

A. L. White, Clarksdale, deputy sheriff, owner of the dogs, said his hounds went straight to the Negro's cabin and paid no attention to a Negro woman who answered the door but bristled and barked when Pace appeared. Officers said the Negro could not give a satisfactory account of himself and he was stolen away from the crowd and secreted in an unannounced jail.

White was killed Saturday on the edge of a timber tract on one of his farms. Officials believe he was slain when he protested the cutting of timber by Negro tenants. He was shot and his body thrown in a ditch.

Four Policemen Held In Kidnaping-Robbery

Chicago, Dec. 15 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Four policemen, acting as detectives, were arrested today charged with robbery and kidnaping. The men, who admitted kidnaping, are Joseph Casey, Grover Mullaney, Edward P. O'Malley and Michael Cohen. Deputy Commissioner Stege stripped them of stars and uniform.

Morris Meyers, a jewelry salesman, told Stege he entered a restaurant to offer for sale some wrist watches. The four detectives were inside, he said, and one appropriated a watch. When he protested he was "arrested" and driven to a spot near the stock yards police station, where the detectives were ejecting him from their squad car when a "flivver squad" from the stock yards station happened along. One of the policemen in it recognized Casey. Later, Meyers said, the four detectives took from him two wrist watches and $18 and threw him into the street.

Government Penal Bureau Is Sought

National Society on Prison Information Issues Its Third Handbook.

New York, Dec. 15 (A.P.).—Transfer of administration of the Federal penal system from the Department of Justice to the Department of the Interior or to a separate bureau is advocated in the third issue of the Handwork of American Prisons and Reformatories, advance copies of which were released today by the National Society of Penal Information.

In such a reorganization, the handbook recommends that "in whatever department it is placed, the Federal penal system should be made a separate bureau with a permanent head, given ample authority, provided with a proper staff of associates and paid an adequate salary."

Such an arrangement is necessary, the handbook says, "in order to assure continuity and to administer properly a group of institutions as important as these prisons, and having large populations and complicated problems."

Antwerp, Dec. 15 (A.P.).—The newspaper Metropole today says that King Albert will be invited by the American Legion to visit the United States next year in connection with the centenary celebration of the independence of Belgium.

JAPAN WILL DEMAND 10-10-7 NAVAL RATIO

Envoys Arrive Here Today for Discussions With U. S. Delegates.

LEADER OUTLINES STAND

suki, former premier of Japan and leader of the delegation, said here today.

"While there will be no change suggested in the ratio of capital ships," Wakatsuki said, "we stand ready to bring up the question of replacement of time-worn battleships with new craft, which was pointed out as necessary at the Washington conference. We will agree to postpone the building of new ships because such action would lighten the burden upon the national treasury.

Ratio Increase Demanded.

"In so far as auxiliary craft are concerned, however, Japan not only desires but will insist upon retaining a 70 per cent tonnage as compared with the powers having the greatest naval strength. We are satisfied with some lesser force than other countries, but exhaustive studies have convinced us we must insist on this ratio. The strength we insist upon clearly would not constitute a menace to any power and shows no idea of offensive.

"The Japanese delegation sincerely hopes and is confident the conference will be a success."

The delegation stopped off at Chicago for five hours. A Kimnara, the Japanese consul, and several hundred Japanese met the train, escorted the visitors on an automobile trip through the city and held a luncheon in their honor at noon.

Silas Strawn, prominent Chicago attorney, and former chairman of the Chinese extra-territoriality committee and delegate to the conference on Chinese customs tariff conference at Peiping in 1924, paid his respects to members of the party.

The delegation left on a special train for Washington, where tomorrow a conference will be held with President Hoover. After visiting New York, the delegation will sail for London December 20.

Gillette Play Takes Aspect Of Gala Event

Sherlock Holmes Revival Expected to Attract Capital Notables.

By JEAN ELIOT.

WHEN William Gillette brings "Sherlock Holmes" to the National Theater on January 6, there will be a first night audience "to write home about"—if a forecast of Washington's response to this picturesque revival may be predicated at all upon New York's.

In a season when drama lovers have been viewing with alarm what is happening to the theater, the great New Amsterdam Theater, the largest in New York, has been crowded to the doors at every performance since Mr. Gillette returned to the stage after a dozen years' retirement, bringing to life again perhaps his most famous characterization. And on the night the play opened in Manhattan the audience was so brilliant and so representative of all that is best in art, letters, civic and social attainment as to inspire editorial comment in most of the metropolitan papers.

It was generally remarked that this was a "quality audience," although it bulked large by quantitative analysis. Mothers were there with their daughters and fathers with their sons, the older generation being determined that the new should share in an experience which had long been treasured in memory. Already reservations are being made and parties planned for the play's Washington run. And, as in every city where the revival has been staged, oldtimers will journey far rather than miss the opportunity to see a tremendously popular play and to have a last glimpse of an actor who first introduced the repressed method of achieving effects and who thus had an important influence on the modern stage.

Mr. Calvin Coolidge, who now registers "of Northampton, Mass.," but who still has a claim upon the affections of Washington, is one of a group of nationally known celebrities who wrote in salutation and congratulation to William Gillette when it became known that he was to revive "Sherlock Holmes" and others well known to us here, who are represented in a remarkable tribute, are Senator Hiram Bingham, Representative Ruth Hanna McCormick, Mr. John W. Davis, Mrs. Douglas Robinson and Dr. John Grier Hibben, president of Princeton University.

At the New York opening, Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University, made a brief address before the play and afterward an album containing autographed letters from men and women prominent in every walk of life was presented to Mr. Gillette by Dr. William Lyon Phelps, professor of English at Yale. This was the most important theatrical event in many a long year, from the point of view of the audience assembled. And an attentive member of the audience declared that by actual count there were but four men in the house not in evening dress.

The arts are represented in Mr. Gillette's treasured volume of letters by such men and women as Mr. Winthrop Ames, Miss Margaret Anglin, Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, Mr. Daniel Frohman, Mr. Hamlin Garland, Mr. Charles Dana Gibson, Mr. Gari Melchers, Mrs. Minnie Maddern Fiske, Miss Crystal Herne, Mr. Booth Tarkington, Dr. Henry Van Dyke and Mr. Lorado Taft.

The Belgian Ambassador and Princess de Ligne will entertain at dinner Tuesday evening.

The Mexican Ambassador and Senora de Tellez will entertain at a reception Saturday evening, December 28, in honor of the President-elect of Mexico and Senora de Ortiz Rubio, who will be in Washington for several days after Christmas.

The Ambassador and Senor Ortiz Rubio will receive the guests alone, as Senora de Tellez is still recuperating from a recent operation.

The newly appointed Ambassador of Peru, Senor Manuel Prayre Santenden, will arrive in Washington in February from London, where he is now Ambassador. The retiring Ambassador, Dr. Hernan Velarde, will leave shortly after his arrival here.

The Minister of Austria and Mme. Prochnik will have as their guests for the holiday the latter's mother, Mrs. Edward P. James, who will arrive on Wednesday. Mr. James and Miss Violet James will arrive later in the week.

The Minister of China and Mme. Wu will entertain at dinner Thursday evening in honor of the newly appointed Minister to China, Mr. Nelson Johnson, who will leave shortly for his new post.

Maj. and Mrs. Eley Parker Denson are receiving congratulations on the birth of a son on Friday, December 13.

Col. and Mrs. Glenn Smith have left on a trip to the Grand Canyon and Phoenix, Ariz. They will return East by way of New Orleans and will be in their apartment at the Wardman Park Hotel soon after the first of the year.

A meeting of those who will take part in the International Tableaux, arranged by Mrs. Walter Tuckerman, will be held this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at the Carlton. Under the auspices of the Colonial Dames of America, these tableaux will be presented at the Carlton on January 15, the proceeds to go toward the restoration of Wythe House.

Mrs. Davis Elkins Here For Holidays With Mother.

Mrs. Davis Elkins and small daughter, Catherine, and small son, Davis, jr., are visiting Mrs. Elkins' mother, Mrs. Catherine Regan, of Cathedral avenue, for the holiday season.

D. A. R. Chapter To Give Card Party.

The Patriot's Memorial Chapter, D. A. R., will give a card party in January at the Collier Inn to augment the fund for various endeavors sponsored by the chapter and for the budget proposed by the State executive committee. Mrs. L. E. Collier entertained at a luncheon on Tuesday at Collier's Inn, her guests being the members of the chapter. Later Mrs. Collier took her guests to her home on Biltmore road, where the club held regular patriotic exercises and listened to reports of various committee chairmen.

Mrs. Katherine W. Fettis will be hostess to the group on January 14 at her home, 1725 H street northwest.

The engagement of Miss Josefa Hofmann, only daughter of Mr. Josef Hofmann, pianist, composer, and director of music at Curtis Institute, Philadelphia, to Mr. Howard Cleugh Fair, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Fair, Roland place, Kingston, Ont., has been announced at Aiken, S. C., the winter home of Mr. Hofmann. Miss Hofmann is Mr. Hofmann's daughter by his former marriage to Mrs. Marie Corcoran Eustis. The marriage will take place Christmas Eve at Aiken.

Popular Debutante of This Season

Underwood & Underwood.

MISS ELEANOR CRAIN, daughter of Mrs. Robert Crain, for whom a number of dinners and dances have been given. Miss Crain made her debut at a dance given by her mother on September 14 at their home in Maryland.

Howards to Be Honor Guests At Film Event

New Pictures of India to Be Shown by Bureau of Economics.

Sir Esme Howard, the British Ambassador, and Lady Isabella will be the honor guests of the Bureau of Commercial Economics at the Carlton Hotel Sunday night, January 5, at 9 o'clock when new films of mystic India, Darjeeling, Mount Everest and Thibet will be screened. Mr. George Remington, of the Indian government, will speak.

This is the first of the new series of diplomatic Sunday night motion picture events of the bureau, under direction of Dr. Anita M. Boggs and her brother, Mr. Randolph M. Boggs. The season's program includes films in honor of Germany, Hungary, Serbia, Poland, Roumania, Siam, New Zealand, Canada, Switzerland, Bulgaria, Dominican Republic and the United States Army and Navy. This is the sixth season of the bureau's work.

Col. and Mrs. Dean Halford, who passed the fall at the Wardman Park Hotel, are now at their home in Kalamazoo, Mich., where they will spend Christmas. They will go to San Francisco early in January and will sail from there on the Maloio on January 11 for Honolulu.

Mr. and Mrs. Millard P. West and their daughter, Miss Betty West, will entertain at tea on Sunday, December 29, for their guests, Miss Christine Myers, Mr. Philip Myers and Mr. Jack Myers. Mr. Philip Myers is the roommate of Mr. Millard West, jr., at Princeton University, and with his brother and sister will pass the holiday with Mr. and Mrs. West. Miss West will be a debutante of next season.

Mrs. Herbert Sparrow Plans Visit to Son at West Point.

Mrs. Herbert Sparrow will leave this week to spend the Christmas holidays with her son, Cadet Herbert George Sparrow, at West Point, returning to Washington early in January.

Dr. Thomas Wilson and his daughter who have been passing some time at the Wardman Park Hotel will leave today for Charleston, S. C., where they will spend Christmas at the Villa Margherita. They will later go to Miami and will return to the Wardman Park Hotel in the early spring.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Davis will have as their guests for Christmas their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Patten Cheeseborough, jr., and their young son, who will arrive from their home in Bronxville, N. Y., this week.

Mr. Edgar Hamilton Funk and Mr. Ben Stevens have returned from Harrisonburg, Va., where they were guests over the week-end. Mr. Funk will entertain at dinner Friday evening in honor of his niece, Miss Margaret Desire Reamy.

The Commercial Counselor of the British Embassy and Lady Broderick have taken an apartment at the Wardman Park Hotel for the winter.

At the residence of Mrs. Gibson Fahnestock Thursday morning at 11 o'clock there will be a meeting of the Washington committee to arrange for a drive for books to be sent to the coast guards and lighthouses as well as the merchant marne. Mrs. Fahnestock is chairman of the association; Mrs. Robert Whitney Imbrie, vice chairman, and Miss Dorothy Sollers, secretary.

Coming to Capital From Schenectady.

Mrs. Max M. Rich, of Connecticut avenue, will have with her over the holidays her granddaughter, Bettie Rich, who will arrive from Schenectady, N. Y., December 23.

Washington Chapter of the Child Study Association of America met Friday in their bimonthly conference with Mrs. David Gross. Mrs. B. Oppenheim, of Baltimore, was the principal speaker.

The Alpha Delta Pi Alumnae Chapter holds regular monthly meetings the second Tuesday in each month. The chapter also meets for luncheon at 1:30 the third Saturday of each month. This week the luncheon will be at Woodward & Lothrop's. All Alpha Beta Pis are urged to come.

Miss March and Mr. Cristensen Wed This Week

Quiet Ceremony Planned With Only Intimates to Be Present.

The wedding of Miss Cora Wells March, daughter of Federal Trade Commissioner and Mrs. Charles Hoyt March, to Mr. Christian Lauriths Cristensen, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. Marius Cristensen, of Minden, Nebr., will take place at noon on Wednesday at the home of the bride's parents, 2101 Connecticut avenue, the Rev. Dr. Z. Barney Phillips officiating.

The bride will have no attendants, but Miss Agnes Shands, a schoolmate, will receive the guests with Mr. and Mrs. March and will assist at the buffet breakfast which will follow the ceremony. Mr. Cristensen will have as his best man Mr. Douglas B. Porteous. A number of out-of-town guests and relatives are here for the ceremony at which only the immediate families and a few close friends will be present. Mr. Cristensen is secretary of the Federal Farm Board.

Miss Helen Simon has as her house guests over the week-end Miss Dorothy Newman, of Baltimore, and Miss Gertrude Schoonenberg, of Chicago, who attends Goucher College in Baltimore.

Mrs. William Cole will entertain the members of the Dixie Chapter, United Daughters of Confederacy, at her home in Florence Court, 2153 California street, on Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock.

Mrs. I. Friedman announces the marriage of her daughter, Miss Ruth Friedman, to Mr. William A. Lowenberg at Memphis, Tenn., December 11. Mr. and Mrs. Lowenberg have left for a trip to Gulfport, Miss., New Orleans, Cuba and Florida and will be at home after January 15 at the Parkview Hotel, Memphis, Tenn.

Mrs. Lloyd Montgomery Shepard will be joined on Thursday at the Wardman Park Hotel by her son, Monty Shepard, who will come from Fessenden School in Boston.

Mrs. Shepard will start South by motor in a short while and will pass the remainder of the winter at her home in Miami. She will return to the Wardman Park Hotel for the spring season.

Col. and Mrs. C. E. N. Howard, of 1831 Belmont road northwest, will have with them for the holidays their sons, Cadet C. E. N. Howard, jr., of the Military Academy, and Midshipman James H. Howard, from the Naval Academy.

The Washington Alumnae Chapter of Zeta Tau Alpha fraternity met at the home of Miss Olive Geiger last Friday evening, Miss Mildred Callahan acting as joint hostess. Miss Olga Johnson, of Arkansas, was welcomed to membership in the chapter, and the meeting was followed by bridge. Among those present were Mrs. Una Baird, Mrs. W. Paul Briggs, Miss Beatrice Clephane, Miss Pauline Bruner, Mrs. Laurie Hess, Mrs. Donald Kirkley, Miss Frances James, Miss Lurena Perrine, Mrs. Paul Loehler, Miss Virginia Ronsaville, Miss Lucy Proctor, Miss Elizabeth Masterson, Mrs. Charles Sammons, Miss Mildred Trotter, Miss Phoebe Tauberschmidt and Mrs. Howard Warren.

Beta Alpha chapter of Zeta Tau Alpha fraternity entertained its patrons and patronnesses and the members of the Washington Alumnae chapter at tea at the Army and Navy Country Club on Sunday afternoon.

The Sigma Chi chapter of the Alpha Sigma Lamba fraternity (Mr. F. Edwin Dieste, president), gave a banquet and dance at the Lee House Saturday evening to celebrate the first annual founders day.

Mr. Willis Henderson was chairman of the committee in charge of arrangements.

Mrs. Jack Bibro, of Pittsburgh, is the guest of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Max Weyl 2d, at the Broadmoor.

Mrs. Nellie Kastleberg and daughter, Miss Claire Kastleberg, of Baltimore, have come to Washington to pass the winter and are located at the Ambassador Hotel.

Dr. Alexander W. Acheson and Mr. George Moulton, who attended the flood control conferences at the Willard Hotel, returned Friday to their home in Denison, Tex.

The New York State Society of Washington will entertain with a New Year's dance on the evening of January 4, at the Willard Hotel.

Among the guests of honor will be members of Congress from New York State.

There will be a program of music by Mr. Charles Watts, of Washington, accompanied at the piano by Mr. Russell Barr.

Mr. Herbert J. McClure, president of the society, heads the committee in charge. The reception committee is under the supervision of Mrs. Horace T. Herrick; the music committee, Mrs. Carlton van Valkenburg, and the floor committee, Dr. William J. Davis.

The Mount Pleasant Chapter of the Eastern Star entertained at dinner followed by bridge last evening in the Garden House of the Dodge Hotel. Mr. E. E. Swan was in charge of arrangements.

A New Year's Eve ball will be given by the District of Columbia Department of the Reserve Officers Associates at the Raleigh Hotel with Lieut. Charles Riemer, of the Military Intelligence Reserve, acting as chairman.

The committee in charge includes Maj. Charles Demonet, Maj. Lester Wilson, Maj. Frederick Livingstone, Maj. L. M. Leisenring, Maj. H. K. Bentley, Maj. Charles W. Freeman, Maj. Wallace Streater, Maj. C. P. Skemp, Col. Fred B. Ryons, Lieut. Col. J. Miller Kenyon, Lieut. Col. Isaac Weil, Lieut. Col. Edgar J. Roberson, Lieut. Col. Robert P. Parrott, Lieut. Col. Thomas H. Shanton, Capt. A. C. Adair, Capt. Clinton J. Tribby, Capt. Milton J. Landveight, Capt. Irving G. Menekeim, Lieut. Andrew Schwartz and Lieut. Robert Pritchard.

The Society of Natives, District of Columbia, comprising about 800 men and women born in Washington, will hold a Christmas celebration at the Washington Club, Seventeenth and K streets, at 8 o'clock Friday evening. There will be a Christmas tree and the singing of carols and other songs that were the vogue a generation ago.

The Christmas committee for this year is headed by Mrs. J. C. Kondrup, chairman; Mr. Lee D. Latimer, Mrs. Henry Fenno Sawtelle, Mr. Washington Topham, Mr. Israel, Miss Taggart, Mrs. Lisle Lipscomb, Mr. Frank Dowling, Mr. John A. Saul and Mr. Hall.

In the receiving line will be Mrs. Anna E. Hendley, Miss Margaret E. Forbes and Mr. Percy B. Israel. Mrs. Sawtelle and Mrs. Ella C. Robinson will preside at the tables.

A reception for the new officers of the society will feature the program. The officers are: Mr. Fred A. Emery, president; Judge Gus A. Schuldt, first vice president; Mrs. Sawtelle, second vice president; Mr. Ralph L. Hall, third vice president; Mr. James F. Duhamel, historian; Mr. Frederick G. Umhau, treasurer; Miss Emma A. Bright, recording secretary; Miss May E. Hungerford, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Ella C. Robinson, chairman entertainment committee; Miss Etta L. Taggart and Mr. Emery, delegates to the Federation of Citizens Associations.

Miss Janet Richards will give her usual Monday review this morning of "Political History in the Making" at the Masonic Temple, Thirteenth street and New York avenue, at 10:45 o'clock. In these weekly talks, Miss Richards outlines the outstanding events in the world's work, making use of large maps to clarify the questions under discussion. Among the subjects touched upon this week will be the situation in regard to Haiti, congressional activities, Great Britain's recent problems in Egypt and elsewhere, and other vital questions of the hour to date. An additional book list will also be given.

Fifth Ave. Fashions NEW YORK

Simple elegance expressed in new frock of jacquard silk crepe.

Everywhere in fashionable circles, smart women are appearing in most attractive colorful printed silks. No wonder! They are so entirely flattering and youthful.

The Style No. 8108 is simply exquisite. It's within the reach of the most modest budget, and even the amateur at sewing.

It is decidedly French, the type the exclusive shops are showing for smart daytime wear.

You must include it in your new wardrobe. You'll be so pleased with its practicality.

The scalloped neckline is accented by piping which appears again at lower edge of hip yoke with dip in the front. The circular skirt sways graciously at each move of wearer.

It comes in sizes 16, 18 years, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust. In the medium size, 3¼ yards of 36-inch material is sufficient to make it.

Cut it out—join sides and shoulders of bodice. Seam two-piece hip yoke and stich to lower edge of bodice. Seam two-piece skirt and stitch to hip yoke. And it is finished! It's an opportunity not to be overlooked.

Faille silk crepe in rich dark brown shade is effective.

Plum shade sheer velvet, bottle green flat silk crepe, dark dahlia purple silk crepe, black canton crepe and crepe satin in tobacco brown charming selections.

TODAY'S WOMEN

By EARL MINDERMAN

DECEMBER 16.

JANE AUSTEN, the famous English novelist, was born this day, 1775. Her novels are among the best in the English language and even more popular after her death than before. She lived for the most part in the English countryside or in small towns, and her novels deal with the higher middle classes in the English country. Her most popular novel is "Pride and Prejudice." Her other novels include "Sense and Sensibility," "Emma," "Mansfield Park," "Northanger Abbey" and "Persuasion."

Another portrayer of English country life was born this day. She was Mary Russell Mitford, born this day, 1787. She was known first as a dramatist and later as a novelist, but will be best remembered for her simply-worded sketches of English country life. She was the daughter of a spendthrift father to whom she was pathetically devoted, and lived in her native county almost her entire life.

Other noted women born this day include Josephine S. Lowell, American philanthropist, 1843, and Elizabeth Carter, English poet and linguist 1717.

WORK ON BRIDGE

(This article is intended for the Bridge novice.)

MANY players have fairly well defined ideas about what should be led against a No Trump contract when partner has bid and when he has not bid; and they understand that, against a suit contract, they should lead partner's suit if he has bid one. But the determination of what to lead against a suit contract when partner has not bid is apt to prove troublesome; it is natural that this should be the case because in many hands it is difficult to say which is the best lead.

Against a suit contract the idea is to win tricks quickly with honors, not establish small cards; consequently many high-card combinations are opened with a card which would not be the proper selection against a No Trump. Declarer has bid his suit because of its strength and length, and the establishing and cashing of a plain suit against it is not apt to be possible.

The leader against a suit contract should avoid opening a tenace suit regardless of its length. Suit headed by three honors in sequence and Ace-King suits offer the most advantageous leads. When the leader has less than four trumps, a singleton of a suit that has not been bid by either opponent may prove to be the winning lead.

When the leader has Ace and King of a suit, the King is the proper lead (except that Ace is led from an Ace-King doubleton). If the King wins, the contents of the dummy and the size of the card played by the partner usually will show whether the King should be followed with the Ace, or a shift should be made. Partner will not play his lowest card if he wishes a continuance of the suit.

The play of Ace followed by the King shows that the leader has no more of the suit and desires to ruff it if partner can get a chance to lead it back. The lead against a suit contract when the partner has not bid is generally a disadvantage, but some suits are more apt to work badly than others. If possible, avoid leading from—

Suits headed by a tenace.

Suits headed by a single honor, especially a King.

A worthless doubleton or trebleton.

REASSURING FRANCE.

Assuming to act as spokesman for the United States as well as for Great Britain, Foreign Secretary Henderson directs to the government and people of France some patronizing remarks as to the effect of the "understanding" which Prime Minister MacDonald now claims to have consummated with President Hoover.

Mr. Henderson does not dare to define what this alleged "understanding" is or purports to be. Obviously he could not do this without running the risk of drawing a denial from President Hoover as to the existence of any such understanding. So the British Foreign Secretary tells France what the "understanding" does not mean, and cleverly insinuates the idea of the existence of an Anglo-American entente in the following language:

> The understanding which the premier was happily able to make with the President of the United States does not mean that we will go to the conference with any rigid or cut-and-dried proposals.
> On the contrary we shall endeavor throughout by negotiation and cooperation to bring about the reduction and limitation of armaments which is in the common interest of all.

Thus France must have implicit faith in the Anglo-American understanding. Premier Tardieu must not be suspicious or inquisitive as to what the understanding means. According to Mr. Henderson, the French interests are in safe hands, and Great Britain and the United States can be relied upon to act unselfishly in proposing plans for French national defense. It would be a mistake for M. Tardieu to assume that the Anglo-American "understanding" will close the door to France's presentation of her own case at London. Whatever disposition Great Britain and the United States may have made in advance of matters affecting France is a matter open to further negotiation and cooperation, according to Mr. Henderson.

From the French viewpoint there may be a desire to know more about this "understanding," and to what extent Great Britain and the United States have agreed to act jointly in negotiating with France.

From the American standpoint, the question arises as to where Mr. Henderson gets his authority for asserting that any "understanding or entente or alliance, if you please," exists between Great Britain and the United States.

Since his talk with President Hoover in October Prime Minister MacDonald has repeatedly sought to convey the impression that an Anglo-American political understanding had been reached, and that President Hoover had committed himself. Despite denial from the White House these reports are persistently circulated in Great Britain, and of course they arouse curiosity and apprehension in France, Italy and Japan. Mr. MacDonald himself, when in Washington, asked the British correspondents to insinuate this in their cables to London. The London Times stressed the idea of an understanding and predicted the unfavorable French and Italian reaction as follows:

> Despite the scrupulous care of President Hoover and Mr. MacDonald to emphasize the contingent nature of their proposals, despite repeated denials of any attempt to present the nations with a fait accompli or any alliance or entente, France and Italy persist in harboring suspicions as to the scope and intention of the Anglo-American discussions.

Mr. Henderson may realize that the suspicions of France will be further aroused by his statement insinuating that a definite Anglo-American program was formed in advance of the naval conference, but from Mr. MacDonald's viewpoint it seems to be important to stress the idea of an Anglo-American entente or joint policy. Mr. Henderson has tried to accomplish a difficult feat. He tries to tell one story to France and another to the British people.

FEDERAL PRISON CAMPS.

The Federal superintendent of prisons, under authority of the Attorney General, is doing his best to ameliorate the evils of overcrowding and idleness in prisons. These bad conditions are a factor in the outbreaks that have occurred in Federal and State prisons, and unless they are ameliorated it is to be expected that prisoners will face death by revolting, rather than suffer torture that has become unbearable.

One of the expedients adopted by the Federal superintendent of prisons is that of placing groups of convicts in boarding camps where they will have work in fairly sanitary surroundings. The experiment is under trial in Georgia, where about 70 colored convicts have been placed in camps maintained by the State. The Federal Government pays for the board and lodging of the prisoners and has supervision over their labors, in order to insure proper treatment. The fruit of the convict labor goes to the State. If the experiment should be successful it is proposed to place white convicts in similar camps, under similar safeguards. In the meantime the Department of Justice urges Congress to make provision for Federal outdoor camps, where convicts may be employed solely in Federal public works.

It seems probable that the expedient of turning over Federal convicts to State prison authorities will encounter such violent opposition as to force an abandonment of the plan. Objection is made on several grounds, the first one being, of course, that discrimination is made between colored and white convicts. The Department of Justice denies that any thought of discrimination has been entertained, and that it is a mere accident that colored convicts were first sent into a work camp, because a dormitory was available, while no dormitory for white convicts is yet available. But even if no distinction should be made between white and black prisoners, objection to the plan is interposed on the ground that particular States are to profit by the forced labor of Federal prisoners. It is also suggested in congressional circles that the delivery of Federal convicts from overcrowded prisons will merely increase the flow of prisoners into the penitentiaries.

Assuming that no discrimination will be shown between colored and white convicts, the most valid objection to the plan is that the labor of the convicts is virtually a gift from the Federal Treasury to certain States. If Government work for Federal convicts is available they should be put to that task without delay, and not be turned over to State taskmasters. Very few branches of work can be found, however, in which convicts can work without competing with free labor, and public opinion forbids such competition.

Congress can help in solving the prison problem by providing for work camps and by specifying the kinds of work which convicts shall perform. The success of the District of Columbia prisoners' camp at Occoquan indicates that Federal penitentiaries could be relieved of overcrowding and the evil of idleness by the establishment of outdoor camps where prisoners can be kept busy at useful and healthful work. No more massive stone and steel cages for the incarceration of human beings need be built.

CONTROL OF RADIO.

It remains to be seen whether the recommendation with respect to radio made by President Hoover in his annual message will be adopted. He said:

> I recommend the organization of the Radio Commission into a permanent body from its present temporary status. The requirement of the present law that the commissioners shall be appointed from specified zones should be abolished and a general provision made for their equitable selection from different parts of the country. Despite the effort of the commissioners, the present method develops a public insistence that the commissioners are especially charged with supervision of radio affairs in the zone from which each is appointed. As a result there is danger that the system will degenerate from a national system into five regional agencies with varying practices, varying policies, competitive tendencies and consequent failure to attain its utmost capacity for service to the people as a whole.

Bills are before both houses of Congress calling for an indefinite extension of the life of the Radio Commission. In addition, the committee on interstate commerce is holding hearings on the Couzens bill to create a communications commission with authority to regulate radio, telephone and telegraph. An identical bill has been introduced in the House by Representative Celler. The bills for the indefinite extension of the life of the commission are regarded as in harmony with the communications commission bill. It is realized that the enactment of such legislation will be delayed, and that, in the meantime, there is vital need of radio control.

But President Hoover recommends the permanent reorganization of the Radio Commission rather than the mere indefinite extension of its life. This gives rise to the question: Does he believe that radio should be regarded as a unit of itself, separate from other agencies of communication?

UNITY OF COMMUNICATIONS

Officials of the Radio Corporation have made a good case before the Senate interstate commerce committee for unification of the Nation's communication services. They have pointed out that duplicate and competing services necessitate duplicated facilities; that radio and cable have become complementary to each other, and that their unification would make possible a service superior to that which either can offer at present, and that unification would enable American communications to present a united front against like combinations in other countries. They have recognized the fact that if unification is permitted, Government control and regulation must necessarily follow.

Public utilities must, of necessity, be monopolistic. Communities having two telephone companies, of which a few remain, stand in proof of the fact that competition in the public utility field begets confusion, waste and general dissatisfaction. It becomes increasingly apparent that communications are public utilities and that, as such, they should be permitted to develop along monopolistic lines. But just as the rates, services, &c., of gas companies and railroads are regulated, so must the rates and services of the communication monopoly be regulated. This should be done by a commission, endowed with broad powers and wide authority.

Gen. Harbord, president of the Radio Corporation, is opposed to the commission idea. He suggests that an executive department of communications be established. He is opposed to practically all Government commissions, which he characterizes as "devices for the avoidance of responsibility."

The Interstate Commerce Commission, however, functions efficiently. Others may be subject to criticism. Commissions dealing with matters of opinion, politics or intangibles are, as a rule, inefficient.

Regulation of communications should be vested in a commission. A separate executive department is not necessary. The communication commission should have authority and power. Such a commission would function with the efficiency of the Interstate Commerce Commission, and make possible unification of the Nation's communication services without sacrificing the public interest.

AMBULANCE RIGHT OF WAY.

Acting upon insistent public criticism of the speed and noise of the Emergency Hospital ambulance, directors of that institution have caused to be removed the offending warning siren and have ordered the driver to maintain the regular speed limit when answering future calls. The wisdom of the new policy remains to be demonstrated.

Shrieking sirens are objectionable and speeding vehicles of any type or nature are potentially dangerous. But ambulances are vehicles of mercy and, as such, they are entitled to the right of way over other traffic, the progress of which does not need be expedited. It may be true that drivers of the Emergency Hospital ambulance have abused the use of the siren by clearing the way with it when they were not on emergency errands. If so, the remedy would seem to have been to discharge the driver and hire another who would have recognized the responsibility of the job.

In Baltimore, a year or so ago, a plan for preliminary police investigation of calls for an ambulance was worked out in an effort to prevent unnecessary dashes through the streets. Not long after the plan was put into effect, a person died from bleeding as a direct result of the delay in investigating the need for an ambulance. The Emergency ambulance, without its siren, will not be able to proceed swiftly to the scene of an emergency call. It is to be hoped that no lives will be lost as a result.

OBSCENE FOREIGN BOOKS

From the New York Times.

An increase in importations of books that come within the provisions of section 305 of the 1922 tariff act, which denies entry into the United States of obscene books from any foreign country, has added materially to the work of the "book censor" of the Treasury Department—who is J. D. Nevius, deputy commissioner of customs. Though collectors of customs in some 250 cities of the United States are responsible for 90 per cent of the seizures, in cases of doubt the books are referred to Washington.

An employe of the Treasury for some 30 years, Mr. Nevius started as a clerk. Studying law, he was later assigned to the legal division of the bureau, and now has charge of it. Censorship of books is only one of his duties, but it raises many questions that call for complex decisions.

Books may be referred to Washington either by a customs collector who wishes to have a higher authority pass upon the legality of their importation, or by an importer whose books have been seized and who hopes that the decision on them will be reversed. Barely a week passes that two or three books do not come to be examined, and some weeks bring considerably more. Once, in a period of three months, 106 titles were seized. Reports from customs officers throughout the country show that seizures have been increasing in numbers, especially since the war.

The censorship is by no means a one-man job. The books first of all are read and examined by one of Mr. Nevius' principal assistants, J. B. Corridon. Mr. Corridon is also a lawyer, who for several years has made a special study of the laws and legal decisions covering book imports. Not infrequently differences of opinion arise which are not settled until the book has been referred to Capt. Eble, commissioner of customs, and Seymour Lowman, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury. Occasionally the difference of opinion will be so marked that a book will be taken to Ogden Mills, Undersecretary of the Treasury.

Importers have other means of redress against the seizure of books. They may appeal either to the customs court or to the Federal courts. A number of appeals of this sort are now pending, and recently the court has overruled the bureau of the customs, which barred "The Well of Loneliness," by Miss Hadelyffe Hall.

Congress has had a ban on the admission of obscene literature since 1842. In carrying out the mandate of Congress the Treasury Department has not tried to work out rules of censorship of its own. It has merely sought to exclude books that fall within the scope of the statute. In this it has been helped by numerous court decisions. In fact, a body of law has been developed in this field that enables officials of the customs bureau, in nine cases out of ten, to reach a quick decision. Customs officials, of course, have no authority over books published in the United States nor over the interstate transportation of books of this kind.

TO THE GOSSIP.

Why do you come with the dolefullest tales
To peddle about to me?
Why is it only when somebody fails
You want to shout to me?
Why is it only the worst things you tarry on,
Picking up scandal as something to carry on?
Why from life's stream do you scoop up the scum
Eagerly, proudly?
Why of disaster and woe do you come
Talking so loudly?
Why is it always the worst news you yell to me?
Can't you find something uplifting to tell me?
Don't you know one man to praise or admire
Doing his duty?
Are you deaf to all laughter and song, I inquire,
And blind to all beauty?
Can it be you're so fond of the gloomy and vile thing
That you never notice a really worthwhile thing?
Talk less of failure and more of success.
Here's what's the matter:
We've too many gossips who peddle distress
And gloom in their chatter.
We need a few boosters who'll talk for the right side
And advertise life as it is on the bright side.

To Reject the Food Is to Insult the Host.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

THE air is filled with a constant barrage of energy waves.

From radio broadcasting stations the ether waves are discharged like the stream of missiles from a machine gun. They penetrate walls and hills. They pass through your body. But they are not felt or seen or heard, and they are useless until they strike the delicate instruments made to receive them and translate them into sound.

These waves carry news and music and amusing entertainment for the benefit of all mankind, and their service is free; but they are wasted and worthless unless men make a conscious effort to profit by them. They are not forced on the unwilling.

Sound waves are similar. They fill the air—traveling slowly, colliding with one another, penetrating some objects and rebounding from others. Some are so low in the scale and some so high that man never is aware of them, but nature has equipped him with delicate instruments to receive and translate into sound the waves that are essential to his well being.

He hears the sounds that bring him pleasure and warning and instruction, but their message is not forced on him. He can give his attention to other matters and the sounds will be worthless and wasted. The waves exist for his benefit, but he must make a conscious effort to profit by them. He is free to choose.

Light waves are provided for his benefit, also. He is given delicate instruments to receive and translate the ones he needs. But there are others, above and below his range of wisdom, that are hidden from him as all rays are hidden from the blind.

These are provided to kill his enemies—to purify and prepare his food—to give him vigor and abounding health and length of life. But they are not forced on him. He can hide from them. He is free to accept or reject them.

But he has no right to reject them. The fact that he is equipped to profit by them and can not develop perfectly without them is sufficient proof that the Creator's laws require him to use them.

To obey the laws of nature and of nature's God is to be in harmony with the universe; to disobey is to be an outlaw and a rebel, and to suffer the penalties of disobedience.

Is one law of God more binding than another? "Thou shalt not kill," says the law. To crowd the poor in sunless, disease-breeding hovels is no less evil than the butchery of war.

"Live in the sunlight," says the law. To disobey is to scorn the plan of God.

The ancients worshiped the sun. They were not far wrong. To absorb the sun's rays is to worship God by obeying His beneficent law.

"Ex-Governor Alfred E. Smith, candidate for the Presidency in the last campaign, and who has been an official of a trucking company and a builder of skyscrapers, has now become the head of a bank."—News item.

Depositor: Good morning.

Mr. Smith: Good morning. What can I do for you? We do trucking to all parts of the city, move you anywhere in the East, crate your piano or. . . .

Depositor: Oh, I thought this was a bank.

Mr. Smith (realizing his mistake): So it is. Of course, it's a bank. I've had so many businesses, you know. Awfully sorry. You want to borrow some money, I assume.

Depositor: Not at all.

Mr. Smith: Good. You see I've been in politics so long I can't escape the notion that whenever people approach me they are looking for something.

Depositor: I wish to open an account.

Mr. Smith: Splendid; how tall?

Depositor: What?

Mr. Smith: How many stories * * * beg pardon * * * there I go talking like a builder * * * I mean how big an account?

Depositor—About $1,000, to begin with.

Mr. Smith—That's a good foundation.

Depositor—This is a strong bank, is it not?

Mr. Smith—It's never been defeated. Last year it carried the State by * * * gosh! There I go getting all mixed up again.

Depositor—How many depositors have you?

Mr. Smith—Returns from 26 countries with 167 voting districts missing give us 18,573, and all the countries still to come in are strongly Democratic. Would you like to see the blue-prints?

Depositor—What blue-prints?

Mr. Smith—The blue-prints showing the new skyscraper in every detail. It is going to be one of the tallest buildings in the world, higher than the Woolworth Building. I'm building it for the Saturday Evening Post in six installments. It will tell the story of my life and have eighteen elevators and guarantee the American people a higher working wage. I yield to no man in my. * * *

Mr. Smith—Well, I guess I'm a little confused myself.

WHO DICTATES STYLES?

We rather surmise that the style-makers who are credited with leading our women like a lot of sheep have had less to do in the matter than they are credited with. The outcome of the conflict now being entered into will show whether we have guessed right or not, says the Omaha World Herald. Whether simplification has been overdone or hasn't yet reached its maximum is for better judges than we to say. A few inches above or below the knee isn't likely to make much difference to the average American woman, but we are betting that she is too strong-minded to let any Paris dressmaker hobble her again to the point of discomfort. American merchants are apparently set for this resistance. A smart Fifth avenue shop in New York, stocked with the new designs, is reported to have them all in duplicate in the shorter lengths for women who refuse to go back to the long skirts.

THREE A MINUTE.

The population of the continental United States is now increasing at the rate of about 1,600,000 persons per year, or approximately one person every 23 seconds, according to the Boston Transcript. The total increase is made up of the annual excess of births over deaths, which amounts to 1,150,000 and the excess of immigration over emigration, which amounts to an additional 240,000 per year. By 1930 the population will be more than 30 times as great as it was in 1790 and nearly twice what it was in 1890, or only 40 years ago. History records no other instance in which the population has increased so rapidly.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Tendency to Separate Children From Parents in Public School Character Building—A Communist Ideal.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In connection with the Board of Education's proposal "to intensify the character education already being carried out in Washington schools," let me recommend that those parents interested in the subject read the dispatch under a Moscow date line, headed "Red Advocates Separation of Children From Parents," in The Post of December 12, page 7.

The "Red" referred to is L. M. Sabsovitch, one of Russia's leading economists.

Children, he thinks, should not be the "property" of their parents. They should become the "property" of the state. The state should assume complete responsibility for their care and upbringing.

As stated in the dispatch, "Sabsovitch recommends that babies be taken away from their mothers immediately after birth and never returned to the parental roof. He would place them in special 'baby houses' to be established along lines of socialistic pedagogy."

Our Board of Education will, of course, not go as far as this in its program of public school character-building. Yet the fact that they seek means to "intensify" that already being carried out in our schools suggests that, looking at it from the American point of view, they may possibly go a little too far in the direction of "scientific," "expert" or "psycho-analytic" character building. By too far I mean the point where the influence of the home would be almost, if not altogether, lost sight of.

Questions Right of Budget Bureau to Veto Expenditure for Enforcing Anti-Smoke Law.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I have noticed in a recent Post that Health Commissioner Fowler has assigned three additional inspectors to the task of enforcing the antismoke law, taking these inspectors off their regular assignments, in a commendable effort to overcome the smoke nuisance, against which all law-abiding citizens are becoming aroused.

In this same story in The Post is the statement that Dr. Fowler was obliged to resort to this expedient because the estimates before Congress do not provide for the additional needed inspectors, the provision for an increased number having been eliminated by the Budget Bureau.

Will you please inform a citizen and taxpayer why the Budget Bureau should have the authority to veto this comparatively small and very necessary expenditure for the enforcement of a law vital not only to the property preservation but to the health of the entire community?

Junior High School Good for Those Who Must Graduate Into Active Life.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Dr. Frank W. Ballou, superintendent of public schools, at a meeting of the Home and School Association at the Brightwood Junior High School, stated, as reported in The Post, that "the purpose of the junior high school system is to relieve the elementary schools of congestion, bring the high school closer to the home, provide better occupational training for seventh and eighth grade children, and help each child obtain the kind of education best fitted for its individual needs."

This statement is important because it may give some who are not well informed a clear idea of what the junior high school really is. That the junior high school, in providing "better occupational training," fills a long-felt want, can not be denied. I have always felt that the high school gets beyond its proper bounds in giving college preparatory training the preference over training suited to boys and girls who graduate direct into the ordinary activities of life.

Impatient Stockholder Wants to Consolidate World Communication Facilities.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I was greatly interested in the report of the recommendations made to the Senate by Mr. Owen D. Young, chairman of the board of the Radio Corporation of America.

My family holds 1,200 shares R. C. A. and an equal number of American Telephone & Telegraph.

Now that the United States is in the world court, I believe that all air and wire communications throughout the entire globe—radio, cable, telegraph and telephone—should be monopolized by a huge international corporation, I would like to learn the opinions of other stockholders, both large and small, in the various companies which would be consolidated under such a scheme.

Why Shouldn't Street Cars Run Backward When a Senator So Desires?

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Why shouldn't a street car back up if a United States senator has been taken past his destination? It seems to me that the request of Senator Blease was entirely reasonable, and that the excuses offered by the conductor and motorman were not justifiable.

It is true that if the car had started backward it might have met another car on the same track, but what was to prevent the second car from backing also? And if this second car met a third, the latter car could have backed, and so on with the fourth and fifth cars, or as many as you wish.

A simple signal would have sufficed to start the backing operations and the senator would have been satisfied.

PETITIONS SEEK U.S. RULE AT HAITI POLLS

Seven Political Groups in Island Send Pleas to President Hoover.

BORNO REGIME LASHED

Port Au Prince, Dec. 15 (A.P.).—Petitions signed by the presidents of seven Haitian political organizations asking United States supervision of the presidential elections next April were sent by air mail today to President Hoover.

The signatories of the petitions claim to have more than 100,000 followers in the interior. The petitions state that only through American supervision of elections will the Haitians receive fair and impartial treatment. They charge President Louis Borno with attempts to enslave the citizenry, with denying freedom of the press and with violating the personal liberty clauses of the republic's constitution.

The signers state that unless the United States takes immediate and decisive steps to clear the Haitian political situation through the requested controlled elections the island will remain "in its present state of incipient revolution."

They charge that free and impartial elections can not exist under the French electoral system which places electoral rights within the power of a committee of 21. They allege that this committee has always been bought by the administration.

The republic was quiet over the week-end. The martial law established last week has been relaxed and the curfew hour gradually extended. Officers of the Marine Corps said they expected martial law to be removed early this week.

News dispatches of the demonstrations in New York, Washington and other American cities have been kept from the public by the high commissioner.

from Khallor. The Chinese commander at Mientuho warned the consuls against proceeding westward when their train arrived there last Saturday. Continued silence regarding the nationals of the several nations in the territory occupied by the Russian forces led to the formation of the international train. The government here received a message fro mits consul at Manchuli last week reporting the safety of a few persons. The fact that the message was numbered nine, and that there are nearly 300 Japenese subjects in the district led officials to believe the consul's messages were being suppressed or lost.

POLICE 'HIGHERUPS' ARE HIT BY BLEASE

"Why didn't you tell that to the grand jury?"

"Because I have more sense than you have got," Senator Blease replied.

This exchange caused considerable confusion, with shouts of "Throw him out! Throw him out!" being trained at the heckler.

Senator Blease tried to quiet the confusion by pleading with the crowd to leave the man alone. Although he succeeded for a time, when the man, who was seated in the gallery, later made some audible remarks about the need of an investigation on Capitol Hill, the police and firemen acting as guards led him out.

The senator also assailed the multiplicity of laws which, he declared, "no one could keep up with, not even the judges."

The only difference, he observed, is that "ignorance of the law is no excuse for the laity, while a judge's ignorance of them may bring him an increase in salary, or the creation of two more judgeships."

The cause of lawlessness, however, he charged, is in the home, and declared the also is the place to stop crime.

"How many of you parents present," he asked, "know wheer your sons and daughters are tonight? You can't escape the responisbility for those children. They were given to you to take care of and control."

He contended the people of the District need a "get-together meeting" to talk over conditions and inaugurate measures for general betterment.

The senator stated in beginning his talk that he was not receiving money for it.

Robert J. Allen, former policeman, also spoke at length on police conditions generally. He predicted that Lieut. Kelly and Inspector W. S. Shelby would be acquitted this week at their trials on charges of bungling the McPherson case, and would be restored to their former positions.

Allen denied that he had ever attacked the Police Department as a whole, and declared he believed 95 per cent of the men on the force honest and respectable.

"In fact the force is too good," he observed, "for a man like Henry G. Pratt to be at the head of the outfit." He stated that Pratt, Shelby, Kelly and Commissioners Dougherty and Tuttaferro are the men he "is after."

Allen reviewed both the McPherson and Scrivener cases at length, and his statements and conclusions in both were roundly applauded by the assembly.

In concluding, Allen said he expected to continue his fight against the men responsible for "existing conditions" in the police force, but he did not expect to charge more than 10 cents if he held any more meetings at the Auditorium. A charge ranging from 25 cents to $1 was made at last night's meeting.

They Call It Politics

By CARTER FIELD

SEVERAL thousand lobbyists around Washington are busy these days getting their affairs in order against the evil day when they may be called before the Caraway committee.

In fact, they are so busy with this, or perhaps too intimidated, to send out any statements designed to get their side of their particular fights before the public. As a result the Washington correspondents have been saving half an hour or so each day by not having to glance through innumerable "hand-outs."

"Sugar Row," for example, is in the State that Mr. Cleveland referred to as "innocuous desuetude." All its cohorts are just waiting, revolving in their minds just what they will say to expected questions, once the committee has finished its inquiries in the employing of a personal friend of President Hoover by the Cuban interests.

* * * *

"RUM ROW," on the contrary, boils as actively as ever. Neither the Antisaloon League nor the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment seems to take seriously this contention by Mr. Caraway that an attempt to influence legislation by spending money for publicity is on all fours with some other form of attaining legislative ends.

Never very gripping on the public imagination, the tariff fight has been relegated to a remarkably low point in interest, which perhaps the renewal of the lobby hearings may revive, though it seems doubtful.

Even the business interests have been far more concerned with the crash in Wall street, the efforts of President Hoover to prevent this from having a "psychological" effect on business, the move to reduce taxes, and the prospect of trouble in Haiti than in whether the tariff on products in which they deal or which they manufacture should be marked up or down.

* * * *

MEANWHILE considerable wonder has been aroused at the loathness of witnesses before the lobby committee to admit that they were trying to influence legislation. Man after man has admitted spending large sums to collect data, make up briefs, and send out persuasively written copy to the newspapers, but nearly every one of them has balked at the charge—generally voiced as though it were a charge of murder—that they were seeking to influence legislation. Yet, of course, every one of them was trying to do that very thing—that being the only possible advantage which the interests paying their salaries and expenses could hope to gain from their activities.

Most of them seemed to think that if they admitted they were trying to change voices on Capitol Hill they could be put in jail like Harry F. Sinclair for contempt of the Senate or something.

JUDGING from all the testimony so far, every dollar spent by the witnesses before the committee has been wasted. For there has not been a single clew to any change of votes in either Senate or House resulting from any of the activities of the so-called lobbyists. It has been enough to make some of the old timers turn over in their graves. As a demonstration of incompetence on the part of the witnesses it has been a revelation—if you want to believe it.

Meanwhile the wets and the drys continue to risk senatorial wrath. Their statements pour in in a continual stream. One of the latest by the drys—that issued by the Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals of the Methodist Episcopal Church, has aroused some ire on the part of a few Southern senators. It relates how the "intelligentsia of the Negro race" believe that prohibition has been a grand thing for the Negroes. Senator Cole L. Blease, of South Carolina, it is suggested, should be called by the lobby committee as a special cross examiner for E. L. Eaton, whose report this statement quoted, just as Senator Carter Glass was called as special examiner for the committee when Fred I. Kent, of Wall street fame, was called.

Mr. Blease, it is suggested, might link up the "decrease in poverty" among Negroes, mentioned by Mr. Eaton, with the number of arrests of Negro rumrunners by prohibition agents around the District of Columbia. But as four of the five members of the committee are bone dry it is unlikely that he will be called on.

"My daughter, Antoinette Brewster, married man named Ruggles."

A telegram was also received by Capt. Stott from the girl's mother, Mrs. Maud A. Brewster, of 4602 Brookdale avenue, Oakland, Calif. It read:

"Give my daughter dearest love; wire me her condition."

Police now are waiting more or less patiently for the girl to gain renewed strength so that they may question her regarding statements attributed to her a few minutes after she swallowed the drug, to the effect that she was involved in the operations of a dope ring.

According to information from California, the girl ran away from home about five years ago and since then has been involved in a number of unfortunate matrimonial adventures, the most recent being her marriage to the mysterious "Ruggles." Police are anxious to locate this man for questioning.

SINO-RUSSIAN CRISIS REASONS ARE CITED

BUFFER STATE REJECTED

Three underlying reasons for the present Russian-Chinese crisis, the rule of outer Manchuria, the Chinese Eastern Railway, and the Communist problem—were explained yesterday afternoon at the Washington Open Forum by Dr. Kiang Kang Hu, leader of the Socialist Democratic party in China before its dissolution.

The speaker, who negotiated with Trotsky and Lenin in behalf of the Chinese government, declared that the fundamental reason for the present disturbance lies in Manchuria. During the regime of the late President Sun Yat Sen, Dr. Hu went to Moscow as an individual in an attempt to adjust the disturbance.

His proposition for the alleviation of the strained relations was rejected by each country. It was his proposal that Manchuria be granted automony, that it be used as a buffer state between the two countries, and that the 50,000 Chinese soldiers then in the Red army be transferred as the army of Manchuria after the establishment of automony.

His proposal was rejected by the Russians, he said, and later by his own people, who feared that he was attempting to aggrandize himself and assume the dictatorship of the new Manchuria. When Russia offered assistance to Sun Yat Sen, he said, he cautioned the head of the Nationalist party against accepting them, fearing that it would be an opening wedge for the propagation of Soviet principles in China.

China's difficulties, he said, lie in the fact that there are too many Mussolinis or self-appointed dictators, who attempt to rule. During his years as professor of history at the University of Peking, he said he organized a Socialist Democratic party, which he later disbanded in the belief that parties are valueless where there is no constitutional government, as was the case at that time.

Following Dr. Hu's discussion there was an open discussion on the floor during which opposite views on the causes of disturbance were aired.

Dr. Hu is at present connected with the Library of Congress, where he is organizing the Chinese collection.

Eucharistic Congress In Philippines Ended

Manila, Dec. 15 (A.P.).—The first national eucharistic congress of the Philippines, perhaps the largest Christian gathering ever held in the Far East, closed today with a procession of 40,000 devotees. Among important action taken during the sessions was passage of a resolution by the Colon Students Congress, requesting the legislature to pass a law providing religious instruction in the public schools.

A resolution asking all the delegates to pray for the freedom of the country from American control was adopted by the men's conference. The priests' conference declined to consider an independent resolution.

The farm hand was implicated in the shoting by the victim's son, Duane, who told police La Savards drew a gun on him, forced him into a barn, tied and gagged him and then escaped in the Bailey automobile.

Chinese fellow-Christians are calling for American men and money to help them throw off the several yokes which are holding the great Oriental country back, the Rev. Wynn Cowan Fairfield, D. D., of Taku, North China, acting foreign secretary of the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions, declared yesterday in an address at the morning service of the First Congregational Church.

Speaking on the topic, "Friendly Americans in Troubled China," Dr. Fairfield said: "China is trying to do three very difficult things at once. To replace a personal military despotism, a system of 4,000 years' standing, by a genuine democracy; to throw off the handicaps brought about by the incompetence of the last 100 years of foreign rule by the Manchus; and to overtake in a decade or two the Western nations which have been becoming 'modern' for a century and a half.

"As Christian America has more money and manpower than any similar group of Christians ever had," the missionary declared, "we need to make American life so Christian that it will be a convincing witness of God's power in Christ."

The Chinese are faced "with tremendous problems of reconstruction which make the periods after our own Revolution and Civil War look easy," Dr. Fairfield said.

A graduate of Oberlin College, Dr. Fairfield first sailed for China in 1910. Cooperating always with H. H. Fung, Chinese minister of commerce, industry and labor, he has worked for the economic as well as the religious advancement of the Chinese.

Marine Major Injured In Haiti Auto Accident

Port-au-Prince, Haiti, Dec. 15 (A.P.).—Maj. Marion Humphrey, U. S. Marine Corps, commanding the West Department, Garde de Haiti, was seriously injured last night in an automobile accident near Gonaives.

Maj. Humphrey's driver, to avoid striking a woman, turned the automobile into a telegraph pole. At first it was believed the major suffered a fracture at the base of the skull, but later reports were more hopeful. His family was with him tonight. Maj. Humphrey is the son of a former quartermaster general in the United States Army.

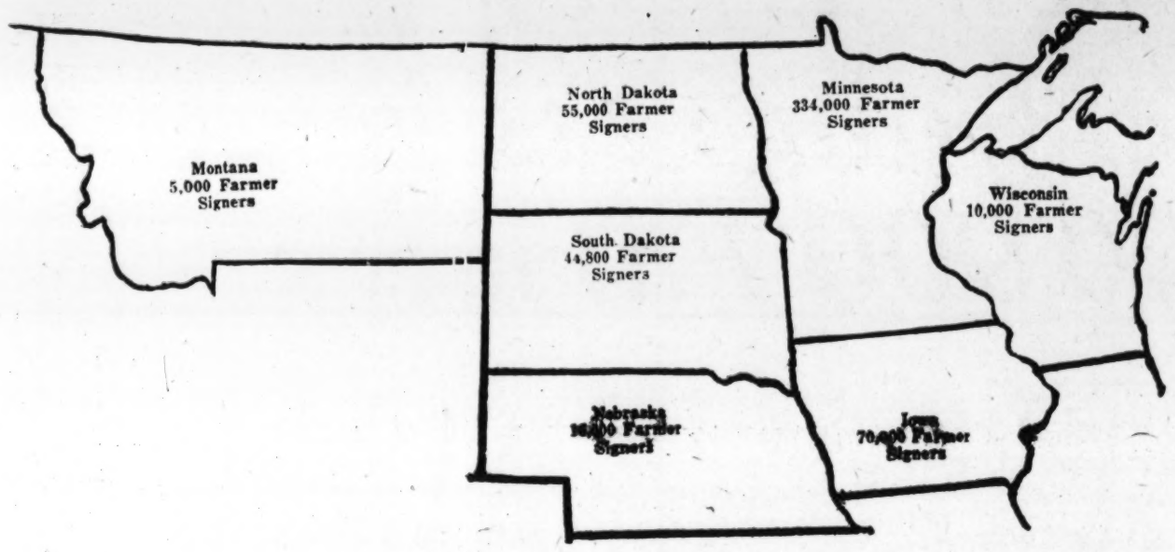
A Statement to the Congress



To the Honorable Congress of the United States:

May we call to your attention the fact that the advertisement on the opposite page represents the tariff wishes of TWO MILLION farmers—one-third of the farmers of the United States.

May we further bring to your notice the fact that of this number, 528,800 of these farmers are citizens of the Northwest as follows:

Land O'Lakes Creameries, Inc., with a farmer membership of	90,000
Twin City Milk Producers Association with a farmer membership of	7,000
Central Co-operative Association with a farmer membership of	125,000
Minnesota Farm Bureau Federation with a farmer membership of	35,000
Minnesota Wheat Pool with a farmer membership of	12,000
Minnesota Wool Pool with a farmer membership of	5,000
Farmers' Elevator Association of Minnesota with a farmer membership of	60,000
N. D. Farmers' Grain Dealers Association with a farmer membership of	55,000
S. D. Farm Bureau Federation with a farmer membership of	9,000
Farmers' Elevator Association of South Dakota with a farmer membership of	30,000
Western S. D. Alfalfa Seed Growers Exchange with a farmer membership of	800
Montana Farm Bureau Federation with a farmer membership of	5,000
Iowa Farm Bureau Federation with a farmer membership of	70,000
Wisconsin Farm Bureau Federation with a farmer membership of	10,000
Nebraska Farm Bureau Federation with a farmer membership of	15,000
Total farmer membership in the Northwest	528,800

We submit that this advertisement is a DIRECT expression of the opinion of the Northwest, and the farmers of the nation generally, on the pending tariff bill.

Respectfully,

The Minneapolis Tribune

Parity for Agriculture Means Billions for Industry

An Open Letter to the Congress from 2,000,000 Farmers

SINCE 1919 the income of American industry has increased from fifty billion to seventy-six billion dollars per year.

During the same period the agricultural income has decreased $3,466,000,000. This tremendous loss amounts to 75% of the total value of all exports from the United States.

Much of this difference is attributable to the fact that in the present tariff there is a wide disparity in the protection given industry and agriculture, and we believe that the degree of protection is reflected in the relative prosperity of these groups.

This unsatisfactory condition has brought about a situation which might almost be termed a collapse of the agricultural industry, greatly reducing its purchasing power. This resulted in pledges by both great political parties to place agriculture on a tariff parity with industry.

A special session of Congress was called for the principal purpose of adjusting the schedules on agricultural products so as to place agriculture on an equal basis with industry.

We are exceedingly disappointed with the results and believe that there is grave danger that party pledges to agriculture will not be kept and that the present disastrous condition will continue.

We do not believe that American industry realizes the greater market it would have at home if normal buying power were restored to the farmers of the nation. There are 6,500,000 individual farm units with a present purchasing power of twelve billion dollars which will make attractive buyers for American goods if they are given proper tariff protection. This buying power, we believe, will be increased by several billion dollars if the campaign pledges to agriculture as printed on this page are kept.

American industry seems to be ignoring this fact and devoting its attention to developing foreign markets at the expense of agriculture—forgetting this great potential home market.

Under equal protection the price paid by a manufacturer might be slightly higher per unit but his domestic market would be vastly greater.

The agricultural regions have supported a policy of protection in the past. A condition has developed where this policy will prove a disadvantage to agriculture unless agriculture is placed on a tariff equality with industry.

From a standpoint of permanent industrial prosperity and from the standpoint of fairness, we are appealing to the industries of America to demand of Congress the passage of a tariff measure which will give the promised equality to agriculture.

United agriculture has presented its case. After careful investigation minimum rates have been proposed which will keep these party pledges. The near future will tell whether agriculture is to get the tariff equality promised (and industry is to secure an additional purchasing power greater than can possibly be secured from foreign markets) or whether the agricultural collapse is to be complete.

In its proposal to the Ways and Means Committee of the House and the Finance Committee of the Senate united agriculture (representing directly over 2,500,000 farmers) has asked for tariff rates which "will give this market to him to the full extent of his ability to supply it." These rates on which organized farmers in the East, West, North, and South are agreed are now before Congress. They should be granted without delay.

Agriculture is convinced its cause is just. The responsibility is now in the hands of Congress; hence this appeal.

Let us remain "one nation indivisible, with liberty and justice for all."

The Republican Party's Promises to Agriculture

"A protective tariff is as vital to American agriculture as it is to American manufacturing. The Republican party believes that the home market built up under the protective policy, belongs to the American farmer, and it pledges its support of legislation which will give this market to him to the full extent of his ability to supply it.

"We favor adequate tariff protection to such of our agricultural products as are affected by foreign competition.

"The Republican party pledges itself to the development and enactment of measures which will place the agricultural interests of America on a basis of economic equality with other industries to insure its prosperity and success."

Extracts from the Republican platform, adopted at Kansas City, June 12-15, 1928.

The Democratic Party's Promises to Agriculture

"Labor has benefited by collective bargaining and some industries by the tariff. Agriculture must be effectively aided.

"The Democratic party in its 1925 platform pledged its support to such legislation. It now reaffirms that standard and pledges the united efforts of the legislative and executive branches of government, as far as may be controlled by the party, to the immediate enactment of such legislation, and to such other steps as are necessary to place and maintain the purchasing power of farm products and the complete economic equality of agriculture."

Extracts from the Democratic platform, adopted at Houston, Texas, June 26-29, 1928.

BOTH SIDES PLEDGE TORTURE SURPRISES

GRAND JURY ACTION NEAR

Mountain View, Ark., Dec. 15 (A.P.). Appearance of a woman "mystery witness" for the State and promise of "startling disclosures" by both prosecution and defense had this little mountain village at a high pitch of excitement tonight on the eve of the opening of the trial of five men charged with murdering Connie Franklin.

The woman, whose name was not divulged, but who was said by Sheriff Sam Johnson to have known the M. Franklin in the State insane asylum in 1926, today viewed the man who says he is the Connie Franklin believed murdered, and neither apparently recognized the other. The man who asserts he is Connie Franklin and was brought back here by the defense to deny any murder was committed in the St. James Hill community last March 9, remained with relatives of the accused men.

Grand Jury to Act.

The "mystery witness" was said by Sheriff Johnson to be one of the State's most important witnesses in its efforts to prove Connie Franklin is dead—the victim of a torture murder.

An effort will be made by the prosecution to prove that Connie Franklin, the reputed victim, and M. Franklin, who escaped from the State Hospital for Nervous Diseases, were the same. Then if the man who claims he is Connie Franklin can be shown never to have been an inmate of the hospital, the prosecution believes the defense will be exploded.

The Stone County grand jury meets simultaneously with the opening of the trial tomorrow. Prosecuting Attorney Hugh Williamson has announced that if the man who says he is Connie Franklin is identified in court satisfactorily as the reputed murder victim, he will go immediately before the grand jury and begin an inquiry into the whole affair.

Large Crowd Expected.

If he is not so identified, it is generally expected the prosecutor will ask the grand jury to investigate his sensational appearance into the case a week before the five were to be tried for mutilating and burning to death Connie Franklin.

Sheriff Johnson left today for Batesville, Newport and Melbourne to return the five defendants here from the jails in which they have been held for safe keeping. Those accused are Alex Fulke, Hubert Hester, Herman Greenway, Bill Younger and Joe White.

Officials were preparing for a big crowd at the trial. The courtroom in the little stone courthouse will seat only about 100 persons. The witnesses alone will exceed this number by perhaps 50, attorneys have announced.

A refreshment stand appeared on the courthouse lawn today.

President to Inaugurate Christmas Cheer Season

ENTRY BLANK

BRIGHTER COMMUNITY CHRISTMAS EDITOR,
THE WASHINGTON POST:

Please enter the undersigned in the Individual Home Brighter Community Contest of the Electric League and The Washington Post. I agree to comply with the rules set forth and to abide by the decision of the judges.

NAME .....

ADDRESS .....

President Hoover, by the simple action of throwing an electric switch, will inaugurate the Christmas celebration in the Capital on Christmas Eve, with the rest of the Nation expected to follow immediately. The President's action, lighting the national Christmas tree in Sherman Square, will be the signal for many celebrations all over the city.

The Boy Scout bugles will announce to the assembly at Sherman Square that the President is about to turn the switch lighting the huge tree, and when the decorations suddenly flash into life a large group of carolers will begin singing "O Come All Ye Faithful," "Joy to the World" and "Hark, the Herald Angels Sing!"

Coincident with the lighting of the national tree, Christmas celebrations in many communities will begin, with other carol singers and organizations gathered about trees at centrally located points to spread the spirit of the holidays.

Lighting of the national tree will also mean the beginning of the "Brighter Community Christmas" program sponsored by The Washington Post and the Electric League of Washington. This program extends not only to the communities but to homes as well, with many valuable prizes offered for the best decorated residence, so decorated by the use of outdoor lights. A silver loving cup will be presented to the best lighted community.

A Post reader who signs the initials F. M. D. suggests that churches in the city join the Post-Electric League Brighter Community Christmas idea by lighting the exteriors of their edifices, including the spires and towers which form so prominent a part of the architecture of the many of the city's places of worship.

"The illumination of the exterior of the churches of the Capital during the nights or days of religious observances or holidays would be an inspiring sight" this reader writes. "The illuminated apse of the Cathedral at Mount St. Albans and the spire of the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church are daily inspiring those whose eyes rest on their outward forms in the hours of the night. The churches could continue the use of their lighting apparatus at such times as Easter, Thanksgiving and other days satisfactory to their governing boards."

This suggestion is an excellent one and many church boards may take immediate action to spread the Christmas spirit by means of illuminated spires and buildings. All these things will help make Washington the most beautiful city in America, by night, as well as by day.

Every residence, decorated for Christmas, which is to be considered in the judging for prizes, must be registered through an entry blank printed daily ni The Post. Blanks should be mailed to The Post or to the Electric League.

IN THE PLAYHOUSE

—By JOHN J. DALY—

FOR the first time in many years Washington witnesses all its theaters dark. No curtain will rise this week.

* * * *

It happened, by a strange freak, that more dramatic critics were in town Saturday and last night than at any other time in the history of the city. 'Twas not a convention, or anything like that, nor a get-together of critics; merely that they were here for the midwinter Gridiron dinner. One critic came all the way from Montreal. S. Morgan-Powell, of the Montreal Star, is rated the best in the business by those who know their critics.

* * * *

WHILE the enforced recess is on, Mr. S. E. Cochran, manager of the National Theater, is enabled to do a lot of things neglected during the course of the season. There is, for instance, a painting job down on Chesapeake Bay—the old summer manse—and some jarring and preserving at home. The fly in the ointment is that theater managers do not get paid when no attractions are billed their way. In this respect they are somewhat like the actors, but only in this respect.

* * * *

Up to the beginning of this season, in early October, the National Theater held the record for the entire United States; not an idle week in five years. With the organization of the National Theater's Players, back in 1924, the old theater managed to keep open summer, winter, spring and fall—going full blast ahead at all times. Came the lull, and five or six weeks have been lost since the 1929-1930 season got under way.

* * * *

NEXT Friday evening the Washington branch of the American Association of University Women will have as guest Joseph N. Krutch, dramatic critic of The Nation. "The Stage as Affected by the Changing Social Order" is the title of the lecture Mr. Krutch plans to unfold before this distinguished group. Just how the social order is changing makes quite a formidable subject in itself. How these changes affect the stage and those whose livelihood depend upon the theater is something to stir thought.

* * * *

NEXT to the last day in the year is the date selected for the reopening of the National Theater. On December 30, Monday night, Dwight Taylor's comedy, "Trevelyn's Ghost," will be the attraction. By this time, Mr. Taylor must be rather tired of hearing himself labelled "Laurette Taylor's son;" as if that is his only qualification in the theater. While he has had the help of his mother, naturally, he is able to stand on his own feet, according to Mr. Beauvais Fox, advance agent for George Tyler, the producer. Mr. Fox, doing the duofold duty of heralding "Trevelyn's Ghost" and the return of William Gillette in "Sherlock Holmes," booked here for the week of January 6, is positively enthusiastic over the playwrighting ability of Dwight Taylor. "He must have caught the bug from his stepfather," says Beau Fox, recalling that Hartley Manners, author of "Peg o' My Heart," was the man who presided over the Laurette Taylor household during Dwight's early boyhood.

LAREDO PROSECUTOR TO LET CALLES PASS

Diplomatic Status to Shield Mexican Against Plot-to-Kill Charge.

STIMSON SENDS ADVICE

Laredo, Tex., Dec. 15 (A.P.).—Commenting that "the day of reckoning is only postponed," John A. Valls, district attorney here, today indicated he recognized the diplomatic status of Plutarco Elias Calles, former President of Mexico, expected to pass through here about Tuesday on his way from New York to Mexico City.

Valls telegraphed to Henry L. Stimson, Secretary of State, at Washington, Saturday after issuing a warrant for Calles' arrest on a charge of conspiring to murder Gen. Lucio Blanco here June 7, 1922. The telegram to the Secretary said:

"For my correct guidance, kindly advise me whether Calles enjoys such diplomatic immunity as exempts him for crimes committed in Texas, and will my Government protect that immunity with armed force? If so, his person will not be molested. Otherwise I will attempt to arrest him on entering the confines of Texas."

Stimson Sends Reply.

The Secretary's reply, received this afternoon, said:

"Gen. Calles, who is traveling through the United States in company with the Ambassador of Mexico, has been engaged in diplomatic conversations on international matters with representatitves of the Government of the United States. His diplomatic quality is recognized by the Government of the United States. He is, therefore, entitled to protection from arrest or molestation while in the confines of the United States. The United States is prepared to take such steps as may be necessary to insure to Gen. Calles the protection which is due him. I find it difficult to believe that an officer of the law, whether Federal or State, would be willing to take action which would militate against his diplomatic status."

Valls Issues Warning.

Valls, after reading the telegram, recommended that Calles and his associates protect themselves with similar diplomatic immunity whenever they visit this country. He also remarked that he will continue to be district attorney for some time.

Meantime Calles and his party speeded toward this city on a fast train from the East and Laredo citizens arranged a gigantic reception. The commanding officer at Fort McIntosh and his staff will greet Calles at the depot. Other officials and business men will extend a cordial greeting.

The exact time of arrival of Calles' train was not learned, but was believed to be Tuesday afternoon or Wednesday morning.

Oxygen Injection Revives 'Dead' Girl

Respiration Had Ceased for 13 Minutes After Operation.

Little Rock, Ark., Dec. 15 (A.P.).—A 15-year-old Negro girl, apparently dead after an operation, today was revived 13 minutes after respiration had ceased, by an intravenous injection of oxygen. Physicians believed it was the first time the method has been used successfully in the United States.

The girl, Juda Campbell, stopped breathing just after an operation was completed. Adrenalin was injected and artificial respiration started, but the patient did not respond. Dr. S. F. Hoge, pathologist at General Hospital, after 13 minutes use of these methods, resorted to the injection of oxygen into a vein in the girl's left arm. After 5 minutes, in the words of the hospital official record, "the patient gave a fairly definite respiratory excursion."

The injection was continued and in another 5 minutes the girl was breathing deeply and fairly regularly.

Four hours later the patient was fully conscious, the record said. She is expected to recover.

Licensed Women Air Pilots Band to Promote Flying

LOUISE THADEN,

who is prominently mentioned as first president of "The Eighty Sixes," first organization of women pilots.

"The Eighty-Sixes" First Organization of Kind in World.

New York, Dec. 15 (A.P.).—The Eighty-Sixes—the first national organization of licensed women pilots in America, and credited with being the first in the world—has just been organized here.

The name "The Eight-Sixes" refers to their number—their ages vary from 18 to 40.

The purpose of the organization, which was formed at the home of Mrs. George Kunz, wife of a New York jeweler and a licensed pilot, is "to promote good fellowship among licensed women pilots, encourage flying among women and create opportunities for women in commercial aviation."

Its headquarters will be in New York and its membership will be open to any licensed woman pilot in the United States.

Within its ranks are some of America's best-known aviatrices, among them Amelia Earhart, Ruth Elder (Mrs. Walter Camp, jr.) and Vioia Gentry.

The first thing the Eighty-Sixes are going to do in their program of promoting women in aviation is to wage a little war on the "sex complex" in the air world.

"Just because an aviatrix is a woman is no reason why she shouldn't receive as good a position or as much pay as an aviator," they say. "There is no reason why men and women shouldn't compete in the air in a friendly fashion, just as they do on land."

They selected the following sectional chairman to preside over various districts in the country.

Gladys O'Donnell, West Coast; Phoebe Omlie, Middle West; Joan Shankle, New England; Louise Thaden, Pennsylvania; Blanche Noyes, Ohio and Michigan; Laura Alexander, Southeast section, and Margaret Thomas, Texas. These sectional chairmen will act as the governing board.

No officers have as yet been selected, but three have been chosen for balloting for each office. Their names will be submitted for vote by mail to the members, and the result announced in the near future.

Blanche Noyes, Mrs. George Kunz and Louise Thaden were the three tentatively selected for president.

Mrs. Kunz, meanwhile, is serving as temporary chairman.

ORTIZ RUBIO ENTERS HOSPITAL FOR REST

WIFE IS ALSO PATIENT

Baltimore, Dec. 15 (A.P.).—Pascual Ortiz Rubio, president-elect of Mexico, was entered as a patient tonight at Johns Hopkins Hospital, for a physical examination and rest and recuperation from a year's strenuous efforts culminating in his election.

A last-minute decision resulted in Senora de Ortiz Rubio also entering the hospital as a patient and it was reported that she would also have a general examination and was at the hospital partly to be near her husband. They were given adjoining rooms.

While they are at the hospital three young children, Pascual, 8; Eugene, 6, and Ofelia, 9, will be in the care of a governess in the suite of rooms at the Hotel Belevedere, reserved for the president-elect's party. Two other sons, students at Gettysburg Academy, Gettysburg, Pa., will round out the family circle by coming here for a Christmas visit.

When the party arrived at the Pennsylvania station, a group of distinguished officials mingled in the crowd waiting to welcome the president-elect. Col. Carroll B. Hodges, military aid to President Hoover, was the first to welcome the visitor as he appeared on the platform of his private car, greeting him in the name of the President, who will give a state dinner in honor of President-elect Ortiz Rubio at the White House the day after Christmas. A. B. Lane, chief of the division of Mexican affairs of the State Department, extended the felicitations of the department, and the greetings of the Army were given by Maj. Gen. Fred W. Sladen, commanding the Third Corps Area, with headquarters here, while Adjutant General Milton A. Record presented the compliments of Gov. Ritchie and a welcome to Maryland.

When the formalities at the train were completed, the party went to the hotel, and after a brief stay while the party got settled in its quarters there, the president-elect and his wife went to the hospital.

WHOZAT?

("WHOZIT" is a test of your knowledge of history and current events. The statements below describe a character whom you should be able to identify. Match your knowledge and memory against those of your friends.)

1. He was a Frenchman.
2. He lived in the eleventh century.
3. He was a noted philosopher and logician.
4. He wrote many books, nearly all dialectical or theological.
5. A love affair with one of his former pupils came to be regarded as one of the famous romances of the Middle Age although at the time it was used by his enemies to discredit him.

Boy With Broken Leg Dies When Home Burns

Pikeville, Ky., Dec. 15 (A.P.).—Brice Justice, 13, confined to bed with a broken leg, died in flames that destroyed the family home at Fishtray, near here, early this morning, while the father and other members of the family received severe burns trying to save him.

Floyd Justice, the father; Mrs. Rhoda Justice, stepmother of the boy, and Bessie Kendrick, a half sister, were brought to a local hospital suffering from severe burns. The fire started while the family was sleeping, apparently from an overheated stove. Two younger children escaped.

Sandino Living Quiet Rural Life in Mexico

Merida, Yucatan, Mexico, Dec. 15 (A.P.).—Augustino Sandino, former Nicaraguan revolutionist and outlaw, is living quietly in a country house on the outskirts of this city with his wife, their small child, and three members of his staff who came with him into exile. He seldom visits any one, but sometimes goes to the interior of the State where he is said to be interested in buying land suitable for cultivation.

COAST GUARD CRAFT TO AID EIELSON HUNT

AIRPLANES ARE AWAITED

Seattle, Wash., Dec. 15 (A.P.).—The United States Coast Guard cutter Chelan will be pressed into service to carry a relief expedition north to search for Pilot Carl Ben Eielson and his mechanic, Earl Borland, missing somewhere in the vicinity of North Cape, Siberia, since November 9.

Immediately after authority to use the ship had been received from Coast Guard headquarters in Washington, D. C., the vessel was made ready for the trip north and awaits only the arrival of three large Fairchild planes and a squad of six Canadian fliers in command of Capt. H. A. Oaks, of Winnipeg.

The planes will be crated, lashed on deck and taken to Seward, Alaska, on the Chelan, then shipped to Fairbanks by rail and assembled. They will be flown either direct to Teller, Alaska, the base of rescue operations, or first to Nome, then to Teller. The planes probably will leave for Seward within two or three dyas.

Maj. Howard C. Deckard, production manager for the Fairchild's Airplane Manufacturing Corporation, has arrived in Seattle to oversee shipment of equipment and will accompany the planes north. The search is being organized by the Aviation Corporation Company fo New York, a holding company which controls Eielson's firm in Alaska.

Humbert's Bride-to-Be Gives to Belgian Poor

Brussels, Dec. 15 (A.P.).—Princess Marie Jose is making a farewell gift of 50,000 francs (about $2,000) to the poor of this city. Chevalier de Patoul, marshal of the court, notified Burgomaster Max of the gift today and said that "her royal highness wants the people of Brussels to see in this gesture a testimonial of her feeling of affection toward them."

The princess is to marry Crown Prince Humberto of Italy, and will live in Turin.

BEWARE THE COUGH FROM COLDS THAT HANG ON

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

GREAT SHIRES FIGHTS IN CHICAGO TONIGHT; WILSON BOUT FADES

'The Great' to Meet Trafton; Says Hack Is Running Out.

Mullen Raises Offer to $15,000; Wife Now Opposed.

CHICAGO, Dec. 15 (A.P.).—Charles Arthur Shires, the self-confessed great man, will make his second appearance as a professional fist fighter tomorrow night, with Hack Wilson, his opponent in the proposed battle of the ages, absent from the ringside.

Wilson notified Promoter Jim Mullen tonight he would be unable to be on hand with his notebook to see the great Shires in action, due to the pleadings of his wife to remain in Martinsburg, W. Va.

The Cubs' famous center fielder decided to remain at home after William L. Veeck, president of the National League champions, called Wilson on the long distance telephone urging him to give up the idea of fighting Shires in Chicago next month.

"Yesterday afternoon while I was out duck hunting," Wilson telephoned, "Mr. Veeck called up Mrs. Wilson and asked her to join with him in urging me not to fight. So I am not coming."

Wilson said he had not definitely decided to abandon the match, but gave evidence of weakening. He said he was unable to sleep because he was so busy counting $10,000 Promoter Mullen had offered him and wouldn't be able to sleep again tonight because Mullen had boosted his offer to $15,000.

Hates to Pass-Up That Money.

"I hate to pass up that dough and may decide to come to Chicago Tuesday or Wednesday for a final decision," Wilson yelled over the telephone.

The great Shires accused Wilson of running out on the match. He said that Wilson need have no fear of getting hurt provided he could take care of himself in the ring.

"Wilson will be alone in that ring after the fight starts," Shires said. "Nobody can help him. He will have to take care of himself. If I knock him out I promise to take good care of him by dragging him to his corner instead of leaving him lay alone in the center of the ring."

Shires will tangle with George Trafton, 225-pound center of the Chicago Bears, in one of the preliminary bouts scheduled for five rounds or less on Promoter Mullen's card of 44 rounds of boxing tomorrow night. Trafton swings with such terrific force that he usually falls on his face whenever he misses a punch, but when he connects, his opponent gets into immediate communication with the stars and resin.

Shires Predicts Knockout.

Shires required 21 seconds to stretch "Mysterious" Dan Daly on the rug in the same arena a week ago and says Trafton will go out the same way after he gets a couple of socks in the front porch.

The great man says he will dispose of Trafton, who outweighs him by 40 pounds, in a hurry. In fact the fight is already won so far as he is concerned. Trafton, the experts say, must win in a hurry, if he wins at all, as Shires with two weeks of boxing training behind him, is beginning to show signs of knowing what it is all about.

"Shires thinks he is a great fighter because he knocked over that push-over a week ago, Trafton said, "but the folks can quit worrying about a Shires-Wilson go after I get through with him tomorrow night. I'll take care of that sucker like he took care of Dan Daly."

Promoter Mullen reports a tremendous demand for tickets with prospects of another sell-out for the White City Arena.

The Great Shires Wants $25,000 From Chisox

Chicago, Dec. 14 (A.P.).—Charles Arthur (the great) Shires wants $25,000 to play first base for the White Sox next summer—or else—Shires, whose contract last year called for $8,500, demands the big increase, or, he declares, the American League will lose its greatest first baseman.

"When I beat a few more of these alleged fighters, I will be ready to talk terms with Mr. Comiskey," he said. "I want $25,000 to play the first sack for the White Sox, and if I don't get it, I will keep on fighting. My contract last year called for $8,500, but by the time I got through for suspensions, I didn't have more than $5,000 left. And I've got to get it back."

SHIRES GIVES MAGNATES AN IDEA

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

ART SHIRES, the Great One, seems to have answered the baseball magnates' prayers in providing use for their immense and costly stadia in the cool of the evening and, perhaps, on many of the 288 days of the year when the home team is not using its baseball plant. Shires' claim to being a great pugilist and contender for the heavyweight crown cast aside by Mr. James Joseph Tunney in addition to his frank admission that he also is good at all other sports, is causing quite a furore in baseball circles.

Already Hack Wilson, the Cub fly chaser and strong man, has tentatively accepted a challenge and, in view of the fact that the sun will be down at the time he is due to do his stuff—which was not the case when he was fielding in early October in the Philadelphia park—he has visions of picking up an easy ten "grand." And the beauty of it is that the work will be most pleasant and congenial, for the "Great One" has boasted so much on all subjects that he is about as popular among the other diamond players as a raise in taxes.

There's Money in Them Thar Fights.

Whether or not Wilson beats Shires, if he decides to go through with his present plans, indications are that there will be much fighting among the ball players until the call is issued for spring training next February or March. Should Shires beat Wilson, several other diamonders no doubt will demand a crack at him and, should the "Great One" be defeated, then his conqueror probably will be able to pick up many sheckels taking on other members of his fraternity, to whom visions of getting a season's salary for one appearance in the ring looks mighty attractive.

Of course, it is possible that the magnates will not want to branch out and take up the fight game as a side line to the diamond one. Already, there is much unfavorable comment from the higher powers and even Hack Wilson will not definitely close for his proposed bout with Shires until he has had a conference with William Veeck, owner of the Cubs.

But, should the owners decide that fighting on the side does not hurt the national game, look at the possibilities of making it a paying proposition. Scouts would be told to consider the ability of rookies to swing their fists as well as their bats when signing them. Fellows like Von Porat, Schmeling, Scott, Risko and Stribling could be signed as utility players. Of course, with the parks being used both day and night, they would be assigned to the night shift.

Fighters May Be Managers.

Under this plan, men like Dempsey and Tunney would have to draw the managerial berths and, instead of fining or calling down their players, they would discipline them in the

COLLEGIATES IN 6 COURT CONTESTS

C. U. Makes Its Debut Tonight and G. W. Tomorrow.

FEATURED by the debuts of Catholic and George Washington fives, college basket ball this week offers Capital fans a big early season program. Six games, the first of which is due tonight, are scheduled to be played, and all of the local teams except Georgetown and Maryland are involved.

The inaugural appearance of Coach Fred Rice's Cardinals at the spacious Catholic University gymnasium tonight is expected to be well patronized. The High Point (N.C.) College quintet, making its annual trip from the South, will provide the opposition. The starting time is 8:30 o'clock.

With practically all of last year's varsity back and most of the crack 1928 freshmen available, Catholic looks forward to a successful court campaign. Rice is optimistic, anticipating a return of prosperity that marked Catholic basket ball efforts prior to last year when an inexperienced team won only three of eighteen games.

George Washington, under a new coach, the youthful Joe Mitchell, who knows his basket ball in spite of his years, will get under way tomorrow night in the H street gymnasium. Shenandoah College will be the first Colonial foe.

Mitchell Undecided On Starters.

Mitchell will not determine his starting line-up until after tonight's practice but it is certain that Capt. Bob Gray and Bill Hoover will open the season at guard and center, respectively.

Irving Fine, the best forward in the squad, may be unable to play this winter owing to lack of time. He is carrying a heavy scholastic program. But Mitchell is hopeful that something can be done to enable Fine to continue playing while pursuing his studies.

In all likelihood Mitchell will use two teams for awhile until he can decide upon the strongest line-up available. He assumed the G. W. coaching berth only a week ago and needs more time for experimenting before selecting a first-string quintet. He is confident, however, that George Washington will enjoy a better season than in 1928.

American University, which started off last Saturday night with an easy win over Maryland State Normal, will play its second game tomorrow night, engaging High Point in the Methodist gymnasium.

"Reds" Olsen, a substitute who saw little service a year ago because American had a veteran combination, jumped into the spotlight in the opening game with a brilliant offensive performance. Supporters of the Methodists will soon forget last year's star, Forrest Burgess, if Olsen continues to play so effectively.

Wednesday night will find Catholic in its second game at Brookland, with Maryland State Normal supplying the competion.

George Washington will come back Friday in a game with Baltimore University on the Colonial floor. This game promises to test the Mitchellmen to the fullest, as the Monumental City players demonstrated plenty of power against Georgetown last Saturday.

Gallaudet also will see action Friday night in a battle with its old rival, Arnold College of Connecticut, in the Kendall Green gymnasium. Despite the loss of Louis Dyer, high-scoring forward, and Tom Cain and Henry Draplewski, all veterans of last year's team, Gallaudet should do well on the court this season, judging from its opening game victory last Saturday.

Rudolph Wins Fourth In Row to Hold Title Pocket Billiard Lead

DETROIT, Dec. 15 (A.P.).—Erwin Rudolph, of Chicago, continued his unbeatable play in the world pocket billiards championship tournament by defeating Pasquale Natalie, of Detroit, 125 to 77, in 31 innings. It was Rudolph's fourth straight victory in the tournament. Natalie has won two games and lost three.

In the first game Spencer Livsey was leading, 119 to 85, at the end of 29 innings. Marcel Camp, the 21-year-old who has been the youthful sensation of the tournament, forced Livsey to play twelve more innings before being vanquished.

Ralph Greenleaf, of New York, former champion, defeated Oniofrio Lauri, of Brooklyn, 125 to 123, in 24 innings, in the second game today.

Greenleaf had to come from behind to win. At the end of seventeen innings the score was 115 to 70 in Lauri's favor. The victory put Greenleaf in a tie for second place in the tournament with Frank Taberski, defending champion, with three wins and one defeat.

Friedman Giant Star As Chicago Bears Bow

Chicago, Dec. 15 (A.P.).—Benny Friedman's passing and running gave the New York Giants a hard-fought 14-to-9 victory over the Chicago Bears in the wind-up of the National Professional Football League season today.

The Bears took the lead in the first period, when Sternaman went over, but failed to kick the goal. Friedman put the Giants in front when he ran through tackle for a touchdown in the second period and added the extra point. Walter Holmer booted a 30-yard place-kick in the third period to again give the Bears the edge, but Friedman's pass to Sedgebrook, and Bennie's extra point, gave them 7 more points.

FLAVIN HERE; SEEKS G. U. GRID JOB

Rumors Say Hilltop to Name New Football Coach Today.

GEORGETOWN UNIVERSITY, the mecca, it seems, of football coaches seeking employment at this time, attracted Jack Flavin last night, and it was reported that the Blue and Gray star of other held a conference with Hilltop officials relative to the head coaching post left vacant by the resignation of Lou Little.

The appearance of Flavin in the city gave close observers of the Georgetown coaching situation one more person to discuss as possible successor to Little, but no intimation was given officially just who of the 50 or 60 applicants will be named.

Announcement Today Improbable.

An unconfirmed report was heard that the appointment will be announced today, but this wasn't taken seriously in view of the statement last Saturday of Father O'Brien, faculty athletic advisor, to the effect that the announcement wouldn't be made before Wednesday or Thursday at the earliest.

Flavin wa sa great all-around athlete at Georgetown during the period of 1919 to 1922. Football was his specialty, however, and he compiled one of the best records in Hilltop gridiron history. He gained undying fame for making an 110-yard punt in a game against Holy Cross in 1922, when he captained his team.

For the last two years Flavin has been in the printing business in New York City. In 1926 he was backfield coach at St. Bonaventure College of Olean, N. Y.

SPEAKING OF TENNIS

—By—

ROBERT CONSIDINE

THE second and last of a series of articles on tennis by Helen Wills is spread over most of page 61 of the current Saturday Evening Post, just east of the tomato soup ad. While evidently written during the ten-minute intermission which is accorded women players after the second set, the piece is interesting in that it quotes, right in black and white, the somewhat abused and confusing amateur rule, as promulgated by the United States Lawn Tennis Association.

Most players, when confronted with the question, "What is a professional?" are wont to reply, with the lightning wit which comes at critical moments, "Somebody who gets paid for playing tennis."

Many Official Ways To Become Pro.

This is not the case. One forfeits his amateur standing in a much more dignified and official manner, with terms to suit. There are eight primary and eleven secondary methods of becoming a professional. The primary sins, when arranged nicely, read:

1. By entering a competition open only to professionals.
2. By playing for money prize or gate receipts.
3. By playing, coaching, instructing or demonstrating tennis or other athletic exercise, or maintaining tennis or other athletic facilities as a means of livelihood or for any remuneration.
4. By obtaining or retaining membership in any tennis or athletic club of any kind because of any mutual undersatnding, expressed or implied, whereby such membership would be of pecuniary benefit to the member.
5. By selling, pledging or otherwise converting into money or what is commonly known as necessities, such as food, ordinary clothing, and so on, any prize won in a tennis match or tournament, or accepting as a prize such article.
6. By accepting money or gaining pecuniary advantage from using the goods of a manufacturer, agent or merchant, or by permitting himself to be advertised as the user of such goods.
7. By permitting or sanctioning the taking of tennis action motion pictures of himself and receiving remuneration in connection therewith.
8. By permitting or sanctioning his name to be advertised as the author of books or articles on tennis of which he is not actually the author, or by receiving payment or consideration for—commensurate—services which he does not actually render.

Maintaining Amateurism Appears Difficult.

If you are still an amateur, excommunication is but a step away—for the eleven secondary ordinances present so formidable an attack that maintaining your franchise becomes something akin to a feat.

1. By permitting or sanctioning the use of his name or initials on sport-

Upsets Mark Soccer Play

Irish Tie Rosedales; Concords Defeat Wash. S. C.

Stuart Junior League Champs by Beating Columbias.

By RICHARD S. TENNYSON.

UPSETS and spirited play marked games in the local soccer leagues yesterday. Gaelic-Americans pulled one of the surprises of the season by holding Rosedale to a 1-to-1 score, and Concord defeated Washington Club, 2 to 1, in a lively match. Stuart won the championship of the Junior American League by defeating Columbia, 3 to 0. The league-leading Marlboro Eleven had a field day at the expense of Gaithersburg in a Capital City League game, winning by the score of 6 to 1. Hyattsville forfeited to Fashion Shop.

Manager Kremelmeyer's Concord Club had its hands full to stop the Washington Soccer Club. Expected to give but weak resistance, the Scotch kickers put up a terrific battle before being defeated. At half time the score stood 1 to 1 by virtue of goals scored by Konnel, for Concord, and McLean, for the W. S. C.

The last 45 minutes brought out the liveliest action of the season. Both teams played aggressively with Malloch and McLean leading the W. S. C. attack, and Beyerling and Wolf leading Concord, Horning put up a splendid defensive game for the victors.

Byerlin's Decisive Shot A Thriller.

The winning tally was scored by Beyerlin and was one of the best shots of the season. It was near the end of the game, and Melly Carleton, the veteran but clever W. S. C. goalie, had just made a brilliant save of a shot from the toe of Konnel. Wolf centered to Beyerlin, who trapped the leather and scored with the same motion.

Gaelic-Americans gave the fast Rosedale squad a severe jolt by holding it to a 1-to-1 score. Pregame dope credited the Northeast lads with at least a three-goal advantage over the Irish kickers, but the fast play of Gallagly and his teammates held the Rosedale kickers in check.

Marlboro proved to be one of the most powerful attacking machines in local play in defeating Gaithersburg, 6 to 1. The league leaders showed an unusual knowledge of the game and apparently scored at will against the strong Gaithersburg kickers.

Stuart gave one of the finest exhibitions ever shown by a young team in the District to cop the title in the Junior American League. The first goal was scored by Fitzpatrick, a terrific shot from 30 yards out. Lewis and McKenzie played best for Columbia, while the whole Stuart Eleven teamed well.

DISTRICT CHAMPIONS PROTECT EARLY LEAD BEFORE 6,000 CROWD

Apaches and Lansdowne May Play Next Sunday

Negotiations for a football game between the Apaches and the Lansdowne Eleven of Baltimore were begun last night. Lansdowne won the Baltimore League championship yesterday and immediately challenged the District title holders by telephone. Manager Hall, of the Apaches, said last night that the Apaches had intended to close their season with the Celtic game but may agree to a game with Lansdowne either here or in Baltimore.

The Apaches, undefeated for the season, are anxious to erase all barriers between them and an undisputed claim to the South Atlantic championship. The Apaches escaped injuries in the Celtic game yesterday. Players leaving town for the Christmas holidays may force the Apaches to drop negotiations with Lansdowne.

McCann and McCabe Score; Defense of Apaches Strong.

Injuries and Penalties Hurt Chances of Alexandrians.

RUSHING over two touchdowns in the first half and holding the lead safe throughout the closing half, the Apache Football Team yesterday gained clear title to the South Atlantic sandlot championship by humbling the St. Mary's Celtics of Alexandria, 12 to 0, before a crowd of 6,000 in Griffith Stadium.

The Little Indians opened a victorious assault in the first period, which did not terminate until the Celtic goal line had been crossed in the first six minutes of play. A second drive, as well sustained and productive, did not culminate in a second touchdown until after the start of the second period.

Although generally outclassed by the champions, the Green Warriors waged a bitter battle against odds only to waver before the great defense of the Indians. After being outplayed in the first half, the Celtics came back more threatening, but could not muster enough power to get within the Apache 10-yard line.

Sweeney, McCabe, McCann Big Ground-Gainers.

With Joe Sweeney, George McCabe and Donald McCann gaining most of the ground, and Bits Clifford, Snail DeLabre, Jerry Carroll, Moose Mosko and, in fact, the entire Apache Eleven playing a great defensive game, the victors were never in serious trouble of losing their big lead which increased in proportion as Celtic hopes faded.

The fleet-footed Bill Thomas, Rube Hayman, Busnik, Hamilton and Moore stood out in the determined but faltering play of the Celtics. The slippery footing bothered the backs of both teams, and the fans were robbed of several thrills.

A short kick gave the Apaches the ball on their own 36-yard line to start the melee. McCabe dashed off left end for 21 yards, slipping on the muddy turf after apparently getting free. Unable to gain ground, McCabe kicked short, and the ball bounded out of Harris' arms to be recovered by Boots Brown on the Celtic 18-yard mark. McCabe tossed a pass to Sweeney for an 8-yard gain, and McCann added 5 more on a lateral pass. McCabe hit right tackle for the initial touchdown, but Sweeney failed to add the point when his drop-kick was blocked.

Carroll Recovers Fumble.

As the first period ended, Carroll recovered a Celtic fumble on the Green 35-yard line, and on the first play of the second period Sweeney dashed 24 yards through the opposing line to be brought down on the 11-yard stripe by Buanik, who caught him from behind with a clear path to a second touchdown before the ball carrier. Sweeney followed with an 8-yard slice off right tackle, and McCann hit the line for the second touchdown. McCabe's drop-kick attempt was short after both sides were declared offside on an attempted pass.

The Celtics made their chief bids for points in the closing minutes of the first half. Three times the Celtics had the ball within striking distance but were unable to gain ground when needed. A 22-yard pass, Thomas to Hayman, and a 15-yard end run by Thomas, put the ball on the Apache 40-yard line. Hayman hit the line three times to carry the fight to the Apache 25-yard mark. Twice Snell intercepted Celtic passes. Joe Sweeney

HAWKS PLAY SCORELESS TIE GAME

Special to The Washington Post.

BALTIMORE, Md., Dec. 15.—The Mohawks, of Washington, and Irvington fought each other to a deadlock at 0 to 0 in a bitterly contested game at Gibbons Field today.

Each side had its chance to score but found the goal-line defense of the opposition too strong and canny when the crisis came. Irvington made its bid in the first half and the Mohawks in the second. There were exciting moments on those occasions and plenty of thrills for one of the largest crowds of the season.

A series of clever runs back of punts by Quarter Back Maury McMaines, coupled with some effective rushing from scrimmage, carried the ball deep into Mohawk territory as the first quarter waned. At the start of the second period the locals worked their way to a first down on the Washington's 4-yard line. The came a costly 5-yard penalty.

The Mohawks braced and stopped the rushes, and on fourth down a pretty pass by McMaines grounded in the end zone as Johnny Pincura, behind the defensive half back, just missed making the catch.

Abbatichio Stars For Hawks.

Abbatichio, former Mount St. Mary's College star, who was his team's outstanding performer today, gave the Mohawks their chance to uncork a scoring punch in the second half. Abbatichio made two fine runs back of punts by Lank Tanton, and then followed with some clever cutting through the left side of Irvington's line.

Irvington, its back to the wall, fought back desperately in the closing quarter milling inside its 15-yard line. Featuring the defensive play of the Irvington was the work of Right Tackle Johnson, whose work throughout the game was little short of sensational. During the goal line stands, Center Herps, Gus Crothers and others also performed splendidly.

The first Mohawk threat ended when Earl Zulick, former all-Maryland tackle at the University of Maryland, tried an unsuccessful drop-kick from near the 18-yard line. Following that play, Irvington threatened to turn the tables by making two first downs as the result of substantial gains by McMains and Spring. But Dewery soon intercepted an Irvington pass and Abbatichio helped by a pretty forward pass to Adams, quickly put Irvington into hot water again. Again Greasy Neal's outfit braced, however, and this time

THURSDAY.
Business vs. Woodward.
Western vs. Rockville.

FRIDAY.
Tech vs. Hyattsville.
Central vs. Gettysburg.

ALTHONGH Business High's basket ball team is the only scholastic five scheduled to see action today, that combination will engage in two games to inaugurate the busiest week yet, and one of the busiest of the season for high school squads. Altogether thirteen games are slated to be played by the five high teams before Saturday rolls around, with every team in the city playing at least two games, with the exception of Tech, which will meet but one foe—the Hyattsville five, in its debut on Friday.

Coach "Chief" Guyon's Eastern tossers were supposed to tackle the Alexandria five in a return game today at the Lincoln Park gym, but on account of extra activities at Eastern the game has been canceled. The Eastern five was anxious to even matters with the boys from across the river, who defeated it a week ago Saturday night, but John Paul Collins, athletic director, thought it better to call off the contest. Eastern's Saturday game with Episcopal High has also been caleled, leaving the game with the Potomac Boat Club on Tuesday and a practice affair with Gonzaga on Friday as the only games for the Light Blue and White this week.

Undefeated as yet in four games, the Business team will be out to maintain its brilliant record today and stands a 50-50 chance for succeeding. Coach Lynn Woodworth's boys do not figure to have so much trouble with the Woodward team at their own gym this afternoon, but may strike a snag in the Catholic University freshmen tonight. The Business team will engage the yearlings in a preliminary attraction to the C. U.-High Point Varsity contest, with the first game slated to get under way at 7:15 p. m.

Stenogs Risking Record.

If the Stenogs can get by tonight's game without a defeat chalked up to mar their present perfect record, followers of the Ninth street school will have reason to rejoice, notwithstanding the optimism already felt at Business. As a general rule, all C. U. freshmen teams are a little above the average scholastic five and to take the measure of the Brooklanders tonight would be quite a feather in the cap of the Woodworth tossers.

Central's team will follow in the footsteps of Business tomorrow in the matter of double-headers by tackling the Silver Spring High team and the George Washington Freshmen within eight hours. According to present indications, the G. W. yearlings should have one of the strongest teams in years, with no less than four local all-high players in the squad, in addition to a formidable array of performers from the Middle West.

Forrest Burgess, erstwhile American University flash and formerly of Central, will be in the G. W. Freshmen line-up this year, being forced to play on that team as the result of the one-

The Timid Soul —By H. W. Webster

Fairmont to Oppose Shepherd Next Fall

Special to The Washington Post.

Shepardstown, W. Va., Dec. 15.—Fairmont State Teachers College, of Fairmont and Shepherd College, will meet in footbal. next year on a neutral battleground, at Martinsburg, it has been announced by Athletic Director John Newcome, of Shepherd. The elevens will meet on November 1 and it will be the only meeting of college teams there of the season. The past season Potomac State College, of Keyser, met Shepherd there.

While the 1930 football card has not been released, Coach Newcome announced that it would be somewhat similar to the 1929 schedule, which included games with West Liberty State Normal, Potomac State College, Broaddus, Shenandoah, Bridgewater and Gallaudet Colleges, Fairmont State Teachers and Shippensburg (Pa.) State Normal.

15 Basket Ball Games For Hampden-Sidney

Hampden-Sidney, Va. Dec. 15 (A.P.). Hampden-Sidney's twelve-game basbet ball schedule is almost exclusively Virginia Conference, with but one outside team, St. John's, of Annapolis, carded.

The first game is with Bridgewater, January 8. Practice starts tomorrow.

The schedule as it now stands follows: January 8, Bridgewater, there; January 11, William and Mary, here; February 1, St. John's, here; February 4, University of Richmond, there; February 6, Bridgewater, here; February 13, Randolph-Macon, here; February 17, Roanoke, there; February 20, Lynchburg, there; February 21, Roanoke, here; February 24, Richmond, here; February 26, Lynchburg, here; March 1, William and Mary, there; March 3, Randolph-Macon, there.

Cumberland "Y" Five Beats Potomac State

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., Dec. 15.—Passes that skimmed over the heads of opposing players and ability to take advantage of the scoring chances netted the Young Men's Christian Association Five, of Cumberland, a surprise 27-to-17 victory over Potomac State School's floor team, of Keyser, W. Va., last night on the "Y" court in a hard struggle.

The game, the debut of State and the second of the infant season for the "Y," was replete with fast playing, but the victorious quintet was in the van all the way, although the visitors were within 1 point of tying in the third quarter.

J. C. C. Court Team Trims Tremonts, 44-17

The Jewish Community Center Five proved too fast for the Tremonts last night in the Center gym. The Tremonts were the victims of a 44 to 17 setback. Abramson and Walker led the winning attack.

COLT RATED HIGHLY BY TURFMEN

Son of Phalaris, at Benning, Seen as Coming Star.

HORSEMEN with charges now quartered at old Benning are extolling to the skies an imported black yearling colt, the property of Admiral Cary T. Grayson, which is being given his preliminary racing education under the watchful guidance of that astute conditioner of thoroughbreds, Preston M. Burch.

Purchased during the Newmarket sales for a reported price of $25,000, this imported son of that great stallion, Phalaris, was pronounced by English students of the sport as having all the conformation, action and attributes characteristic of his famous sire.

Standing 15.3 hands and weighing aproximately 1,000 pounds, the colt is not lacking in size and is just about the finest specimen of the many yearlings now quartered at Benning. Although Trainer Burch has not asked him for speed in morning trials, his action is such as to warrant the prediction that he wil lprove one of the sensations of early Maryland racing next spring.

That the get of Phalaris is eagerly sought by American turfmen, as well as others, is best attested to by the fact that the first of the famous English stallion's offspring to race in this country was none other than W. T. (Fatty) Anderson's Carlaris, a winner of the 1926 Coffroth Handicap and other stakes. Only recently Carlaris was purchased by Bernard B. Jones, of Audley Farm fame, for $100,000.

That Phalaris is one of the leading, if not the leading sire of England is indicated by mentioning that he sired Fairway, this year's winner of the St. Leger Stakes, and other frequent winners not only in this season, but in other years.

As yet Admiral Grayson has not selected a name for his English importation, but the colt has been nominated for practically every 2-year-old stake and fixture of 1930 worth while. However, Trainer Burch has announced that his objective will be the rich Hopeful and Belmont Futurity. The colt's dam was Communicative, a highly regarded matron of the English turf.

Arlington Prep Grid Team Beats All-Stars

Berwyn Five Scores Initial League Win

Strengthened by the addition of Paul Brown, former Tech court star, and Reeley, erstwhile Company F forward, the Berwyn A. C. Quintet yesterday scored its first victory in the Prince Georges County Basket Ball League by trimming the Mount Rainier Team in the Hyattsville Armory, 40 to 15. Brown and Reeley were the chief point scorers.

COLLYER'S COMMENT on the SPORT of KINGS

WASH DAY. Get out the old dirty linen, fellows, and get ready for Christmas, for really there is a Santa Claus. Also, and by the same token, I am going to slip you an earful of gab warranted to make bridge jumpers of the common enemy. The first of these is NAT EVENS, which is slated to bring home the kale in the third at Keeney Park. The only thing necessary is for the weazened thing in the pilot house to sit still.

Then there is the consistent MISS ONINE, which the clockers send along as their special. Lamp the gab they append—"Has outworked everything at this track, is fast as a bullet and the stable is down hook, line and sinker." Sounds like winning info to me.

NOINE also is well placed in the fifth. Now please do not confuse the monickers of these gees. Yo 'wekkum.

Down at Jefferson Park, "Little Joe" has mixed 'em up for the boys—so that "Joe" in the mutuel department will wear a smile—a mile long. Looks like the Three D outfit has a double barreled cinch on the long end of the purse in the third—either one can win. Yea, Bo, the sky is the limit. EARL OF WARWICK seems to have just rounded to—after a short let-up, and should be on the Bill Daily throughout. BIG SANDY awoke with a rattle last time.

And now we come to the Devil. "Wild Bill" Fizer has stepped the good STAGE STRUCK up a bit in the fifth. However, I am positive the son of Sir Barton is a trifle better than ordinarily rated and will in all probability rule favorite. Maybe a trifle too far for AGAPANTHUS.

In the closing spasm, a real smart coterie of operators wagered overnight on CAPTAIN APPLEJACK. Personally, I feel that one might do worse than string along. This thing dough talks mighty loudly. More anon.

APACHES WIN GAME FROM CELTICS

halted the most serious drive when he intercepted a pass on his own 5-yard mark and ran the ball back to the 18-yard stripe. A 15-yard holding penalty took the ball back to the Apache 4-yard mark but McCabe kicked out of danger and the Celtic attack was quieted for the remainder of the period.

Apaches Use Their Reserves.

Coach Lytell sent his Apache reserves into action at the start of the second period and the Celtics outplayed them. Thomas and Hayman gained ground consistently but they were never to sustain their drives long enough to threaten scoring. The rivals battled on near-even terms throughout the second half, although the Apaches twice threatened to add to their advantage and once Thomas got loose and ran 60 yards to the end zone only to be called back and his team penalized. Penalties, mostly for off-side, played havoc with the Celtics. The loss of Thomas near the end of the third period was the most serious blow, however. Pepco Barry made his initial appearance with the Celtics this season and played a major role in the only sustained drives made by the Alexandrians. Twice Barry punted and tackled the receiver.

year rule in effect at G. W. Along with Roming, he will be facing his old teammates tomorrow, having played with Central in 1927, while Roming was on the 1928-29 team. Paul Brown, of Tech, and Mike Hunt, of Western, will also perform for the Colonial yearlings.

Business Keeps Plugging.

The Business tossers will not be able to rest after today's exertion, as games with Emerson and George Washington Freshmen on Tuesday and Wednesday should keep them stepping for the next three days. A game with Woodward on Thursday will be the Stenogs' last before the holidays.

Western High's team will play its first game of the week tomorrow, opposing the Alexandria five, and then will wait until Thursday before meeting Rockville. Artie Boyd's champion Techites will finally break into actual competition on Friday, when they meet Hyattsville's unformidable team, already conquered by Western and Business. The Maroon and Gray squad will be the last local scholastic group to play its first game, having engaged only in inetrsquad scrimmages at their gym for the past four weeks.

SHIRES GIVES CLUB OWNERS AN IDEA

ring at night as an added attraction to the main contests, with all arguments among the players being settled in the same manner as preliminaries. Truly, it looks as though Shires has done a great thing for the baseball magnates if they can see their way clear to combine the cauliflower and baseball industries.

With boxing not legalized in the District, the Nationals would not benefit from the new combination but Manager Walter Johnson is authority for the statement that he has no ringsters on his pay roll at the present time and that, so far as he knows, Scout Joe Engel has none lined up.

Johnson's ideas as to the "Great One's" fistic ability differs from those of Mr. Shires. "Shires is just a loud speaker," said Walker, "and there are probably a number of ball-players who can give him a good beating. Eddie Ainsmith in his prime could handle a whole team of Shires and I wouldn't be surprised if he couldn't give Art a first-class licking right now.

Johnson Foresees Fall of Shires.

"Nobody ever heard of the fellow Shires knocked out recently," Walter continued, "and the promoters probably will build him up by matching him with a few set-ups. The first time he meets a real fighter, he'll probably be knocked back into baseball again. Fight fans seem to be going crazy over Shires, but probably more are interested in seeing some one knock him for a row of ash cans than in seeing him win, for fellows who are also telling how good they are are never popular. Once, he is beaten, interest in him in the ring will burst like a bubble, for boxing fans want to see good boxing the same as baseball fans want to see a team put up a good game."

Mohawk Eleven Plans To Continue Season

District fans will have a diet of sandlot football for several weeks if the plans of Manager Patsy Donovan, of the Mohawks, materialize as he expects them. He hopes to keep the Mohawks in action until the new year.

In view of the defeat of the Celtics yesterday, the Mohawk pilot has dropped plans for a third game with the Alexandrians and arrangements are being made to book the Orange warriors with an eleven composed of former college stars next Sunday.

K. C. Boxers in Twelve Amateur Bouts Tonight

Twelve amateur bouts will be fought tonight at Knights of Columbus Hall, starting at 8:30 o'clock, with members of four amateur organizations of Washington participating. The program was arranged by Zube Sullivan, K. of C. athletic director. The K. of C., Ni-Hi Boxing Club, Wardman A. C. and Catholic Boys Club will be represented.

The Casey Basket Ball Team, including several former members of St. John's Prep, is drilling for a long and difficult schedule of games.

Minnesota Will Play Sanford Next Season

Minneapolis, Dec. 15 (A.P.).—The University of Minnesota's 1930 football schedule was completed today with the signing of Stanford University of California on a home-and-home arrangement for games at Minneapolis in 1930 and at Palo Alto, Calif., in 1931. The schedule follows:

September 27, South Dakota State at Minneapolis; October 4, Vanderbilt at Minneapolis; October 11, Leland Stanford at Minneapolis; October 18, Indiana at Minneapolis; October 25, open; November 1, Northwestern at Minneapolis; November 8, University of South Dakota at Minneapolis; November 15, Michigan at Ann Arbor; November 22, Wisconsin at Madison.

Haverford Freshman Seeking Three Letters

Haverford, Pa., Dec. 15.—John L. Simons, of Kingston, Pa., may be a three-sport letter man in his freshman year at Haverford College. Simons won the varsity award in football this year, playing half back, and has given promise in early-season basket ball practice of developing into a capable center on the quintet. Indications are that he may also win a berth on the baseball team, having had considerable experience as a catcher on the Montgomery (Pa.) school nine before entering Haverford.

ST. MARTIN'S IN SIXTH WIN

Big Bill Tilden on The Blotter.

There, in a nutshell, are the one or two points you must keep in mind as you pursue the noble game. To clog up such a sport as tennis with this conglomeration of regulations would be harmful, but fortunately the main bulk of players are as oblivious to this barrage of codes as they are to the condition of the Yugoslav exchequer.

If the U. S. L. T. A. were run along the lines of a civil government, but still retained its tennis law, the long and pious countenance of Big Bill Tilden would be frequently reproduced in the gallery assigned to rogues. He has been on the blotter for violating most of the rules.

The most dramatic moment of his law-breaking came in 1928, when he was declared ineligible for writing about the impending Davis Cup matches, America vs. France. It took the late Ambassador Herrick himself to compel the United States Lawn Tennis Association to realize that Tilden's presence in such an international test of skill was more important than part 2, section 4, of most any constitution.

Curling Irons Are Overlooked.

Helen Wills, in her article, informs that when one inspects the shelves under the umpire's stand during a championship match one might as well be prepared to see "two pails full of water—one with oatmeal water, the other with ice water—two basins with sponges, towels and sliced lemons and four bottles of ginger ale, or anything else that the player might want for refreshment; a box of sawdust." She also favors "a hammer, scissors, penknife, talcum powder, pliers, powdered rosin, safety pins, adhesive tape, aromatic spirits of ammonia and smelling salts, shoe laces, garters and a shoe horn."

How about spurs?

Deep Thought, which died while being taken from the cars after his long ride from Chicago to Agua Caliente, had won more than $50,000 in purse money in his seven years of racing. He was owned by the Agua Caliente Stable.

Family Party Is Tonight's Ace on Radio

George Cehanovsky Is Guest Artist Over NBC Chain; Russian Talk Listed; Musical Plays on WMAL.

George Cehanovsky, young barytone of the Metropolitan Opera Company, will offer several favorite operatic selections when he appears as guest artist of the Family Party to be broadcast at 9:30 o'clock from WRC. Among the numbers Cehanovsky will sing are Rossini's "Largo Al Factotum" from "The Barber of Seville;" Carnevali's "Serenade," "I Love Life" by Mana-Zucca, and "Eri Tu" from Verdi's "Un Ballo in Maschere."

Louise Bave, soprano, and Oliver Smith, tenor, will be the featured solists in the semiclassical program which Harry Horlick and the Gypsies will broadcast at 8:30 o'clock from WRC. The program follows:

"Dance Fete" (Delibes), "Valse Celebre" (Moszkowski) "Only a Rose" from "Vagabond King," soprano solo; Medley of Southern melodies, "Serenade" from "The Student Prince;" "Moon of My Delight" (Lehmann), tenor solo; "El Relicario" (Padilla); "Gypsy Love Song" (Herbert); medley of popular songs; "Little Grey Home in the West," string sextet; "One Alone" from "Desert Song," soprano solo; Russian selection; "O! Dry Those Tears" (Del Riego), tenor solo, and "Play Gypsy, Sing Gypsy" from "Countess Maritza."

James G. McDonald, recently returned from a trip around the world which included a visit to Russia, will give his conclusions regarding the present situation of the Soviet country in a talk to be heard at 7:15 o'clock.

What is "Back of the News in Washington" will be related by William Hard at 7:45 o'clock from the studios of WRC.

A United States Marine Band program is scheduled from WRC at 4 o'clock this afternoon, with Capt. Taylor Branson conducting.

The slumber music program from WJZ and WLW at 11 o'clock, will be opened with the overture to "Alfonso and Estrella," by Franz Schubert. This is followed by "La Sonnambula," Bellini; "La Source," a ballet suite, Delibes; "Krolls Ballklaenge," Gungl; "Elegy," Diersch; "Cujus Animan," from "Stabat Mater," Rossini, and "Japanese Moonlight," Friml.

Station WMAL will join the Columbia Broadcasting System network for the evening at 8 o'clock, when the Henry-George feature is presented. The musical numbers for this program of three-minute dramas include "The Whip," "Hang Onto Me," "Baby, Look What You've Done to Me," "Lucky Little Devil," "Dixie Jamboree" and "Climbing the Stairs Into Your Heart."

The program will continue with the Ceco Couriers, and other features scheduled include the "Evening in Paris," "Voice of Columbia" and Paul Specht's Orchestra.

Station WOL will be on the air almost all day, with "Breakfast Brevities," from The Washington Post listed among the early morning features at 8:15 o'clock. Peggy Clarke will give her daily household talk at 10 o'clock. There will be the usual half-hour with famous composers at 11:30 o'clock, followed by luncheon music, and at 12:30 o'clock a program of organ music by Paul D. Gable.

James Whitcomb Riley's "Down at the Capitol," will be done by Helen Webb Zeller at 6:03 o'clock. There is a one-act Christmas sketch arranged for 6:10 o'clock by the Community Players.

Elsie Varle Lang, mezzo-soprano, "Home, Sweet Home," and Flash and Dazzle Pianoteers are listed among the closing presentations.

DIAL FLASHES

By ROBERT D. HEINL

THERE was a sensation in broadcasting circles with the report that in the battle for supremacy between the two chains the Columbia Broadcasting System had not only taken a million-dollar Philco Company contract—one of the largest in the history of radio—away from the National Broadcasting Co., but Leopold Stokowski and the Philadelphia Orchestra as well. This came as a surprise, because the Philco people, sponsors of the orchestra up to this time, have been using the N. B. C. exclusively.

A telegram subsequently received from Columbia, however, indicated that no decision had been reached as to which chain broadcast the Philadelphia Orchestra.

The first word received was a message from Philco, which read, in part:

"Sweeping changes in Philco's radio broadcasting plans for 1930—changes which include discontinuance of the Theater Memories hour, broadcasting of a new Philco Hour over the Columbia Broadcasting system, and expenditure in the neighborhod of $1,000,000 for radio in the new year have just been announced. A series of concerts by the Philadelphia Orchestra, under direction of Leopold Stokowski, will be another feature of the Philco programs of the new year."

This was supplemented by a flash from William S. Paley, president of Columbia, which read:

"The announcement of Philco that Leopold Stokowski, director of the Philadelphia Orchestra, will be on the air more during 1930 than in 1929 should delight patrons of music."

However, following this, there came another telegram from Columbia:

"Through an inadvertence a news release was sent to the press in which there was an inference that Leopold Stokowski's Philadelphia Orchestra might broadcast over the Columbia net work in the Philco hour during 1930. The decision as to what chain the Philadelphia Orchestra will use in broadcasting next year has not as yet been determined.

"There was no basis in fact that the great maestro was under contract nor was there reason to more than hope that Columbia system audiences would be privileged to hear him and his orchestra."

A VACANCY hard to fill will be that made by the transfer to New York of Ralph Edmunds, who has been the manager of Station WRC since it opened six years ago. In fact, Mr. Edmunds had on earlier association with Washing when 20 years ago he was manager of Henry W. Savage's Grand Opera Company at the time it gave the very first American presentation of "Mme. Butterfly." This took place in the old Columbia Theater.

Mr. Edmunds, an eminent musical authority, was connected for years with the Metropolitan Opera Company in New York, and knew intimately Caruso and the other celebrities of that day. Seeing possibilities in the radio field, he came to Washington to take charge of Station WRC and developed its program from two hours a day until now, when it operates almost continuously.

A recent event of importance was when Mr. Edmunds, who was born in London, became a full-fledged American citizen. Like many others, he became more or less wedded to Washington, but because of his vast musical knowledge officials of the NBC felt there was a greater field of usefulness in the New York studios.

As yet no successor has been named to Mr. Edmunds, but the chances are that he will be a soft-spoken, efficient individual by the name of Kenneth M. Berkley, who has served as Mr. Edmunds' assistant for many years, and who seems to be in line for the position.

CONTRADICTING dire threats to the contrary, every important sporting event with a Nation-wide appeal will be broadcast to the radio public, according to information received by B. G. Erskine, chairman of the broadcasting committee of the Radio Manufacturers' Association.

"Through the arrangements of the great national radio chains and also the cooperation of local broadcast stations," said Mr. Erskine, "we are assured that every national sporting event will go on the air and be available to the radio public. This includes the prospective heavyweight world's champion boxing contest early this winter, probably in Florida."

Because of his affected manner of speech, Frank Knight, announcer in the Temple and other Columbia hours, is hereby nominated to be a member of the Bowes' gallery.

A story going the rounds that an inventor in Indianapolis had perfected a tubeless radio set for which he had just been paid $17,000,000 was discounted by one of the leading radio manufacturers of the country who was in the Capital last week. He said he had investigated the report thoroughly and that there was no foundation of fact in it.

HERE'S a hit press agent stotry from New York:

"A policeman rushed into the studio where Lew White was broadcasting and ordered every one out of the building. It was on fire.

"Sorry," said Mr. White, "we can't. We're on the air."

He and his merry crew went back to their merry music making. C. H. Campbell, radio engineer on the job, telephoned the National Broadcasting Co. that while the building was on fire he estimated they could finish the program.

He was wrong, however, because Neel Enslen, the announcer, was forced to sign off a minute early. The smoke was then too thick for the musicians to see their music. The radio entertainers then escaped by going out on a roof. The fire was in a photographic studio next to White's studio.

Salesman—This radio is guaranteed to bring in anything any time of the night.

Mrs. Alsoran—I'll take it if it brings in my husband before midnight.

What Today Means to You

"SAGITTARIUS."

IF TODAY is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 8 a. m. to 9:15 a. m., from 1 p. m. to 2:30 p. m., and from 9 p. m. to 10 p. m. The danger periods are from 11 a. m. to noon, and from 5 p. m. to 6 p. m.

The astrological influences for this day will be of an irritating nature, and the emotions should be restrained. It will be an exceptionally poor time for those things which require tact and diplomacy. Great care should be taken for the sick and minor ailments should be conscientiously nursed as the health conditions are not good.

Children born on this Deceber 16 will have well-balanced mentalities, will be somewhat inventive and original, and extremely capable. They will be conscientious students, and should possess great physical and mental endurance.

You are restless and find it difficult to settle down to any career or undertaking. You no sooner get started on something which you think, at the time, is the only work for which you are fitted, then in a very brief period, you forsake this and seek a change. This, of course, is not very harmful in early years, but if persisted in, it will be realized that "a rolling stone gathers no moss"—it being, of course, understood that the mission of a rolling stone should be to gather moss.

You do not attach much importance to polish or culture, and are rough and ready; withal, you are never unkind or unsympathetic. Your ideals are all to the good. You look for the best in everybody, and overlook, often to yo r own discomfiture, the faults that are apparent.

You are fond of athletics and, as a result of sudden changing from one to another, you are an all-around sport, rather than a leader in any one class. You are sincere and consistent with others. You are, unfortunately, never consistent in your individual efforts and until you curb this restlessness and uncertainty, you will never attain that success to which you are entitled.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

JAUNDICE IS A SYMPTOM.

B. C. W. writes: What is the cause of yellow jaundice? What can one do to prevent it or is it hereditary Is it possible that a light blow in a tagging game could superinduce it, aggravate, or be the cause of it in a child? What would you advise for a prevention or a remedy?

REPLY:

Jaudice is a symptom and not a disease. There are many causes for the symptom. Conceivably, it might be caused by a blow on the abdomen, but scarcely by a tap. Jaundice in a child is usually accompanied by some fever and some intestinal disturbance. It acts like a mild infection. Such a jaundice generally yields to light diet, mild saline purges, hot baths and drinking large quantites of mildly acid fruit drinks. Sugars and sirups should not be given.

IT WILL DO NEITHER.

E. W. writes: Can you tell me if taking salt baths every day is reducing or fattening?

REPLY.

Neither.

Wives of Tomorrow

By FRANCES M'DONALD

Good Mothers.

Anita is terribly bitter. Her husband has been "untrue." And Anita is storming and reviling all men and doubting all women. And yet all Anita claims for herself is that she has been a good mother! Now that phrase tells the whole story of Anita's life, and Anita's love, and Anita's "untrue" husband. In fact that phrase tells the story of about 90 per cent of all the "untrue" husbands on earth, only women do not realize it—or try to understand it.

The plain truth is that no man on earth ever married for the purpose of adding another "good mother" to the world.

A man marries because he aches for a little single-minded devotion all for himself! He wants to be loved out of all proportion to the facts or his own deserts, he wants to bask in the warmth of lavish endearments and be thrilled by adoring glances and silent raptures.

Imagine then his reaction when he finds himself not a husband, not a lover, but a father—an everyday commonplace, take-it-or-leave-it father. Replaced. Set aside. Dethroned.

Of course all womankind will say, "Well what did the man expect?" And the answer is that he never expected to be second in the heart of woman. No man expects that. To him parenthood is a thing that has a way of descending upon a man. To woman it is the wonder of life, the answer to all that is or ever has been, and it fills her with unspeakable content, enwraps her in still ecstasy. But man—poor afterthought—stands by in dumb wonder, and sees only a "new" baby, squalling in the throes of colic.

Anita, instead of bitterly reviling the hurt lover of her youth, should start repentantly to mend her ways, to be wife and sweetheart first—and mother after that. It is one of nature's errors that in making woman indifferent to her mate she fails to make her consistent, and instead permits her to put aside her lover for her young—and then clamor loudly when he seeks in another woman's smiles some solace in his wife. Read Anita's letter—and profit.

"How can one go on—when one's life is broken, and one's faith in people gone?" she writes. "I married for love and adored my husband. From that hour I had only one thought—my home. Our first child came the first year, and I now have three—and have been supremely happy. Now I learn my husband has been untrue to me. The woman was my friend. What return is this for my years of love and trust? I have been a good mother—his mother has often said I was too good a mother, gave up too much to make my children perfect. Now at 28 I am through with everything, for there can be no question of forgiving such baseness. Truly I feel that all men are worthless and all women ready to betray love and trust. His mother is ready to take me into her home, but he dares to ask that I remain as his wife. Is there no end to man's audacious demands, as there is no end to his deceits?

"ANITA."

Jean L'Monte Interprets the Mode

Novel collar tie relieves the simple line of this grey and beige tweed. (Courtesy of J. Suzanne Talbot, Paris.)

PARIS, Dec. 15.—The woman who cannot advantageously wear the dress with a high waist-line will find many becoming models in the collection of Joseph Paquin. His models incline to shortness, have belts resting on the hips, and obtain the skirt fulness through pleats. The bodice is loose, leaving the waistline undetermined.

Skirt hems are often uneven and several models follow a modified princess silhouette, with no belt. Bolero effects are frequent, one attractive crepe de chine frock in black having the bolero open on one side in both back and front, showing the white beneath. This touch of white is repeated at the cuffs. These lingerie touches are frequent sometimes with closely fitting collars, sometimes as jabots and vests.

Afternoon coats are elaborate, usually fashioned of broche satin or of velvet and trimmed in fox fur. Lace is popular for both afternoon and evening wear.

• • • •

The eight to twelve-year-old girl is certainly a problem for Christmas giving! We ourselves have a couple just that age who rate Christmas presents and we finally thought of THE very thing!

With colored wools, colored wooden beads and button molds, which we color ourselves, we made some of the smartest and cleverest costume jewelry for school frocks you can ever imagine! Well, I'll tell you something, it was so smart that La Chic Secretaire is having some made to go with her various sports costume.

• • • •

While we were at it, we evolved a whole family of Funnymen and Goofy-Annfmules for Wee Mamzelle out of these same beads and button molds. 'N then we sat down and made you an illustrated leaflet telling you just how to make each one of these, and a child's beret and a Komical Purp, and a clever homework book for Sonny, which will intrigue his imagination and lighten the burden of homework, and . . . but really, my dear, we are so good that we think you'd better sit right down and send your stamped self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for the leaflet, which tells you exactly how to go about making them all yourseuf.

• • • •

So simple and so lovely was this grey and beige tweed coat . . . so we just had to show it to you! Suzanne Talbot in a rare mood, but she would do something different to the collar!

• • • •

One most effective gown in the Paquin collection is of taffeta in three shades of purple. The close-fitting bodice is in a pale mauve, and three rows of frills in the same shade swing across the hips. The next three rows are darker and give a downward movement. Below this is one very wide frill, touching the ground at one side, in a deep purple.

And evening coats are voluminous in cut, and are either in rich lame (lah-may) or heavy broche lunasol satin.

• • • •

Clothes do change one's mood, I don't care what any one says to the contrary! And there just is something so silly about putting on tailored lingerie with an afternoon dress or lace and pleated teddies with sports wear.

Treat yourself to the mode of being right from the skin out . . . after all, life has few enough such little luxuries!

The weekly Dare fashion letter, you know, appears in the Capital exclusively in The Washington Post each Sunday.

Call for Lighter Movies.

Paris, Dec. 15 (A.P.).—More light in movie houses was advocated by the second Catholic Congress of Cinematography organized to exert moral and educational influence on the movies. The lack of light in many houses, it was said, is "demoralizing."

GREEN WILL LAUNCH SOUTH UNION DRIVE

Meeting in Charlotte Opens Federation's Campaign of Organization.

PLAN TO BE WIDESPREAD

The American Federation of Labor yesterday took a definite step toward carrying out its plan for unionizing the South when it was announced that at a meeting to be held in Charlotte, N. C., the center of the cotton mill industry of the Piedmont region of the Carolinas, January 6, President Green will instruct his organizers how to go about it. Previous attempts to unionize the South have met with indifferent success.

The Charlotte conference will map out a program for all of the Southern States. Wage earners in every industry will be considered. Heretofore, the predominance of Negro labor in some sections of the South has interfered with organized labor drives.

The coming campaign, a statement from the federation said, will "be the most extensive of its kind ever inaugurated by it." It will extend into all trades and occupations.

In a letter to the officials of all international unions, President Green said: "We hope to make a preliminary survey of the situation at this time to consider plans and policies, to appraise the situation as fully and completely as possible, to take into consideration all the problems with which we will be called upon to deal and to formulate our plans and policies to be followed in the organizing campaign in the South."

In the meantime, the officials of State federations in the Southern States will gather necessary data to acquaint the organizers with what they will have to contend and the best methods of procedure.

A city will be selected for permanent headquarters to which reports will be sent daily by the organizers from the places in which they are stationed.

President Green will visit many Southern cities and address mass meetings of wage earners to arouse an interest in union labor.

Church Bells to Mark Dry Law Anniversary

Westerville, Ohio, Dec. 15 (A.P.).—Nation-wide ringing of church bells at noon January 16 to celebrate the tenth anniversary of the adoption of the national prohibition law was announced yesterday by Dr. Ernest H. Cherrington, general secretary of the World League Against Alcoholism.

Dr. Cherrington said the bells will begin ringing at noon and will continue 10 minutes.

25 YEARS AGO TODAY

DECEMBER 16, 1904.

Thomas F. Walsh, of this city, was mentioned as the likely successor to Gen. Horace Porter, of New York, as Ambassador to France.

Police were seeking a well-gowned woman who left an infant at the Children's Hospital, and failed to return for it.

Capt. O'Conner and two firemen of No. 1 Engine Co. saved the lives of two women at a fire at 1018 Eighteenth street northwest.

Lax enforcement of the smoke curtailment law was charged. District Comissioners asked an amendment to the law to provide more rigid enforcement.

Edward Carlton and his wife, Alice, were charged with stealing a watch from Representative Morgan C. Fitzpatrick, of New York.

Old Christmas Customs.

I—A ROMAN FEAST.

FOR FIVE days more the days will keep getting shorter—then will come December 22, when there will be less daylight than during any other day of 1929. Between sunrise and sunset of that day there will be only nine hours and three minutes.

A Roman placing an image of Bacchus on a pine tree.

If the days were to keep on growing shorter after December 22 there would come a time when there was no daylight at all. If daylight were lost at the rate of a minute a day, it would be "all gone" by the end of October, 1931.

However, we know that a change will take place. After December 22 the daylight will increase and the darkness will be less. The change will be slow, but on January 22, 1930, daylight will last 28 minutes longer than on December 22 of the present year.

The increase in daylight after December 21 or December 22 each year has been noticed since olden times. The ancient Romans used to make a time of feasting calle.. the Saturnalia. This feasting began on December 17 and lasted until December 24. Thus it started when the days were becoming shorter, and lasted until they started to grow longer.

You sometimes hear the Christmas season spoken of as the Yuletide. In former days, the English seldom forgot the Yule log. A thick log 4 or 5 feet long, was taken from a forest and dragged to a home where there was a large fireplace.

The logs were so large that they sometimes burned for two or three days. A piece of the Yule log, partly burned, was kept until the next year to be used as kindling wood to start the new Yule log burning.

The Yule log custom dates back to the time of the Norsemen, who held the Feast of Jul in the latter part of December each year. The name "Jul" seems to have come from a Norse word meaning "wheel" or "turning point." It was held at a time which would mark the turning point of the year.

ADVICE ON INVESTMENTS

By CHARLES W. STORM

Kay Copper.

L. B.—As a steady reader of your column can you advise me how to act to recover 1,000 shares of Kay Copper stock? The concern is located at 25 Broadway, New York City. The stock was intrusted to the company for safe keeping last July, just before I sailed for Europe. During the last two months I have requested the company to make delivery of the stock, but up to the present time I have received no reply. What would you advise doing in order to secure my stock?

Answer—Bring the matter to the attention of the Attorney General's office for the district of New York. Perhaps your correspondence has not been received by the company, but nevertheless no harm can be done by calling the matter to the attention of the Attorney General.

DeForest Radio, Gotham Knitbar.

A. B.—What is your opinion of DeForest Radio and Gotham Knitbar?

Answer—Both of these stocks are highly speculative, and earnings do not appear to warrant a placing of funds in either of these securities. While DeForest own a number of valuable patents, earnings have not been up to expectations.

Anaconda Copper.

W. G. C.—Has Anaconda Copper been a steady dividend payer for the last several years? Where are its mines located? Do you consider it a buy at current levels? Please recommend some public utility stocks worthy of buying, giving the present dividend rate.

Answer—The Anaconda Copper Co. has paid dividends for a good many years. Last June directors declared a quarterly payment of $1.75 a share on the $50 par stock, which not long ago was increased by the issuance of rights to stockholders. This placed the stock on a $7 annual basis, the same rate as was paid prior to the increase in the number of shares. While there has been a report of late, that the price of the metal may be cut from the present 18-cent level, it is believed that curtailment measures will prevent any immediate reduction. The company's properties are in Montana, and stock interest in other companies make Anaconda a factor in South American mining enterprises. At current prices the stock yields nearly 9 per cent.

Public Service 7 per cent preferred stock is among the best utility investments. Others in this category include Consolidated Gas, which pays $5 on the preferred and Northern American preferred, which pays $3.

Niagara Hudson and Others.

Mrs. C. C. B.—I would appreciate your opinion of Niagara Hudson Power, Shubert Theaters and Mavis Bottling.

Answer—The three stocks are of the speculative variety, although Niagara Hudson Power appears to have a bright outlook as the result of its connection with up-State power developments. An initial quarterly dividend of 10 cents a share was paid September 30 last. Shubert Theaters recently passed its dividend as the result of the inroads made on earnings by the talking movie pictures companies. Revenues have shown a falling off since the "talkie" became popular, and this applies not only to Shubert, but to the majority of other companies interested in drama and musical comedy productions. Shubert earned $5.05 a share for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1929, as compared with $7.53 a share for the preceding twelve-month period. It has been rumored that Shubert and Pathe would combine, but nothing officially has been forthcoming. Earnings of the Mavis Bottling Corporation have been poor for some time, and no dividends have ever been paid on the capital stock.

Allis Chalmers and Others.

C. P. M.—What is the outlook for Allis Chalmers, International Combustion preferred, American Seating, Miami Copper, Anaconda, Inspiration, Granby, Calumet & Arizona, Studebaker, Nash, Schulte Stores preferred, Consolidated Cigar common and Porto Rican American Tobacco A?

Answer—All of the stocks mentioned, possibly with the exception of International Combustion preferred, appear to be in good standing as to the future. Directors of International Combustion recently passed the dividend on the common, and while the last quarterly dividend of $1.75 was paid on October 1, directors may or may not deem it advisable to reduce the payment in order to conserve cash resources as was the reason for omitting the junior stock dividend, although orders on the company's books are stated to be large.

Bullard Co.

T. S. K.—I am a substantial stockholder in the Bullard Co., whose stock is listed on the New York Stock Exchange. Any information regarding the financial position and future prospects of this company will be appreciated.

Answer—The Bullard Co. numbers among its customers some of the largest manufacturers of automobiles, railroad and electrical equipment, airplanes, &c., its production being confined to specifically designed machines and tools in the manufacture of which there is little or no competition. Capital stock consists of 276,000 no par common shares. Earnings in 1928 were two and a half times greater than those of 1927, equal to $3.12 per capital share, compared with $1.72 per share in 1927. At the end of 1928 current assets were four times current liabilities. Earnings for six months ended June 30, 1929, were equal to $2.17 per common share. Dividends are at the rate of $1.60 per year (40 cents quarterly) and an extra dividend of 40 cents was paid August 15, 1929. Dividend requirements are amply covered by present earnings. The company is in strong financial position and favored with progressive management which is constantly producing new labor-saving devices. For long-term holding the issue should be well regarded.

NEWS FROM MARYLAND AND VIRGINIA

VIRGINIA TAXPAYERS TO GIVE ROAD VIEWS

Public Hearings Scheduled for Three Days Under $12,818,260 Fund.

TO ARGUE ALLOCATIONS

Special to The Washington Post.

Richmond, Va., Dec. 15.—Virginia taxpayers this week will voice their views on the State highway construction planned under the $12,818,260 road-building fund at public hearings to be held tomorrow, Tuesday and Wednesday. Claims and clashes of the various districts and counties over the allocations of the State Highway Commission are expected to feature the hearings.

The new highway allocations, which are to be argued at these hearings, include the construction of two highways into the National Capital from northern Virginia. These routes, if approved, will give the Shenandoah Valley and the northern section of the State five paved highways leading northward through Washington and Harpers Ferry.

These allocations tentatively agreed upon embrace funds for the construction of links in a new highway that will lead from the Valley to Washington, via Berryville, Bluemont, Round Hill and Leesburg. This road, incidentally, will provide a hard-surfaced highway to a point near Mount Weather, on the eastern side of the Blue Ridge Mountains in Loudoun County, which has been proposed for a summer White House for Presidents. This site, recommended by ex-President Coolidge, has been discarded temporarily by President Hoover, who prefers his fishing camp on the Rapidan River in Madison County.

Hoover Camp Not Overlooked.

The Hoover fishing camp has not been overlooked in the allocations, which include a recommendation for the building of an improved highway from Sperryville, on the Lee Highway, to Criglersville, where this highway will tap the road the Army engineers and the State of Virginia has built from Criglersville over one mountain and near the top of another, into the Hoover camp.

Included also are funds to complete the Lee highway from Warrenton to Sperryville, which will give Washington a modern hard-surfaced highway into the heart of the proposed Shenandoah National Park. The completion of this route, together with the building of the Round Hill link to the top of the Blue Ridge Mountains near Mount Weather, and the allocating of $90,000 for reconstruction of a highway from Castelmans Ferry to the top of the mountain to tap the Round Hill road will give the valley of Virginia five paved highways leading north. These are in addition to the Richmond-Washington highway, in eastern Virginia, which already is completed.

Virginia is divided into eight highway-building districts and tomorrow's hearing at Charlottesville will be held for those taxpayers of Culpeper, Staunton and Fredericksburg districts who wish to present claims. The Bristol and Salem districts, embracing the southwest Virginia counties, will be held Tuesday at Wytheville, while the Lynchburg, Suffolk and Richmond districts, embracing southside, central and tidewater Virginia, will be heard Wednesday at Richmond. The Charlottesville hearing tomorrow will embrace the counties of the valley, northern neck and northern Virginia.

Has Spent $74,105,917.

The total amount of money spent so far in highway construction in the eight districts of Virginia since the Highway Commission was created eight years ago is $74,105,917, all of which has been expended on a pay-as-you-go basis without bond issues. This fund has been divided among the districts as follows:

Bristol district	$10,619,454
Lynchburg district	8,087,008
Staunton district	7,855,603
Culpeper district	10,364,604
Fredericksburg district	5,143,218
Richmond district	10,446,203
Suffolk district	11,490,735
Total	$74,105,917

The construction fund includes the $7,000,000 loaned by counties and cities for road construction, which the State, however, has assumed responsibility, and is repaying at the rate of $1,000,000 a year.

The total amount of State highway funds spent in each county since the creation of the State Highway Commission in 1921 follows:

Bright Tobacco Active In Petersburg Market

Special to The Washington Post.

Petersburg, Va., Dec. 15.—The Petersburg tobacco market continues active on bright tobacco and all grades are selling as high as at any time this season. Better grades showed an upward tendency during the past week. The market has sold to date 2,501,773 pounds, bringing an average of $18.33.

Sales of dark Virginia tobacco continue small as a large number of the farmers will not market their crop until after January 1. Prices on all grades are higher than last season and the market average is higher than any time since the 1924 crop. The market will close after Wednesday's sale and will reopen with sales Tuesday, January 7. This applies to both bright and dark Virginia.

Virginia Ginnings Decrease Slightly

901 Bales Less Reported to December 1, This Year, Compared to 1928.

The county board of supervisors will hold a special meeting Wednesday afternoon at the courthouse to take final action on the letter to be sent to Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d, executive officer of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission, in answer to the letter received by the board relative to the needs of water front development for industrial purposes.

Three Are Taken In Feud Shooting

Brothers Held for Slaying Claim They Shot in Self-Defense.

Pikeville, Ky., Dec. 15 (A.P.).—Taulby, Frank and Noah Newsom, brothers, were arrested last night at their home at Robinson Creek by local officers on a charge of killing Kenis Mitchell, 53, shot yesterday afternoon.

The Newsoms told the sheriff they shot in self-defense, the officer said. According to their story, they were returning home from Virginia when they met Mitchell, who opened fire on them.

The Mitchell killing followed a gun fight Friday in which Caleb Newsom, 20, and his brother, Alvis, 18, were wounded in an exchange of shots with their cousin, C. C. Newsom, and his brother-in-law, Sherman Taylor.

Kenis Mitchell, who was killed yesterday, was the brother of Andy Mitchell, who killed Taulby Newsom's father about ten years ago, officers said.

A preliminary hearing for the three men arrested will be held early this week.

LEGION AUXILIARY WILL DONATE FLAG

Colors to Be Presented to Alexandria Girl Scout Troop January 9.

CABARET BRINGS PROFIT

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
312 S. Washington St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

The American Legion Auxiliary to Post No. 24, of Alexandria, has invited the members of the post to be their guests at the meeting to be held on January 9, when the auxiliary will present a flag to the Girl Scout troop under the leadership of Miss Kathleen Douglass, the auxiliary deciding that legion night would be a most appropriate occasion for the presentation.

This Girl Scout troop was organized last April by Miss Douglass, and sponsored by the American Legion Auxiliary, in line with the Americanism program of that organization.

Mrs. Irvin Diener, finance chairman of the unit, has reported the success of the cabaret supper staged by the auxiliary on November 11, armistice officer of the post, has requested the tributed a part of the proceeds toward the equipment of the room in the old City Hotel which is now used as a place of meeting by both the legion and auxiliary.

W. Cameron Roberts, rehabilitation officer of the Post, has requested the assistance of the auxiliary in stressing the importance of men who have failed to present their claims for the adjusted compensation, doing so prior to January 2, 1930, as the time expires on that date, and this benefit will then be lost to approximately 15,000 men in Virginia alone.

Miss Christine Munoz, director of music in the public schools, has announced the program for the singing of Christmas carols in the various schools prior to closing of the holidays.

FARMERS TO MEET ON MARKET STUDY

Cooperative Problems Will Be Discussed at V. P. I. Gathering.

NOTED SPEAKERS LISTED

Blacksburg, Va., Dec. 15 (A.P.).—Several hundred farmers, representatives of farm cooperative organizations, and county agents of Virginia Polytechnic Institute agricultural extension division, are expected here tomorrow and the remainder of the week to discuss questions of cooperative marketing.

Dean A. R. Mann, Cornell University; J. C. Stone, Federal Farm Board; Edward A. O'Neal, vice president American Farm Bureau, and F. G. Ketner, National Livestock Producers Association, are among the leading speakers on the program arranged by John R. Hutcheson, director.

"The Backgrounds of the Extension Program" will be the topic of the public address Dean Mann is to make Tuesday evening, while Wednesday evening he will speak on "The Foregrounds of the Extension Program." Stone will discuss the question of Federal aid for cooperative tobacco marketing at 11 o'clock Thursday morning. The annual county agents' meeting has been combined this year with the cooperative short course.

The general subject for Monday's meeting is cooperative marketing for dairy products. I. W. Heaps, Maryland State Dairymen's Association; F. S. Walker, Maryland-Virginia Milk Producers' Association; M. D. Rhodes, Valley of Virginia Milk Producers' Association; C. C. Taylor and W. J. Nuckolls, V. P. I., are on the program.

Cooperative marketing of livestock, wool and poultry are to be considered Tuesday, while cooperative marketing of fruits and vegetables will be given special consideration Wednesday. Cooperative marketing of tobacco and peanuts will be Thursday's subject, with cooperative purchasing Friday's topic. Making the extension program more effective through county and community organization will be considered at a meeting Friday evening at which B. L. Hummel, V. P. I., will lead. All meetings will be held in Patton Engineering Hall.

Legion Rehabilitation Officer Is Appointed

Richmond, Va., Dec. 15 (A.P.).—Frank Bane, of Richmond, has been appointed by O. L. Bodenhamer, of Little Rock, Ark., national commander of the American Legion, as national rehabilitation chairman of Area B, comprising the State of Virginia, Maryland, Pennsylvania and the District of Columbia, according to an announcement of State American Legion headquarters at Richmond.

It was announced also that Commander Bodenhamer has appointed Robert T. Barton, of Richmond, a member of the national organization's committee to entertain distinguished guests. Bane is a member of the North Richmond Post and Barton a member of the Winchester Post.

GAYETY

"Pretty Babies" is the alluring title of the attraction at the Gayety Theater this week. This production introduces Viola Spaeth with Harry Levine and Frank "Rags" Murphy.

Levine, one of the most popular Hebrew comics, is coupled with a newcomer, Frank "Rags" Murphy, who is about the funniest second feature comic to make his appearance here.

Displaying the same beauty and talent which annexed her the winner of a recent beauty contest in Chicago, and earned her the title of "Miss Chicago," Hazel Walker sings several songs and entertains with dancing. Fanny McVoy, Don Roush and Howard Harrison also score. Jean Rich, a pretty soubrette, excels in her Hawaiian dance. Doris Delores, doing a variety of novelty bits, receives much applause.

A continuation of the big Thursday midnight show will be held at the Gayety, starting at 11:30.

METROPOLITAN

"CHARMING SINNERS." Paramount talking picture from a play by W. Somerset Maugham. Cast includes Ruth Chatterton, Clive Brook, William Powell, Mary Nolan, Laura Hope Crews and Montague Love. Directed by Robert Milton. Reviewed Sunday night by C. Ransom.

This is the type of polite English drawing-room comedy that offers a vital test of the power of the talking film to displace the talkative drama. At least it ought to try out something of the kind, what with a splendid cast of stage-trained players and a story that evidently follows closely the work of one of the best-known playwrights of the school of parlor sparkle. But just what it proves or disproves in that direction is not going to be discussed on this occasion.

Mr. Maugham's play, from which the film was taken, is not familiar to this reviewer, but he will bet an apple core that it was not named "Charming Sinners." That title has all the protruding earmarks of the movie adapter. There are several charming women in the plot and several sinners, but only one person who is indicated as coming under both heads. But that is not exactly why the caption is silly.

It is about a little group of well-to-do London people whose marital relations are getting somewhat frayed or frittered. As this is polite comedy, they meet with the most surprising politeness situations that among lesser breeds would call for shouting and scolding, or clawing and stabbing. Clive Brook is seen as a physician, who is neglecting his charming wife, played by Ruth Chatterton, for another man's pretty wife, who is her best friend. Katherine, the slighted lady, pretends ignorance until she has an opportunity to make use of the return of an old admirer, in the person of William Powell. Katherine's consummate poise and tact and her complete victory in the wielding of this weapon are the substance of the simple story. For such a persuasive character no one more admirably suited could have been chosen than Miss Chatterton. Her easy, cultivated utterance, her smile that hints of subtle depths, her imperturbable bearing, all lend plausibility to her mastery of the situation, besides being fascinating in themselves.

Brilliance of dialogue is usually deemed an essential of this kind of entertainment. Harking back over the evening it is hard to recall a line that would answer that description, and yet there is no boredom, no lack of sustained interest and amusement. The lines are real and fitting rather than witty, and the turns of events are somehow laughable without ever being forced or absurd. Without a spark of originality or genius, the piece nevertheless keeps every one sitting up. The author must be clever.

Casts like this one do not grow on every hook-up. Every lover of the smooth, the suave, the restrained, the well-bred in dramatics will want to listen to Clive Brook, William Powell, Miss Chatterton and their associates in this rarefied bit of manners.

Of interest among the short subjects is a very brief and bright one, a comedy with Taylor Holmes as a husband who succeeds in controlling his wife's overromantic impulse to run away with another. The Californians are a jazz outfit among whom a fine police dog is the most interesting. There are the usual newsreels.

RKO-KEITH

By NELSON B. BELL

In his first excursion into the field of the talking-singing-dancing camera drama, James Cruze has emerged with a glittering play of the theater so different from the type to which we are accustomed that it seems hardly to fall within the classification of the backstage romance. Despite the fact that it is paced to somewhat slower tempo than might advantageously have been employed, and fails at times to extract full value from the dramatic material of which it makes use, it still will take rank as one of the season's distinct novelties, executed with conspicuous intelligence and more than ordinary effectiveness.

The pivotal figures in the drama are a vaudeville ventriloquist, the Great Gabbo, and his blonde assistant, who, unable to stand his cruelty and prodigious egotism longer, leaves the act during a trying engagement in a "shooting gallery" in Paterson, N. J., only to become the prima donna and premiere danseuse of the mammoth Broadway revue, in which Gabbo is the stellar artist, two years later. During the interval, Mary has married the leading man of the company. When the old affection between Gabbo and his former aid seems to be budding again, she confides the truth of her marriage to him and his reason totters.

This is the merest skeletonization of the plot, but it is upon this basic idea that what might have been one of the screen's most noteworthy character drawings is grounded. The ventriloquist is a man of tremendous conceit and apparently vicious nature, yet through the figure of his dummy, Otto, he reveals the tenderness and generosity of the idealist and the dreamer. His great love for Mary and all of his kindnesses to her are expressed through the mechanical lips of the silly, little wax figure into which Gabbo projects the gentleness of his "other self" and his voice. It is by this device that the picture might have been made almost another "Strange Interlude" had the vast potentialities of this duality of nature been fully plumbed. As it is, they are only faintly suggested in a most sketchy and incomplete manner. The effect is sufficiently vivid and sustained, however, to arouse curiosity as to who might have supplied the voice, intonations and other semblances of life to Otto, since Von Stroheim is not the master of ventriloquial tricks he seems to be as Gabbo.

In the portion of his dual role most in consonance with his screen tradition, Von Stroheim gives a memorable performance. Colossally self-centered, he paradoxically makes Gabbo a fit object of contumely and scorn and at the same time a character by no means devoid of human warmth and sympathetic appeal. Although she assumes a versatility in which I suspect she was assisted by a double or two, as singer, dancer and motivation of the play's romantic movements, Betty Compson, in my view, falls something short of the consummate skill displayed by Herr von Stroheim. Hers nevertheless, is a variegated and interesting impersonation. The only others of note in the cast are Donald Douglas, Gabbo's successful rival for the hand of Mary, and Margie (Babe) Kane, the revue's sprightly soubrette. Unless, of course, you count Otto, the dummy.

Interlarded with the scenes of dramatic import are numerous others depicting the public presentation of the gigantic revue in which all of the principals are participants. By judicious utilization of a huge ensemble, shrewdly contrived photographic effects and natural color in several sequences, Mr. Cruze has made these decorations of his drama as impressive as any of similar character that have been brought to the screen.

The supplementary attractions are a new issue of RKO News, a Tiffany natural color sound subject, "Jungle Drums," and the synocopated contributions of the R-K-Olians, directed by Fred Clark.

RIALTO

"RED HOT RHYTHM." Pathe talking-singing-dancing picture, featuring Alan Hale, supported by Kathryn Crawford and Josephine Dunn. Directed by Leo McCarey. Reviewed Saturday night by Mary Porter Russell.

"Red Hot Rhythm!" What a warmer for the week-before-Christmas air that should be chilly! In the contest for smoking titles this wins the prize, and the picture, despite the fact that it is just one more yarn of Tin Pan Alley, and weak both as to story and masculine pulchritude is pretty good entertainment. This is due not so much to the spectacularly staged dance numbers, done in Technicolor for the bedazzlement of the eye, as to several unpretentious comedy scenes which abound with laughter. The serious portions of the film fail to matter, except to prove that Alan Hale is not one of the screen's great lovers.

He is cast here as just that, a philandering song writer and shyster publisher, who holds Kathryn Crawford's little heart in his great big hand and thinks no more of it than to play around with every pretty girl he meets and to engage himself eventually to Josephine Dunn, who he thinks is an innocent young angel, but whom you and I have known for a gold digger ever since she made the character to which she was to adhere known in "Sonny Boy."

Being a kind-hearted individual, he is sorry for Kathryn when she learns of his engagement just before going into her song, which is appropriately entitled "Out of the Past," and which she sings with tears overflowing. So he hastens to her side to comfort her with the assurance that Josephine is a wonderful girl and that they will be very happy. A glorious day it is for Kathryn—we are giving his thought, not ours—when the truth at last is forced upon him and he returns to bequeath to her alone his manly charms.

One of the best scenes is that of Mr. Hale's initial meeting with Josephine, when he is taken in by her in a big way. The producers can't be blamed for keeping her in this sort of thing for there is no one better.

The big dance offering of the piece is the "Red Hot Rhythm" number staged at the Frivolity Club, where Kathryn is an entertainer. Surrounded by Technicolored flames sweeping ceilingward, chorus girls clad in flame-colored costumes become finally one with the blaze. All very effective, though the Technicolor is slightly off-color.

Miss Crawford is a newcomer to the screen, whose appearance is charming and whose songs, except for poor enunciation are pleasingly rendered. In the supporting cast are Walter O'Keefe, Ilka Chase and Anita Garvin.

There is a Pathe talking comedy called "Wedding at the Ritz," and the news events are unreeled to orchestral accompaniment.

THE NEW WEEK'S BILLS

PALACE

"THE LOCKED DOOR." United Artists all-talking screen version of Channing Pollock's play, "The Sign on the Door," featuring Rod La Rocque, Barbara Stanwyck and William Boyd. Directed by George Fitzmaurice. Reviewed Saturday night.

The most thoughtful and most expert employment of all the agencies of entertainment known to the modern picture theater offered local theatergoers in many months is to be enjoyed at the Palace this week. There is, perhaps, no single item on the bill—feature picture, stage show or short subject—that bears the stamp of greatness, but in diversity of content and the apprehension of that elusive quality loosely, but conveniently, known as "class," the current program stands well to the fore.

"The Locked Door" is a well acted, well directed and handsomely mounted melodrama in which the only conspicuous flaws are those which may be laid at the door of Mr. Pollock, author of the original play. Plausibility is spread very thinly indeed over his dramatic structure, suspense none to well sustained and the denouement comes with a suddenness that is just a trifle disconcerting, but despite these deficiencies interest is not permitted to wander from the screen while Mrs. Reagan is trying to wriggle out of the mess in which she has involved herself by attempting to save her husband from the charge of murder. The rapidity with which the climacteric scenes pursue each other across the screen serves somewhat as a distraction from their obvious transparency.

The principal roles are played with color and fineesse by Rod La Rocque, Barbara Stanwyck, William Boyd and Betty Bronson. Miss Stanwyck, especially, lends strength to her role by a forceful reading of lines to which a naturally deliberate manner adds effectiveness. The William Boyd of stage fame also creates an immediate impression of power and La Roque, as the menace, is no less skillful. Miss Bronson has little to do and in doing it takes her place in the van of a large number of supporting players who maintain a high standard of excellence.

"Dresden China," the first of the Loew stage units to reach the Capital, is tasteful, diversified and immaculate. Peopled by a cast of principals and a Chester Hale ensemble among which are many fine voices, it presents frequent concerted numbers of more than usual harmonic richness as well as solo intervals of rare beauty. Nor is it lacking in either comedy or brilliant terpsichorean moments. In fact, it may be said to have everything.

Patti Spear is the prima donna whose vibrant soprano is heard in a wide range of selections, including "Am I Blue?" "Let Us Dance the Night Away" and Herbert's "Giannina Mia." Miss Spear is young, vivacious and endowed with a voice of clarity, range and considerable power, particularly in the upper register. She is supported by an excellent barytone and a splendid tenor, whom I take to be the Messrs. Jolly and Smith. Collins and Peterson are a pair of low comedians who work straight, one of them proving a cornetist of no mean ability. The Rodion Dancers, two girls and a man, offer an adagio dance that reverses the usual order by giving the male slightly the worst of it in wear and tear. Georgie Tapps is by far the best tap dancer I have seen, man and boy, these last several years and the Chester Hale Girls evidently were selected by an expert in periphery—which, as I understand it, has something to do with curves!

A special arrangement of "Singing in the Rain," overture for the week, introduces first Washington use of the wide-angle screen and combines orchestra, organ, recorded voice, wide-screen projection and realistic "storm sheet" to achieve a positively devastating effect. I seem to see here the deft creative hand of Mr. Colby Harriman in characteristic mood.

The Metrotone and M-G-M newsreels complete an ample diversion.
